ROSES RECALL PIONEER GARDENS

The myriads of roses on display today at Pendleton's fourth annual Rose Show bring to the minds of Pendleton pioneers the roses of long ago when the early settlers of the city first grew the blossoms.
Lot Livermore, pioneer of Pendleton remembers the days when roses first bloomed in Pendleton, and when the spot where the First National Bank now stands was a waving grain field. The field was owned by the Goodwins, proprietors of the Goodwin House, the city's first hotel, which stood where Hotel Pendleton now stands.
According to Mr. Livermore, when he settled here 50 years ago and entered the mercantile business, the four or five families which comprised the village raised gardens, but it was not until about 35 years ago that roses were first grown. Mrs. Bailey, mother of D. W. Bailey of this city, was among the pioneer rose growers and raised several kinds at her home on Water street. Mrs. George Webb, mother of Mrs. Frank Frazier of Pendleton, also grew roses, as well as other flowers here 55 years ago. A lilac tree still stands in the yard where the Webb residence was located on Alta street. The Yellow Mission Rose was very popular at that time and continues to be one of the best known varieties of this section.
"Fifty years ago," said Mr. Livermore, "there was freighted from Umatilla to Boise and I can remember when there was a heavy cloud of dust all the way from Umatilla to Idaho. I also recall the controversy when the county seat was to be changed from Umatilla to another point in the county.
"Not only was Pendleton a candidate," continued Mr. Livermore, "but Swift's Station also sought the honor. Finally Pendleton and this station were made into one district, with boundaries from the mouth of Wild Horse and Birch creeks. Thus the votes from this section over balanced the votes from Umatilla, and a committee was appointed to make arrangements for the change. The members of that committee named the town Pendleton in honor of a southerner who was prominent in politics at that time."
Little trouble was experienced from the Indians, according to the pioneer although all the settlers were careful to band closely together. A building on the site occupied now by the court house served the double purpose of school house and church.

HUSBAND SHOTS MAN WHO INSULTS WIFE

C. H. Scott of Ontario is Killed by Sewing Machine Man.

ONTARIO, Ore., June 4.—Charles F. Cole of Nampa, Idaho, a sewing-machine agent, shot and instantly killed C. H. Scott, also of Nampa, in a room in the Jordan Valley hotel in Jordan Valley, Sunday afternoon. The only witnesses of the tragedy were Cole and his wife.
When given a hearing before coroner's jury at Jordan Valley Monday Cole declared that Scott insulted Mrs. Cole and was embracing her when killed. Cole used a .32 automatic pistol. In telling his story again to District Attorney R. W. Swartzler, Cole displayed no signs of regret for his action. He was taken to Vale yesterday to be held for trial before the district court.
"Mrs. Cole and I were sitting in the room when Scott came in," said Cole. "Scott had evidently been drinking and I asked him to leave. This led to other words and we quarreled. Finally when he quieted down and I thought he was going to leave, he went over to where Mrs. Cole was sitting and threw one of his arms around her shoulder and made an insulting remark. I pulled my gun and shot him."

Aid Asked for Miners.
SPOKANE, Wash., June 3.—A resolution asking congress to take measures to relieve American magnesite producers whom it is declared are confronted with the destruction of their industry because of importation of foreign magnesite, was passed by the inland Empire Employers' association at a meeting here today. It was recently announced that magnesite plants at Shewach have been closed because of inability to meet foreign competition.

LOG CRUSHES BOY, ROLLING OVER HIM AS CHAIN IS PULLED

SOUTH BEND, June 3.—Thomas W. Larkin, Jr., aged 18, was almost instantly killed Wednesday night in the camp of the Trap Creek Logging company at Nallpee about 15 miles east of this city. Young Larkin was working as a "chaser," following logs as they were snaked out of the woods by a donkey engine a log which was balanced upon another log in such a way that the moment the chain was let go the log began to roll. Before he could get out of the way the log knocked him down and rolled over his head.
Young Larkin was a son of Thomas Larkin, manager of the Trap Creek Logging company. His father and mother were in Aberdeen, Mr. Larkin taking an enforced vacation because of an injury to his hand, sustained about two weeks ago while working in the camp. The funeral service was held in Centralia today.

JILTED MAN EQUAL TO THE OCCASION; HE WEDS ANOTHER

HARRISBURG, June 3.—Joseph Solar of Rieselton, with his best man and an assemblage of friends, waited long at the Serbian Orthodox church here for the appearance of Maria Tolic, the bride-elect, when a message came that she had decided not to marry him and had left the city.
Solar told the gathering that it was his wish to disappoint them. They had come to see a wedding, the Rev. Dr. J. Brudovich was already frocked for the ceremony, a wedding feast was all prepared. All that was needed was a bride. Is somebody would produce her the ceremony would go on. In a short time Teresa Chasa was presented. She said she was willing to marry Solar if he would have her. It was perfectly agreeable to him and after a marriage license was hastily taken out the couple were wedded.

SPORT SUIT IS FIFTY FIFTY

"What position do you occupy in the matrimonial firm? Manager?"
"No; she's that. I was the cash boy, but since the baby came, I am only the floorwalker."

The silk sport suit is in particular favor this season, as evidenced by this successful model in pink Kumei-Kuma silk, with blouse and skirt, cuffs, vestee and flapping pockets of figured fabric. The wide hat is of the same material with a picot edged sash of deep rose, and a rose and black silk scarf as a final touch.

Prices and Values

Cheap prices in meats as in all lines of merchandise do not always represent the best values. A tender, well flavored cut of steer beef is certainly better value, even though it cost a trifle more, than the same cut from a tough old cow.

"How Long Will it Take CHIROPRACTIC to Make Me Well?"

Another question we are nearly always asked by prospective patients.
Your RECUPERATIVE power, the length of time have had the disease—whether it is ACUTE or CHRONIC—all determine the length of time required to remove the cause of your disease and allow Nature to make you well.

DON'T WAIT
till your disease is chronic and everything else has failed, give CHIROPRACTIC
a trial now and save yourself time, money, and above all
