HOW SOLDIERS MAY BE RELEASED FROM SERVICE

LETTERS, TELEGRAMS SWAMP CONGRESSMEN

Recommendation of Immediate Commanding Officer Necessary.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—In answer to numerous requests that he use his influence to secure the discharge of individual soldiers, sailors and marines from active service, Representative McArthur says that neither the war nor navy departments would discharge a man from the service upon the recommendation of a senator or congressman, but that such action would be taken only upon the recommendation of the immediate commanding officer. The following is a statement given out today by Mr. McArthur on this subject:

"Since the signing of the armistice I have received many letters and telegrams asking that I secure the release of men from the army and navy, and I will say that a very large majority of these cases have been altogether meritorious and that in my judgment the men affected are entitled to an early discharge. Both the war and navy departments, however, have politely but firmly advised me that men will not be discharged from the service upon request of a senator or congressman, but that their cases will be considered only upon the recommendation of immediate commanding officers. This rule may seem harsh and unjust, but if it were otherwise the service in both the army and navy would soon become demoralized. I am therefore advising those who wish to secure the release of relatives and friends from the service to have their applications made through the commanding officers.

How Discharged.
"The war department advises me that enlisted men may be discharged upon their own application where there is sickness or other distress in the soldier's family, or where he is needed to resume employment in an industry or occupation in which there is urgent need of his services; provided such discharge will not disrupt or cripple the military organization to which he is attached. This regulation applies to all soldiers who enlisted or who were inducted into the service since April 1, 1917. Men who enlisted in the regular army prior to that time must serve out their full enlistments.

"The bureau of navigation of the navy department has authorized all commandants and commanding officers to release from active service and discharge from their enlistments 20 per cent of the naval reservists and enlisted men of the regular army who enlisted for the duration of the war and also 10 per cent of the men who enlisted in the regular army for four years between the declaration of war (April 6, 1917) and January 11, 1918. Commanding officers have full authority to make these discharges without referring them to the bureau for approval."
