MEXICO MAY GET U. S. WINE MAKERS

Wholesale Emigration of Wine Growers May Follow Prohibition.

(By United Press) MEXICO CITY.—(By Mail)—As a result of the prohibition amendment to the national constitution of the United States there promises to be something in the nature of a wholesale emigration of vine growers and wine makers from California to Mexico.

Information has been received from that state that there are in the neighborhood of one hundred thousand persons engaged in that industry who are looking toward Mexico as offering the only possible relief from the ruin with which they are threatened by the prohibition law. They are the owners of hundreds of thousands of acres of vine grapes, which will become of little value with the enforcement of the amendment, since the varieties of fruit adapted to the making are not suitable for other purposes, except to a limited extent.

There are extensive areas, especially in the northern portion of Mexico which possess all the requisites of soil and climate conditions for the growth of grapes and the making of wine to fully as great an extent and of fully as high a character as California. This has been demonstrated notably in Coahuila, as well as in some of the other states, and the national government has for some time been encouraging the cultivation of the grape and importing millions of cuttings of vines adapted to this country.

The Mexican Consul-General in San Francisco, Ramon P. De Negri, is taking an active interest in the proposed emigration of California wine growers to Mexico, and has notified his government that at least eighty thousand persons, largely of foreign ancestry, are now preparing to leave their adopted state and intend coming to Mexico.

President Carranza has signified his lively interest in the movement and plans are now being prepared by the department of agriculture for welcoming these immigrants and aiding them in re-establishing their industry. All of the northern states—Sonora, Sinaloa, Chihuahua, Coahuila, Nuevo Leon, Tamaulipas, etc.—possess extensive areas that are adapted to the cultivation of wine grapes.

THE FUNNYBONE

A Mischance.
 "You Americans are queer people," remarked the English visitor.
 "Now's that, Lord Blessus?"
 "You speak of a swindler as a confidence man."
 "Well?"
 "By Jove, sir, you can't put any confidence in the bally chap at all."

Higher Journalism.
 "Just a moment before you start to writing your interview with Flappers, the aviator," said the city editor.
 "Yes, sir?" replied the youthful reporter.
 "See if you can't describe him without using 'intrepid.' The word has been a trifle overworked in connection with airmen."

Time Limit.
 "It says here that a Missouri man boasts that he has an umbrella that has been in his possession for 20 years," said Smith.
 "Well," replied Jones, "that's long enough. He ought to return it."

Too Truthful.
 Mother.—There were two apples in the cupboard, Tommy, and now there is only one. How's that?
 Tommy (who sees no way of escape).—Well, ma, it was so dark in there I didn't see the other.

They Did Not.
 "Remember, son, Garfield drove miles on a cowpath and Lincoln split rails."

"I know dad; but, say, did any of these presidents ever crank a cold motor in a blizzard for half an hour before he discovered that he didn't have any gasoline?"

Dad's Bitterness.
 Tommy.—And have you noticed, dad, how often mother says, "And so on, and so on?"

dress: "This morning children, I propose to offer you an epitome of the life of St. Paul. It may be perhaps that there are among you some too young to grasp the meaning of the word 'epitome.' 'Epitome,' children is in its significance synonymous with synopsis!"

Gambling has taught many a young man how he can't make money.

Anyway, there's no danger of an old toper's dying of water on the brain.

The Pit of Sin.
 A visitor to a school began his address with the words: "The Tower of Babel."

and so on?"

His Father.—Yes, my son; but it never applies to buttons.

It Was Tired Once.
 "I believe that everybody ought to say exactly what he thinks in his own way."

"And yet," replied the slow-speaking man, "that plan didn't seem to help much at the Tower of Babel."
