

NEWS NOTES OF PENDLETON

Meeting of Retail Clerks.
The next meeting of the Retail Clerks' Protective Association is scheduled for next Wednesday, July 9, at the Moose hall.

Lying Funeral Today.
The funeral of the late Robert Laine is being held today from the Laine residence, 521 Thompson street. The Rev. J. Francis Morgan, pastor of the Presbyterian church, is officiating.

Will Hold Clinic.
Dr. and Mrs. David B. Hill will leave tonight for Portland, where Dr. Hill will hold a clinic before the Oregon State Dental Society. He will be assisted by Mrs. Hill. They expect to remain in Portland until Friday.

No Legal Business Today.
Today having been proclaimed a legal holiday by Governor Ben Olcott, one of the local courts were open for business. Several cases pending before the police court were held over for Monday morning and the justice court and circuit courts likewise were closed. Banks, however, did not observe the holiday.

serve the holiday owing to its being so close to the first of the month and the fact that a close today would mean three holidays in a row. All business houses likewise are open and doing the usual Saturday business.

Mrs. Stage Breaks Limb.
Mrs. George Stage, of Weston, fell yesterday while at Bingham Springs and broke her right limb. She was rushed to Pendleton and is now in St. Anthony's hospital.

Will Visit Yellowstone Park.
Miss Alma Rohman, with the Hartman Abstract Co., leaves this evening on an auto trip to Yellowstone Park and the middle west which will occupy her summer vacation period. She will make the trip with friends.

Eastern Party Coming to Round-Up.
Henry Pollak, of Norwalk, Conn., and a party of six will come west for the Pendleton Round-Up this year, planning to leave Chicago on Sept. 15. They will spend the three days here and return to the east, the party being interested chiefly in the local celebration. It will be the first Round-Up for any of the party.

L. R. Welch in Hospital.
L. R. Welch of Freewater is a patient in St. Anthony's hospital, where he was operated upon yesterday for tonsils.

Yesterday Hottest Day.
Yesterday's temperature of 101 reached the climax for the summer. Today it is 98 with a cool breeze. Last night it was 59, one of the hottest nights so far.

R. W. Rittner Returns.
R. W. Rittner returned yesterday from a trip to Bend and Portland. In Bend he attended the installation of the chapter of R. P. O. E. and while in Portland he attended the Shriners' convention.

Home Made Beer Causes Arrest.
Possession of home made beer resulted in the arrest yesterday of Charles Deane by Alf Ofsedal, government agent, in a local rooming house. The case is one for government handling if prosecuted.

Stolen Auto Found.
An auto belonging to Frank Rogers was taken for a joy ride yesterday afternoon and not found until late last night. The machine was abandoned beside the road in the east end of the city.

Pendleton in 1889.
"Pendleton in 1889" is shown in an old picture owned by Judge Joe H. Parkes and which is on display at the Hartman Abstract company. The picture shows the different buildings which stood in Pendleton many years ago.

Conners on Way to Baker.
Charles Conners, alleged Haines bank robber, is being brought to Baker for trial by Sheriff Anderson of Baker county. He was captured in San Francisco last week on information contained in a circular sent out by Sheriff Taylor following his escape from the Umatilla county jail on May 25.

Will Have Hearing Monday.
Robert Grant, brought here from Miles City, Montana, for the alleged theft of an auto belonging to J. M. McCook will likely have his preliminary hearing in justice court Monday. It is said that Grant will enter a plea of not guilty and maintain that he bought the machine from the person who made away with it on the night of April 18.

Hat for Most Popular Cowboy.
A silk beaver hat, valued at $150 or more, will be given by the American Hat Co., of Norwalk, Conn., for the most popular cowboy, by points, at the 1919 Round-Up. A model of the hat will be sent here for exhibition but the article will not be made until the winner is announced and the size and style are known. Henry Pollak, president of the company, made the offer of the hat to Sol Baum while he was in Chicago.

Brother Gets Second Decoration.
Sergeant E. H. Blydenstein, a member of the Canadian forces for 4 years and 3 months, was awarded a meritorious service medal on June 4, for gallantry in action, according to a copy of the London Times of June 5, received today by N. J. Blydenstein, of Pendleton, his brother. Sergeant Blydenstein volunteered with the Canadian forces when war broke out and was once before decorated for valor on the battle field.

Two Alarms at Same Time.
Two Fourth of July fire alarms were answered by the department Friday, both coming at the same time, about 9 o'clock last evening. Both were spreading grass fires and were threatening nearby buildings when put out. One call was on the Tustin street hill, near Jane street and the other in the west end, near the packing plant. Two crews put on for such emergencies by Chief Ringgold, handled the calls in quick time. One blaze was started by firecrackers and the other by a passing train.

CELEBRATION SPARKLERS

Flowers in shades of pink and rose made the floral decorations on the car driven by Mrs. Charles Bond, which won first prize. Dr. P. L. Ingram's car had as its motif a huge Liberty Bell, while the car driven by A. L. Frenzler carried out the Victory idea.

There were enthusiasts galore who cheered the Klitties this morning, but two Scots, Tommy Robertson and Alex McKenzie, were almost delirious with joy as they listened to the music of the bagpipes. "Mon, mon—that's the music," said Tommy.

A real live baby enjoying a swim in a tub and chaperoned by Harvey Bender, drew forth applause from the crowd in the parade. The colthing belonging to the little miss hung on a line above her head.

That soldier with all the sharpshooters' medals is none other than Tex Winship, who has been in France and Germany with the 148th Field Artillery, and who left Pendleton with the troop D boys.

Here's the chow the soldiers are eating today at the banquet: Shrimp salad, cold ham, roast pork, roast veal, potato salad, ice cream, cake and coffee. Besides this, there are the innumerable trifles that go to make up a regular feed.

Overseas caps were a noticeable feature of the service men's parade. Many of the men are today recalling how they spent last Fourth of July while on duty in France.

Camouflage was effectively used in the float of Bond Brothers. The use of the red and blue crazy-patches was responsible for getting several angles of the float and the presence of sailors on the deck gave a realistic touch.

The Peoples Warehouse float which won first prize was like a huge chrysanthemum, with decorations in patriotic streamers. Alexanders float was in a color scheme of red, white and blue, while the Bee Hive float was a typical hive, with several Pendleton girls as the busy bees. Little Horace Baer was Uncle Sam on the Baer's hardware float, while Miss Esther Johnston was Columbia.

Miss Mary Clarke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Clarke, was the charming Salvation Army lassie who appeared on the Elks float. "Her beauty to the float which was inspired by the song 'The Elks' which added the final touch of originality."

by the Salvation Army drive.

Music for the parade was by the Milton and Pendleton bands. The members of the band played untiringly during the procession.

White hats and parasols with purple trimmings marked the members of the B. P. O. E. who marched. Noticeable in the parade were the newly initiated members.

Participating in a celebration at Nolin yesterday in the role of orator the Rev. R. E. Gornall, pastor of the Pendleton Methodist church, rose to fame through winning the three-legged race. After the speaking program was over it was desired by Nolinites to have some rose racing and a collection was taken up for the purpose. The orator of the day along with others was asked to assist financially and did so. It was then that the prize offered for the victors in the three-legged race began to look good to the Pendleton man, who desired to recoup his fortunes. Inducing a young man to be his partner he entered the three-legged race and when the race was run they came over the line as winners.

On south Main street stands a Fourth of July pine tree wherein a duck hides away among the branches. Hunters are warned by a sign which reads "No Hunting Allowed."

The Klitties are so popular that an impenetrable crowd surrounds them as they play on the street corners and as they march along. William McMurray, of Portland, general passenger agent for the O-W. R. & N., was active in assisting local people to make arrangements for the appearance of the Highlanders here.

PARIS SAYS "BE COOL, BE FRILLY!"

If there is one thing more refreshing than a summer breeze it's a crisp organdie frill. Paris decrees that the really smart woman shall indulge heavily in crispness—especially in ruffles!
As a beginning persuade your modiste—or your own clever fingers to create one of these prize confections—the first a delicate English print in black and yellow on a white ground, fashioned divertingly like an apron, and stitched about with black and yellow wool! Behold the perky organdie gumps with its woolly edge! And, of course, never neglect the mere frothy frill of dawn pink organdie, ruffled in cascades and touched up with black satin ribbons.
