HERE COMES THE BRIDE—AND GROOM

Everybody knows what Irene Castle looks like. Everybody's asking, what is the new husband of the famous dancer like. Here he is.

IN LIFE'S GARDEN.

Out in Life's Garden where sympathy grew,
Got planted a soul—'twas the soul o' you.

Life's wonderful garden Love seeking went through
Till he found a heart—'twas the heart o' you.

I have sought through Life's Garden of roses and rue
And I find one sweet blossom all jeweled with dew.

Love, Smathy, Faith—all unchanging and true—
Are the heart of my flower—dear Mother, 'tis you.

28 YEARS AGO

(From the Daily East Oregonian May 10, 1891.)

Miss Kate Dillon is visiting Pendleton friends.

Dr. William Ely arrived last night from Troy, Ohio. He is a classmate of Dr. E. Guyon and will locate at Weston.

A light frost occurred last night on the hills north of Pendleton. It nipped garden truck a little but did no damage to grain or fruit.

Articles of incorporation were filed today by the Alliance Publishing Company, the incorporators being, W. A. McCook, J. H. Morrison, W. A. Sample. The purpose of the company is to engage in a general printing and publishing business and to publish the "Alliance Herald."

AGAINST COMMON SENSE

HERE is a way to look at the League of Nations issue.

League or no league the leading civilized nations of the world, headed by the United States, England and France, must care for the peace of the world. No nation lives by itself any longer. A war that disrupts a part of the world endangers all the world. The world war proved this to the satisfaction of all and we must accept the facts, like them or not.

If then we must thus carry the burden, why not get down to a systematic plan of action along certain logical lines? Why leave the matter to chance? The League of Nations covenant provides a systematic plan for handling duties that must be met in any event. We can either work along such businesslike lines or we can rely on makeshift arrangements such as we have had and which arrangements came within an ace of allowing a German victory over the world.

If we could escape our world duties by not having a league the situation would be different. But we cannot and we know it from experience.

The men who oppose the league covenant want the great powers to do the very things the league will do but they want the powers to work along haphazard lines. They defy common sense.

COMPENSATIONS

THE poor farm superintendent reports that attendance at his institution has fallen off greatly since the advent of prohibition which has removed the cause of much poverty. It may also be stated with truth that the dry regime has brought healthier looks to the faces of many men who were never at the poor farm but might have reached that resort in time had they continued to work for John Barleycorn.

Could New Yorkers realize these facts they would not feel so badly about the blow soon to descend upon them. But New York is in the dismal period and only time can relieve such grief. They want the stuff even though they know it is poison.

A nearby competitor complains that the peace treaty handed the Germans to sign is too sentimental. What would you do, put them all in a submarine and sink it?

At the present price of prunes East End farmers are almost willing to take their trees to bed with them if necessary to forestall Jack Frost.

If the Republicans uphold the League of Nations Borah quits them he says; if the Republican party does not uphold the league the country will quit it.

The court house roof will be repainted; while the price of iron is high what's the matter with selling the fence?

Tomorrow we lose the motor car and secure an easier train into Portland.

THE FUNNYBONE

The Cold Gray Dawn.

"What's that noise?"

"Nothin', darlin', it's only night falling."

"Sounds more like day breaking."

In Favor.

"You seem to stand pretty well with this waitress."

"She already thinks enough of me not to bring me a piece of yesterday's pie."

Mutual.

A celebrated statesman, when dining with a certain duchess on her 80th birthday, said, in proposing her health:

"May you live, my dear duchess, until you begin to grow ugly!"

Her grace's tongue was as ready as his own.

"I thank you, sir," she replied; and may you long continue your taste for antiquities."

Innocent.

The irate old gentleman put his head out of the remains of his window and espied some small forms looking up at him from below.

They all dispersed but one.

"Look here, you young rascal, did you break my window?"

"No sir."

"Do you know who did?"

"No sir; I don't know nothin' about it."

"Well, get away, I don't want you hanging around here."

"All right, mister. Will you give me my ball before I go?"

"Give you your ball? Why, where is it?"

"I think it is in your front parlor."

There's A Reason.

"Hey there!" said a motorist blocked by a load of hay. "I say there, pull up and let me by. You seemed in a hurry to let that other fellow's carilage get past."

"That's 'cos his horse was eatin' my hay," returned the farmer. "There ain't no danger of yew eatin' it, reckon."

EAST OREGONIAN SPECIAL NEWS OF UMATILLA CO.

Officials of Railroad Visit Umatilla Yard

UMATILLA, May 10.—The following O. W. R. & N. Co. officials visited Umatilla this week and looked over plans for the future. B. Palmer, superintendent; A. J. Buckley, assistant superintendent; W. O. Brown, division store keeper; M. C. Williams, chief engineer.

The pupils of the Umatilla school were given a treat when they were hurriedly escorted down to the railroad track and boarded on the flat car to take their first look at a French tank. Many of the pupils took their turn in climbing into the seat in which the gunner is supposed to sit when in action. The car was camouflaged in the usual colors and in many ways deceived the visitors. Few persons agreed as to which end was the tail and head. Some declared it had neither.

The terms of school for Umatilla school closes June 6.

The motion picture machine is expected to be here any day. Several films have been secured in advance and the public will receive the very best service possible.

The annual school meeting will be held June 15.

A class of boys is being organized to instruct their parents along the line of manual training and it is probable that some phase of this work will be introduced into the schools in the near future.

Several parties are in town looking up a location for a garage. Umatilla will have several new buildings before fall.

The Newport Highway company has moved its outfit here and pitched camp on one side of the town.

Our deputy assessor, Mr. Yerxa, has been under the weather lately. While out on duty recently he collapsed and was found unconscious along the public highway.

50 ENLISTED MEN LOOSE $2000 IN CANTINE ROBBERY

NEW YORK, May 10.—The propensity of bad news to spread rapidly was interestingly illustrated early Friday morning when about three hundred soldiers and seamen, asleep at the War Camp Community Service canteen No. 12, 127th street and Lexington avenue awoke without the aid of clocks or nudges. At seven o'clock—which in this instance proved the most distressing of zero hours—the management of the canteen discovered that the money and valuables of fifty men in the service had been stolen in their envelopes from the canteen office.

While what might be described as a semi-tripling three hundred soldiers and seamen were standing in front of the canteen office desk to learn the particulars of which there was a dearth. They were informed that fifty envelopes were missing, some unopened, and the office door in the absence of the night clerk and when the envelopes for which there had been no room in the safe. All the doors not included in the loss were given their property immediately.

For a while it promised to be a rather drab Sunday for the fifty victims of a community fate, but when officials of the War Camp Service promptly went to the canteen and supplied all of the robber service men with ample funds to tide them over the day. There will be full restitution, so far as it is possible.

If a friend comes to your office to borrow money and finds you in, you'll be out, but if he finds you out you'll be in.

Parrot Foils Burglary In Home of Wealthy

SAN FRANCISCO, May 10.—A daring and cleverly planned holdup at an early hour this morning by a lone burglar of the fashionable country home of T. A. Skinner, rich San Francisco automobile man, at 27 Crystal Springs road, San Mateo, was frustrated by the wild shrieks of a pet parrot.

Before entering the house through an open window, the burglar cut all of the telephone wires leading into the home.

His footfalls aroused a Japanese maid. Before she could make an outcry the burglar stuffed a handkerchief in her mouth. Just as he was about to proceed with his work of looting the place the parrot awoke "I don't know you!" This awakened Mrs. Skinner, who was sleeping with her daughter, Miss Doris Skinner, on an outside sleeping porch. Mr. Skinner ran to the front veranda and fired a shot at the fleeing form of the intruder.

Nothing in the home was touched. The burglar is described as being young of medium height and having dark features.

A great man's strength may be brought out by crushing him. Some eggs are built that way, too.

ELECTRICALLY HEATED SUITS KEEP OCEAN AIRMEN WARM

How do transatlantic airmen keep warm? They press a button—at least that's the way with Wood (left) and Wylie, the two who started to fly from Britain to America and fell into the Irish sea. They have suits with electric warming devices. They expect to fly again soon.
