NEED AMERICANS IN REBUILDING FRANCE

French Fear Industrial Nations Will Leave "Cup-board Bare."

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS (United Press Staff Correspondent). PARIS, April 26. (By mail)—Will Americans be allowed to participate as business men in the rebuilding of Northern France? Or will the French government throw a protective wall around the devastated regions and admit only builders of their own nationality on the theory that whatever profit is to be derived out of the reconstruction ought to go to those who have suffered most on account of the war? This question is uppermost here now. Both sides has its defenders. Each is eloquently sustained. But there are signs that the anti-wall crowd will win and that France will welcome both American gold and American builders. Run Away With Business. The thesis of the protective wall faction is that France is in such a run-down condition as the result of four and a half years of war that her industrial resources are scarcely in a position to fight successfully against their brothers from America. Americans, with their huge factories, cheap raw materials and superior organization, can build machinery such as is needed in the mills of Northern France more quickly and cheaper than can be done in France and, that such being the case, these industrial nations—Americans and the English, also, a great industrial people—running away with the business of starting up Northern France again, pocketing all the profits and leaving the Frenchman in the position of Mother Hubbard's well-known dog. That is, by the time he could get his business going good the job of reconstruction would be finished. Must Not Delay. The "Antis" use the same argument, but with reverse English. They admit much of the reconstruction business will be captured by Americans and British because they are in a position to do the work without delay, but—here is the whole point—It is little to the advantage of France as a nation that there should be as little delay as possible. They point out that Germany has not been damaged by shellfire; that her mills are in a going condition; that, in order to keep the economical life of Germany going German industries must be allowed to start up as soon as possible—otherwise the Germans will not be in a position to meet their own home expenses, let alone pay the huge debt they owe the allies as the result of the war. This being the case, with German industry grinding full blast, French industry must likewise speed ahead and at once, otherwise it will be hopelessly outdistanced by the resourceful enemy of yesterday. Need Capital. Furthermore, they declare, France will need for a good many years to come, American and English capital and capital will not go where industry of the same nationality cannot find root. The French franc will tend to become cheaper and cheaper and the dollar and pound sterling dearer and dearer. Roy Temple Sails for France. A high French official of the Ministry of Reconstruction told me that American co-operation would be well-come in France, thus forecasting the triumph of the open-door faction. "The real opposition," he said, comes from the interested parties, those who wish personally to profit through enterprises undertaken in the north. The opposition is not national. France realizes she absolutely must have this co-operation and France and America will find a way. And there is ten years of intensive work—rebuilding the devastated regions, ten years of it for all of us working hard together. Americans with the rest." Roy Temple Sails for France. Roy Temple, Pendleton boy who is a member of the U. S. navy, sailed yesterday on his second trip to France according to a wire received by his mother, Mrs. Al Shuster. Roy landed a few days ago after making a trip

Thrilling Rescue Made By Americans Who Save Japan Maid From Water

HONOLULU, Hawaii, April 26.—A thrilling rescue of a fair Chinese maid was effected in Honolulu at great risk of life upon the part of Al Evans, chief steward of the Shinyo Maru, and F. C. Blalaw, customs inspector of this city. The fair maid from San Francisco's Oriental section was en route to the land of her forefathers. When the Shinyo came to dock she was sitting upon the rail gazing at the wonders of the harbor. The boat lurched there came a piercing scream as the maiden toppled head downward into the water. The woman had gone down once.

As the men swam toward her she went down a second time. Blalaw was the first to reach her side. She clutched him about the neck. Evans swam toward the struggling pair. Between the two of the men they brought the fair maiden to shore. Upon regaining her composure she faintly implanted a thankful kiss upon the cheek of each of the rescuers.

After Your Baby Is Born
Think Now About the Time to Come Afterwards.

When you hold in your arms your tiny new baby, you will feel that before its arrival you did all in your power to give it a happy pre-natal existence. Scientifically, the thoughts and feelings of the expectant mother greatly affect the health and disposition of the future infant. For over half a century thousands of women who have used the time-honored remedy, Mother's Friend, say that they calmed their nerves, escaped nausea, nervousness and that peculiar distressing feeling so usual where nature is unaided. They thus preserved a wonderfully bright and happy disposition, which reflects so markedly upon the unborn child. By the regular use of Mother's Friend the nerves are made and kept elastic and readily yield to nature's demand for expansion without the usual wrenching strain. The nerves are not drawn upon, and as a consequence the expectant mother is calm and serene and the nights are not disturbed with nervous twitchings, and the child is one of joy and happiness. With the Bradford-Regulator Company, Dept. F, Lamar Building, Atlanta, Georgia, for their Motherhood Book, of value to every woman, and get a bottle of Mother's Friend from your druggist and begin a treatment that will bring real results.

HERE ARE SOUTH SEA ISLANDS BRITISH AND JAPS WOULD DIVIDE

"All south of the equator is yours, all north of the equator, ours," said the Japs to the British, proposing a divvy of the German colonies in the Pacific in 1917. And the British agreed. Also the Japs were to have that portion of the Shantung peninsula taken from China by the Germans and from the Germans by Japan. The secret pact is just made public at the peace meet and it's one of the sticking points of the peace treaty. On the map the former German possessions in the Pacific are circled. The agreement would give the Japs four groups of islands north of the equator with a combined area of 1950 square miles and a population of 70,000. It would bring under British control, exercised through Australia, 25,000 square miles with a population of 100,000.
