MOTION PICTURE NEWS

What the Picture Theaters Have to Tell You.

Famous Screen Players Appear in "The Girl of the Golden West."

In the cast of "The Girl of the Golden West," the splendid Paramount photoplay starring Mabel Van Buren, which will be presented at the Pastime theater Sunday, are many artists, who have achieved signal renown since the production of that picture. Among these are Raymond Hatton, who appeared to great advantage in the support of Geraldine Farrar in many of her famous pictures, Theodore Roberts, one of the best all-around actors identified with motion pictures, House Peters, a leading man of prominence, Anita King, a charming actress, Billy Elmer, Sidney Deane and others.

It is seldom that a photoplay presents so notable a list of screen players. Miss Van Buren has a charming role, that of a man who keeps a saloon in a mining camp in California, during the days of the gold rush in '49, who becomes interested in the welfare of a hunted bandit and who saves his life in a highly dramatic manner. The play is filled with situations of unusual dramatic intensity.

"Two-Gun" Woman Played By Metro Star.

In "As the Sun Went Down," a stirring drama of a rough mining camp, Edith Storey, famous Metro star, will be seen in the strong part of "Colonel Billy," a "two-gun" woman. This picture will be shown at the Alta on Sunday.

Although starting her young life from the wrong end—that of the dance halls and saloons of this vile mining town, "Colonel Billy" has the good, straightforward honesty of character which holds the liking and half-admiration of the men, at least, of the community, she is respected on account of her fairness of mind and accuracy with the gun.

Her own sex treat her with contempt but it is to this woman of the underworld that they all turn to in time of trouble, with the full knowledge that they will receive all the help in her power.

Later, when she finds out that there is no "percentage" in the life she is leading, she has the courage to lift herself out of the depths into an atmosphere of straightness and respect. Miss Storey gives a wonderful characterization of this complex woman—making her at all times thoroughly human and likable, and it is with a feeling of gladness, in the end that we see her happy in the right way.

Louisa M. Alcott's "Little Women" Now Classic of Screen.

Universally recognized as one of the most appealing stories ever written, rich in sentiment, humor and heart charm, "Little Women," the famous novel of Louisa M. Alcott, has been filmed in photoplay form as a Paramount-Artcraft special picture, and this will be shown at Arcadia theater next Sunday. Its presentation is that playhouses will visualize for the first time for admirers of this immortal story, the most celebrated characters in American literature—Meg, Jo, Beth and Amy.

"Little Women" was filmed in and about the Alcott home in Concord, Mass., where the story was written by Miss Alcott in 1858.

The Alcott home has been well preserved and stands today exactly as it did when the story was penned. The producers had the active assistance and cooperation of the surviving members of the cast, and the players selected had the unqualified approval of several residents of Concord who knew Miss Alcott and the little women of whom she wrote.

The four "Little Women," Mes. Jo, Beth and Amy, are portrayed respectively by Isabel Lamson, Dorothy Bernard, Lillian Hall and Florence Finn. Henry is John Brooke and General Naugle plays Laurie. Kate Lester is Marmee. The scenario was written by Anne Maxwell and the director was Harley Knoke. From the standpoint of photography, the picture is unexcelled.

The Hibbard Lady.

She—Look at that sour-faced old maid who has been sitting in one place trying to find out what the couples coming near her are saying. Isn't she a regular sport-spilling wall-flower? He—I would call her rather a rubber-plant.

THE LEAGUE COVENANT

THE AUTHORS OF THESE ARTICLES:

William H. Taft, ex-President of the United States.
George W. Wickersham, formerly U. S. Atty. General.
A. Lawrence Lowell, President Harvard University.
Henry W. Taft, of the New York Bar.

THE PURPOSE:

To discuss and make clear the various articles of the Paris Covenant for a League of Nations, now awaiting ratification by the United States Senate.

Today's Letter Takes Up

ARTICLE X.

The Principle We Fought For
Article X of the League Constitution provides as follows: "The members of the League undertake to respect and preserve against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all the members of the League. In case of any such aggression or in case of any threat or danger of such aggression, the Council shall advise upon the means by which the obligation shall be fulfilled."

The law of the League with the sanction of the power of the League thus forbids the violation of the international commandment, "Thou shalt not steal by force." It is the embodiment of the principle that we entered and fought this war to maintain. It is the answer to the German doctrine announced through its philosophers, its military writers and its avowed policies, that "Might makes right." It is the denial of the principle which Germany set forth in the summing up of her whole Imperial purpose, that conquest by force was essential to the progress of God's world, and that this was His instrument in such conquest.

Objections Answered

We are met by the objection that the United States should not bind itself not to extend its beneficent influence in the work of civilization through conquest. Such objectors argue that in this way the United States has extended its useful dominion to the present borders of Mexico and to the Pacific ocean. If this argument is sound, then the United States should certainly not enter the League. If we yield to it, we ought never to have entered upon the war against Germany. The argument is not in the slightest degree to be distinguished from that of the German philosophers and military men whose purpose Germany was carrying out in this war. If the improvement in civilization and its spread are dependent on war in its present form, involving for the future what is practically world suicide, then surely mankind is in a bad situation. Those who support the League may well leave to the people of the United States and the people of the world the decision whether they prefer a slower method of improving Christian civilization than by one which involves the cruel destruction of one-half the world in order to enable the other half to get on.

The second and the more persuasive objection which is urged to Article X is that it is likely to involve us in wars all over the world, and to require our soldiers to undergo suffering and hardships and to give up their lives in battles waged for remote countries in whose welfare we have but little interest. It is said it will prove to be a heavy burden, both in life and treasure for our people.

How Obligation Is Limited.
In answering this objection, it is to be noted that the operation of Article X to increase the other obligations of the League is comparatively small.

Under Article XI to XVII inclusive, provision is made for the peaceful settlement of all threatening disputes.

The intervention of the League under Article X is, therefore, likely to be invoked only in cases where the victor in a war "legal" under Articles XII, XIII and XV, seeks to impose terms on its enemy contrary to the undertaking of Article X. In all other cases, resort to Article X will be unnecessary because action under it will have been anticipated under other articles. Article X, therefore, enlarges the scope of the obligations of the League much less than has been generally assumed.

Second, should a violation of Article X occur, and the Council advise a plan for fulfilling its obligation by the members of the League, this plan will have to be unanimously agreed upon by the Council. We have constantly one representative in the Council, who must thus join in advising the plan. We can reasonably assume, therefore, that the plan recommended will not involve us in military expeditions unreasonably remote or inconvenient, and that it will advise our action in that part of the world where we can most promptly furnish aid and in respect to wars in which by reason of proximity we naturally have direct interest.

The discussion of this article will be continued in the next letter.

HOUSEHOLD

Delicious Iced Tea.

During the hot weather nearly every housewife makes iced tea daily. With her it is probably just a matter of making tea, pouring it into glasses on big chunks of ice and then perhaps adding a slice of lemon.

But to make real iced tea, with that indefinable fruity flavor, you must make just a little tea, very very strong. Then put it in a pitcher of cold water and while the liquid is still lukewarm squeeze in the juice of half a lemon. It makes so much better when the tea is not too cold. Now comes the most important part—leave the half lemon in.

In a few minutes the rind will give your drink the fruity flavor that is so delicious and refreshing in summer. Then put in your ice! you will not need very much to make it cold. It is such a waste to pour hot tea right on big chunks of ice, as so many people do.

For Painted Ceilings.
Smoked, painted ceilings may be cleaned by washing with cloths wrung out of warm water in which soda has been dissolved.

Hints to Housewife.

- Quicklime will drive away ants.
- Boiling water removes tea stains.
- Never put meat on the ice, but near it.
- Dry all brushes with the bristles downward.
- Rice water should be saved for starching.
- Save all paraffin paper for lining cake tins.
- Add acid fruits to ice cream after it is frozen.
- Raw potato dipped in baking soda will clean silver.
- Common vaseline will clean brass electric fixtures.
- Common salt will remove egg stains from silver.
- When a lamp gives a poor light, try boiling the burner.
- To polish silverware rub it with whiting on chamois.
- Ice cream is best made with cream two or three days old.
- Salt curdles new milk if added before cooking the milk.
- If heavy cream is whipped too long it will granulate.

Even Isaiah Had Hunch That Drys Would Clamp Lid

- NEW YORK, July 7.—Isaiah, the prophet, may have had some inkling several thousands years ago of the thirst that prohibition would raise in the land. Attention was called Sunday to the prophet's words as found in Isaiah, 24th chapter, 11th and 12th verses, which read as follows: "There is a crying for wine in the streets; all joy is darkened, the mirth of the land is gone. In the city is left desolation and the gate is smitten by destruction."

It sometimes happens that when a man takes a rest he takes something that he isn't justly entitled to.

Taking Big Chances.

It is too much of a risk to depend upon neighbors or sending for medicine in case of a sudden attack of bowel complaint. In almost every neighborhood some one had died from cholera morbus that could easily have been saved had the proper medicine been at hand. Then think of the suffering that must be endured until medicine can be obtained. The safe way is to keep at hand a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy, a preparation that can be depended upon. Buy it now. It only costs 25 cents.

How to Get Rid of Your Rheumatism.

If it is chronic or muscular rheumatism all you need it to massage the affected parts with Chamberlain's Liniment. You are certain to be pleased with the relief which it affords.

Loss of Appetite.

As a general rule there is nothing serious about a loss of appetite, and if you skip a meal or only eat two meals a day for a few days you will soon have a relish for your meals when meal time comes. Bear in mind that at least five hours should always elapse between meals so as to give the food ample time to digest and the stomach a period of rest before a second meal is taken. Then if you get no more than you crave and take a reasonable amount of outdoor exercise every day you will not need to worry about your appetite. When the loss of appetite is caused by constipation as is often the case, that should be corrected at once. A dose of Chamberlain's Tablets will do it.
