There is a little church in France today
Where once a simple maiden knelt, who now
Wears God's insignia upon her brow—
First of the Lilies, warrior of the sword
True soldier in the service of the Lord;
Shall you not hard?

There is a little church in France today;
How many prayers have risen thence to you?
For their sake heed another prayer and new,
Strange words yet beautiful your people say,
Bend down between the lilies and the lance,
Saint Jeanne,
"For those Americans who died in France"
Light their souls out!

There is a little church in France today;
Your people kneel about the altar there,
You who were warrior and woman, hear
With hands of very love this prayer they pray:
A simple prayer for those souls chivalrous
Who dared the dark,
"For those Americans who died for us," Jeanne d'Arc.

file of people wish to do something fitting to show their appreciation of the service and sacrifice rendered by our fighting men in the army and navy. Some plan should be determined upon and then carried out. A method of procedure is the first requisite. Many are looking to the Patriotic Service League for action. It seems to the East Oregonian that the league officials should either take charge of the move or else suggest a better method by which the undertaking can be carried out in a manner that will do credit to the cause and to the city. We should not wait too long.

MRS. BRITANIA'S FIRST VOTE

THE English election last week was the first held under the new franchise terms which give the ballot to all men and also to women over the age of 30. In some sections of London the feminine vote outnumbered the vote of the men 10 to one. The women went to the polls early and everywhere manifested a lively interest in the election. The reason the ballot was given only to women above the age of 30 is that the women of England outnumber the men and there was some fear lest the feminine influence should become too strong and sweep away masculine control. If the English women are like the women of America this fear will soon be set at rest. Women voters in the United States have shown no marked tendency to vote for members of their own sex. On the contrary they resent the candidacy of a woman for an office for which she lacks special qualifications. The feminine vote in America seems critical rather than favorable towards female candidates. It time no doubt England will go the full length by giving voting privileges to all women above 21 years of age.

SHELL-SHOCK AND FEAR

THE fact as stated by Surgeon General Ireland that "more than 2,000 American soldiers in France suffering from shell-shock were cured by news of the signing of the armistice" is an interesting contribution to the pathology of nervous disease. These war-hospital patients were not suffering from an imaginary ailment; the physical manifestations of their affliction were apparent, amounting in some cases to bodily disfigurement. Yet their cure seems to have been entirely due to the influence of the imagination, being instantly effected by their realization that they would not again be subjected to the same experience. This evidence of the mind's power over the body will afford great satisfaction to believers in the efficacy of mental or spiritual methods of healing. What have the materialists to say about it? Psychiatrists will allege the capacity of their art to cure disease of this nature, and according to a statement from the Surgeon General's office "improved methods of combating the affliction" in army hospitals have materially reduced it. Yet the fact remains of nature's dramatic and immediate Germany is in for a siege of revolts, near revolts and rumors of such. The people were kaiser led for so long that they are not accustomed to self government.

The boys will be steadier, stronger and generally more self reliant for their service overseas. Hard service in a noble cause maker for better manhood.

Christmas Celebrated With Care Insures A Happy New Year

It is better to be safe than sorry. In the heading of a circular sent out to fire chiefs and other places in Oregon by State Fire Warden Wells, it contains many useful suggestions for a "safe and sane observance of Christmas." The tree is the central figure through innocent thoughtfulness and carelessness, has been frequently transformed to the depths of grief and despair—the needless sacrifice of human lives and valuable property.

It is better to use electric bulbs in illuminating the Christmas tree, but if you must use candles, be sure that they cannot come in contact with the decorations or the foliage of the tree. Be sure the tree is set securely to prevent its upsetting. Never permit children to light the candles. Disaster is a frequent result. Always keep matches from children, they are bound to experiment surreptitiously. Extinguish candles before distributing the presents.

The above are a few of the wise suggestions offered.
