

AUSTRIA MUST SURRENDER WAR POWER, ACCEPT NEW BOUNDARIES AND LEAGUE

"BIG 4" QUESTION MODIFICATIONS FOR GERMANY

Counter Proposals Practically Constitute New Treaty, Experts Study Every Point

FRENCH ARE AGAINST LEAST CONCESSION

Admittance to League, Responsibilities Alterations Considered.

BY FRED FERGUSON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, June 2.—The fact that the German counter proposals practically constitute a new treaty led to belief that the allies' reply may not be completed before the end of next week. Under the direction of the big four experts have been commissioned to study every point Germany has raised with a view of singling out any well founded suggestions.

The French are unqualifiedly against even the slightest concession but some Paris newspapers express the belief that some minor alteration will be made to permit the German delegation to save its face in signing the treaty. Unofficial information to the United Press obtained last week that allied delegates are inclined to favor unimportant modifications for this purpose created a furor in the French press.

Invasion of Indians Causes Uneasiness

NOGALES, Ariz., June 2.—Several hundred Yaqui Indians invaded Guaymas, Mexico, during the night according to reports today. The Yaquis, well armed and equipped, are suspected to be Villa sympathizers. Another Yaqui force partially surrounded Esperanza south of Guaymas. It is reported they are expected to attack soon.

Mexican federal troops are being concentrated at Oriz to take the field against the Yaquis. Much uneasiness is felt here for the safety of Americans in that vicinity. It is understood here a party of American business men on a trade promoting expedition have been at Guaymas and may be still in that vicinity.

ALL ROAD MEASURES SHOULD BE APPROVED SAYS THOMPSON

Support of all three of Oregon's road measures on the ballot at the special election tomorrow is advocated by W. L. Thompson, member of the state highway commission. Two of the measures, especially, have more than usual significance to Umatilla county, while the third, the Roosevelt Highway bond issue, is of direct benefit to one part of the state.

The 6 per cent county bonding measure will allow counties to complete projects now under way. If passed, according to Mr. Thompson, at present, counties with much indebtedness are unable to raise sufficient money to take up large highway projects and the new law would allow them the privilege of bonding after voting the bonds.

THE C-5 JUST AFTER BROKE FROM MOORINGS; BELONGING TO THE U.S. NAVY, IT ALVIN YORK AND MEMBERS OF CONGRESS

This remarkable photograph (at top) shows the great excitement that prevailed at St. Johns, Newfoundland, when the United States navy dirigible C-5 was blown away by a gale and sailed out to sea unmanned. After her great non-stop flight to Newfoundland from Montauk Point, Long Island, it was believed that the C-5 would start on a trans-Atlantic flight and that she had a good chance to beat out the NC flying boats. In this picture she is seen two minutes after she broke away from her moorings and floated away.

Senators and congressmen were glad to honor the big Yank in the picture (below) for he is the war's greatest hero. He is Sergeant Alvin C. York, Tennessee mountaineer, and his record is 20 Germans killed with his rifle, 132 captured and 32 machine guns put out of action. Representative Cordell Hull, at the left, and Senators Kenneth McKellar of Tennessee, and Chamberlain of Oregon, on the other side of Sergeant York, busy day sightseeing in the national capital.

BROWNFIELD'S WEALTH $8000, SAYS ANSWER

Placing his total wealth at between $7000 and $8000, Charles W. Brownfield today filed a 30-page answer to the divorce complaint recently filed against him by his wife, Clara A. Brownfield. In which she alleged him to be worth more than $250,000. The report, a voluminous document, admits ownership of a number of pieces of property named in the complaint, but values them at from one-tenth to one-fiftieth the amount Mrs. Brownfield names. Numerous pieces of property are said to be in the name of his daughter, Gladys Irene Brownfield, the answer shows, but the defendant declares that she does not hold the property in trust for him. There was a mutual agreement between the plaintiff and defendant that the daughter should be deeded certain property, the answer says.

The property in the suit, alleged worth $250,000 by Mrs. Brownfield, is valued at $10,000 in the answer. He says he holds but $1400 in bonds instead of $30,000, and notes valued at $4200 instead of $30,000.

Brownfield admits having buried $2000 in his cellar, as mentioned in the divorce complaint, but says he did it for security as he was given the gold after banking hours. He denies the accusation that he is miserly and removed property from the home.

OLCOTT DECISION EXPECTED WEDNESDAY

SALEM, June 2.—It is now practically certain that the supreme court will hand down the long expected decision in the Olcott-Hoff mandamus proceedings next Wednesday.

Chief Justice McBride indicated that the decisions which are due to come down on Tuesday will be delayed until Wednesday because of the special election.

That the supreme court will sustain the contention of Attorney-General Brown that Mr. Olcott is governor-in-fact and entitled to serve the full unexpired term of the late Governor Withycombe is the general belief in Salem.

If this is done the governor will resign immediately as secretary of state and name a successor to that office. In that event, it likewise seems certain that Samuel A. Koenig, deputy secretary of state, will receive the appointment.
