NEW TOM MOORE PICTURE REPLETE WITH SURPRISES

Tom Moore, now an established Goldwyn Pictures star, has a surprise production for his thousands of admirers in "Thirty a Week," the Goldwyn picture which is being shown at the Altas today.

"Thirty a Week" brings out, as no other Tom Moore vehicle has, the many angles of the handsome, rollicking Irishman's talents. It tells the story of love finding the way to bridge the gulf that separates the strata of a girl of wealth and society and that of a stout-hearted American youth. Dan Murry (Tom Moore) is a chauffeur for a millionaire Wall Street operator, whose daughter, Barbara Wright, is deeply in love with Dan, despite his lowly station.

Her parents have arranged for her marriage with Freddy Ruyter, a man about town, but Barbara frowns upon their scheme. Knowing Dan loves her but fears to take the initiative, Barbara smooths the way for him and they later elope.

MR. FAIRBANKS' NEW PROTOPLAY ONE OF UNUSUAL NOVELTY

Optimism, Humor and Excitement Happily Blended in Picture, "He Comes Up Smiling."

Optimism, humor, excitement and novelty are the principal features of Douglas Fairbanks' new photoplay, "He Comes Up Smiling," which will be presented at the Arcade theatre next Sunday and Monday. The farce upon which the picture is based, was highly successful on the stage several years ago, but it is said the screen version is even more satisfactory to those who like the ingredients which have been provided by Mr. Fairbanks in this splendid production.

The part of Jerry, who is known by the Knights of the Road as "The Watermelon," is that of a young man who has ambition, but who is inclined to live a life of vagabondage. Led by the green wood and an irresistible desire to experience new sensations along the broad highway, Jerry is a character which stands out distinctly as one of enjoyable screen characterizations.

The picture is filled with numerous novel situations and the action is exceedingly rapid. Jerry chases a carry bird over hill and dale; into houses and over rooftops; he is in turn chased by a bevy of bees and he does remarkable stunts in a wild automobile drive across a mountain. The role of the tramp is unique even in his record of unusual characterizations.

Mr. Fairbanks seems thoroughly at home therein.

Marjorie Daw is Mr. Fairbanks' leading woman and a remarkable list of players has been provided to interpret the other roles. Chief among these are Frank Campeau, Herbert Standing, Bull Montana, Jay Dwigins and Kathleen Kirkham.

SISTER MAKES BROTHER ENLIST

Canadian Girl Forces Brother to Enlist and do "His Bit."

Little Amelia Nobbs became a martyr to the cause of patriotism while playing her part in the Triangle dramatic drama, "For Valour," at the Pastime theatre on Sunday and Monday. Amelia must have been born under an unlucky star, for all her father's attention was centered upon her brother. Her father told Amelia that women were useless for anything but housework.

But this brave little girl was endowed with a spirit of bravery and a fervor of patriotism that would well have honored many a man. When Canada was called to give her best and finest youths for the common cause, "Melie" was greatly touched at her country's crisis.

It was then her brother Henry showed his real make-up by shirking his duty and becoming a slacker. Then "Melie" received the opportunity she had longed for—the chance to do her bit; the possibility of serving her country. And so it was that she prevailed upon her brother to enlist. She tried to make him see his country's over-powered need for men, and that it was his duty to volunteer his services to the land of his birth. But Henry was a coward and preferred to hide behind the skirts of the girl he loved rather than accept the honor of fighting for his country.

Chance made Henry a thief, and in his trouble he came to "Melie" for help. It is then that this brave, patriotic child made her supreme sacrifice and wrote her name high in the hallow of Canada's patriots. How "Melie" helped her brother pay back the money he had stolen and made him see "the light" are the thrilling and soul-stirring episodes of this Triangle drama "For Valour." Winifred Allen is starred in this production supported by a cast including Robert Bachman, Henry Weaver and Mabel Ballin.

FEAR OLD OFFICERS PLAN NEW RISING

"League Against Bolshevism" Supplied With Money by Nobility.

By FRANK J. TAYLOR. (United Press Staff Correspondent.) BERLIN, March 30. (By Mail.)—Radical leaders in Germany are sure they see in preparation a coming military attempt to control the country in the guise of the "League Against Bolshevism," which has millions of marks at its disposal.

Their concern is not confined to sympathy they may have for the Bolshevik cause, but in fear that the militarists will again get control of the country and the government some of the radicals go so far as to say Germany is now practically in the hands of the militarists, and that the Noske maneuvers are simply a means by which the unsuspecting government has militarism thrust upon it.

The charge is hardly supported by the government's action in becoming more and more liberal in politics, under stress of attacks from the workmen. However, there is reason to believe the radicals are not entirely without basis for their militarism fears.

Germany's greatest military danger comes from the seventy-five thousand officers and old army men within close proximity of Berlin, who made the army their profession formerly and who are now entirely untrained for any other profession and are not keen to take up ordinary work.

It is an open secret these men want to see a semblance of the old regime back. Their situation is pitiable, since they have served their country faithfully and are now without support, unless the government continues the old system of granting them government positions as a reward for their services.

This is just what the radicals fear, and they are condemning the cabinet for ordering the old system sustained, at least until the present generation of officers and soldiers are no longer to be dealt with. These men are dangerous in the government, the radicals claim, since they could at any time join a military coup.

In addition the radicals demand the complete disbanding of the Hindenburg Army of the east, now guarding the doors of Russia against bolshevism. This, with the other forces the government has under arms and the officers and soldiers at large, gives a military force of some three hundred thousand, which, it is claimed by the radical leaders, is pledged to rise to arms in case the proletariat gets the power in Germany.

Officers have again begun to flaunt their gray uniforms on Berlin boulevards in full dress and covered with decorations. Until recently the officers did not wear their decorations, only armbands.

The so-called "League against Bolshevism" is plentifully supplied with money by capitalists and the former radical leaders in Russia, but there is also ground for their belief that militarists are secretly organizing and are growing stronger. Whether they would use their organization against a democratic government is uncertain.

Officers have again begun to flaunt their gray uniforms on Berlin boulevards in full dress and covered with decorations. Until recently the officers did not wear their decorations, only armbands.

The steady growth of this group, strongly adhered to and supported by the former militarists, or army men, and of the so-called "other hand" forebodes a struggle which will be nothing short of a civil war, if open hostilities ever break out, when both sides claim they must support the government by force.

Milwaukee, Wis.—"I wish all girls who work and suffer from functional disorders would profit by my advice and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Before I was married, when I came home from work at night, I would be just worn out with pains which dragged me down. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and it made me feel like a new woman. I can work from morning until night and it does not bother me, and I wish all girls who suffer as I did would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. H. DOOLEY, 1135 26th Street, Milwaukee, Wis.

Working girls everywhere should profit by Mrs. Dooley's experience, and instead of dragging along from day to day with life a burden, give this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial. It has overcome just such conditions for thousands of others, and why not for you? For special advice, write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of their 40 years experience is at your service.

YANK MADE "OVER THERE" POPULAR IN GERMANY

All musicians like appreciative audiences and followings. This one, musician Joe Foster of the Fifty-first U. S. Pioneer Infantry band, has both. Joe has been stationed in Cochem, Germany. He has picked up only a few phrases in German, but somehow, he says, he and the German boys and girls understand each other perfectly when he plays. "Over There" is one of their favorites.
