MOTION PICTURE NEWS

What the Picture Theaters Have to Tell You.

ARCADE TODAY

One of those thrilling, shivery crook dramas, with the flash-light business in front of the safe at midnight, and revolvers glinting from behind curtains when least expected, is promised in "The Silk-Lined Burglar," which will be seen today at the Arcade theatre.

Priscilla Dean is the star, and, as might be guessed, the "silk-lined" burglar as well. She is not in the burgling business, but the job she does with the assistance of the redoubtable Boston Blackie should earn her a union card without delay. From the opening scene, when Boston-Blackie, audaciously cooking "safe-blowers soup"—nitro-glycerine happens to see in the paper Doris Mason's advertisement for a "thoroughly efficient" yeggman, until the last surprising climax, the picture is one succession of thrills.

Sam De Grassie is the Boston Blackie of this Universal Special Attraction, and Ashton Dearholt is Robert Melchoir, the young Secret Service agent, to aid whom Doris embarks on her career of crime. Others in the cast are Lillian West, Sam Appel and Fred Kelsey. The photoplay is from one of the celebrated Boston Blackie stories by Jay Boyle, appearing in the Red Book Magazine. It was directed by Jack Dillon.

PASTIME SUNDAY AND MONDAY MARGUERITE CLARKE IN "WILDFLOWER" HAS A BEWITCHING PART

Marguerite Clarke, the dainty, magnetic star, made her debut in motion pictures through the medium of the Paramount production of "Wildflower," from the novel by Mary Germaine. Miss Clarke attained the triumph of her brilliant career in "Baby Mine," and it is said that "Wildflower" in which she will be seen at the Pastime theatre Sunday and Monday provides her with many situations similar to those in her stage success, in point of charm and an opportunity for the display of the many winsome qualities which she possesses.

"Wildflower" is a bewitching characterization, constructed for just such a star as Miss Clarke. The story is a drama of the lights and shadows of the sun-kissed forest, and the depths of an ashadows of human life. "Wildflower" is painted as a child of nature, who knows not the meaning of love, until the one man waiting in all the world for her proves to her that it is something other than mere desire and selfishness. From the crucible of the world's many heartaches little Wildflower emerges with the wonderful lesson learned, and at last finds happiness in the true love of a good man.

There are many tender passages in the production, many humorous touches, and some tinged with the little sadnesses that creep into any true story of life. But Wildflower sheds her fragrance, throughout the four four reels of the subject, a thing of beauty always, and always a symbol of nature's purity.

Marguerite Clarke's characterization in "Wildflower" is a notable one. She is supported by an adequate cast, including Harold Lockwood, James Coney, E. L. Davenport and Jack Pickford.

ARCADE SUNDAY AND MONDAY THRILLING BATTLE WITH LEON FEATURE OF THE "SQUAW MAN"

One of the most thrilling scenes ever photographed in a motion picture is the battle fought by Henry, Earl of Kerhill, with a great lion which the Englishman is slain, and which is graphically pictured in Cecil B. DeMille's superb picturization of Edwin Milton Royle's "The Squaw Man." This photoplay, which is said to be one of the best ever produced by this sterling director, will be shown at the Arcade theatre next Sunday and Monday.

The battle scene is laid in an African jungle. The Earl of Kerhill is an embezzler whose crime has been shouldered by his cousin Jim Wynusgate, to spare Henry's wife Diana, whom Jim loves, disgrace and suffering. After her husband's death in the jungle, Liana traces Jim to Wyoming where he is living on a ranch with his squaw, and after some exceptionally tragic scenes, they are reunited in their mutual love.

The lion used in the picture is perfectly harmless except in a film scene. Assistant director Sam Wood played hide and seek with the big cat at rehearsals, but Thurston Hall who plays the part of Sir Henry, who battles with the lion, entered into the contest with no little misgivings. The lion was lazy and dpreferred dozing to acting. But when the camera clicked the animal was there with both feet as it were and Hall was realistically mauled by the king of beasts.

The various roles are in the hands of stars including Elliott Dexter, Ann Little, Theodore Roberts, Jack Holt, Tully Marshall and others.

ALTA SUNDAY AND MONDAY HUSH! MAY ALLISON BECOMES DARING SLEUTH

"To be a detective is a thrilling experience," says May Allison, beautiful young star of the new Metro comedy-drama "Peggy Does Her Darndest," which will be featured at the Alta theatre on Sunday and Monday.

In this scintillating comedy, Miss Allison is seen in the tom-boy role of Peggy Enslie—a young society girl who is not content with being a girl and who prefers the companionship and sports of her brother to that of her sister. Among the many things which this mischievous and bewitching beauty has taken up as a fast and furious hobby is the baffling art of being a detective. What is so particularly thrilling in this role, says Miss Allison is the fact that it gives a girl the opportunity to appear in all sorts of costumes which she has always wanted to wear and which are not proper to a young lady under ordinary circumstances. It is a role which provides this magnetic young star the greatest opportunities of her brilliant career.
