THE LEAGUE COVENANT

THE AUTHORS OF THESE ARTICLES:
 William H. Taft, ex-President of the United States.
 George W. Wickersham, formerly U. S. Atty. General.
 A. Lawrence Lowell, President Harvard University.
 Henry W. Taft, of the New York Bar.

THE PURPOSE:
 To discuss and make clear the various articles of the Paris Covenant for a League of Nations, now awaiting ratification by the United States Senate.

Today's Letter Takes Up THE MONROE DOCTRINE (Continued.)
 No definition of the Monroe Doctrine having official sanction has ever been given except by Presidents or Secretaries of State; and, except in the few concrete cases that have required its application, they have generally contented themselves with describing its historical origin and the general principle on which it is founded. Even the Senate, in ratifying the League Convention of 1907, and in asking to reserve the Monroe Doctrine, referred to it as our "traditional attitude toward purely American questions," leaving the character of that attitude as much subject to question by the signatories as it had been before the reservation was made. And, although, on the one hand, Secretary Olney in 1895, in the Venezuelan controversy, said: "Today the United States is practically sovereign on this continent and its fiat is law upon the subjects to which it confines its interposition;" on the other hand, President Roosevelt in 1901 said that the Monroe Doctrine did not prevent foreign nations from collecting by force debts owing by American nations, and in 1866 this country refused to protect Chile, when Spain was bombarding her ports, because it would not intervene in wars between European and American states "if they are not pushed to the political point."

DIFFICULTY TO DEFINE
 These references serve to point out the difficulty of an attempt in any diplomatic document to define the Monroe Doctrine. But however inaccurate it may be to refer to the Monroe Doctrine as a "traditional understanding," Article XXI correctly describes it as "securing the maintenance of peace." It was the essence of the Doctrine that foreign nations should not be permitted to implant among the nations of the Western Hemisphere autocratic principles of government lest they should become a menace to the free institutions of the United States, and we might again have to resort to arms for the maintenance of the principles settled by the dominance of this country in the affairs of the Western Hemisphere has undoubtedly saved it from repeated exploitation at the hands of European and Asiatic nations. The frequent revolutions in South and Central America, often accompanied by the seizure of power in the name of liberty by dicyal and unscrupulous dictators would have afforded tempting opportunities to European autocrats at small expense and by the use of a merely token force, to secure a permanent foothold upon this continent, gradually establishing colonies which would have become a menace to our republican institutions, or at least a source of national disquietude. All of this has been prevented without the use in a single instance of military force by the Monroe Doctrine, which is, therefore, aptly described in Article XXI as "securing the maintenance of peace."

A POSSIBLE RESERVATION
 But if the Senate is of the opinion that the use of the words "regional understanding" creates any doubt as to the meaning of Article XXI, it can, in ratifying the treaty, make a declaration that its action is taken under the reservation that the Covenant is to be so construed as to leave the Monroe Doctrine unaffected. In view of the general purpose and effect of the League, referred to above, such a reservation would not be regarded as a substantial amendment of the Covenant. Upon this point the official commentary of the delegates of Great Britain upon the revised Covenant is particularly pertinent. They refer to the Monroe Doctrine and similar understandings as having "shown themselves" in history to be not instruments of national ambition but guarantees of peace; and add:
 "The origin of the Monroe Doctrine is well known. It was proclaimed in 1823 to prevent America from becoming a theatre for the intrigues of European absolutism. At first a principle of American foreign policy it has become a national understanding and it is not illegitimate for the people of the United States to say that the Covenant should recognize that fact."
 "In its essence it is consistent with the spirit of the Covenant, and indeed, the principle of the League as expressed in Article X represent the extension to the whole world of the principles of this Doctrine, while should any dispute as to the meaning of the latter ever arise between the American and the European powers, the League is there to settle them."
 This commentary received special force from the fact that England had a close historical connection with the proclamation of the Monroe Doctrine in 1823 and in the Venezuelan dispute the most advanced claim, as to the scope of the Doctrine, was sharply called to her attention; and no delegation at the Peace Conference probably understood better than that of Great Britain how the Monroe Doctrine was intended to be affected by Article XXI.

"VALIDITY" NOT ENDANGERED
 As the "validity" of the Monroe Doctrine is not "affected" by Article XXI, the Doctrine is excluded from the operation of the Covenant. If, therefore, a case within the principle of the Doctrine should arise it would not be within the jurisdiction of the League. Even if a question whether the Doctrine extended to a particular situation could be made the subject of inquiry under Article XV, there could be little doubt of the result: for, if we except a few cases where doubt has existed as to the applicability of the Doctrine, and the belated assertions of President Carranza that it is non-existent, it is now under-

Local army recruiting station, will leave Portland tonight for Seattle, where he will be presented with the distinguished service medal with the accompanying ribbon. The medal was awarded to Colonel Martin for service while in command of the 90th division. The presentation will be made by the commanding general, headquarters North Pacific Coast artillery district, 411 White building, Seattle.

Lieutenant Claire Bennett, for thirty months second in command at the local station, left last night for Seattle en route to Camp Meade, Maryland, and overseas service.

Payment of Band From City Funds is Plan Now

- * A plan to pay the local band
- * from city funds, with the provision made at city election, is finding favor with members of the band and other Pendleton citizens. The new plan, which has been tentatively discussed, and which was suggested at a meeting of the city council recently, would eliminate the collection of money by subscription and would put the band on a business basis, say those who advocate the idea.
- * Another argument advanced by supporters of the proposed system is that it would provide more funds than are now available and would thus offer more inducement for a permanent director and for other members.
- * Last night's band concert at Pioneer Park drew a considerable crowd. The program was made up of various selections.

Despotie Bolshevik Who Is the Ruler of Hungary

BELA KUN.
 Under the despotie Bolshevik rule of Bela Kun there have been hundreds of murders and outrages in Hungary. This is one of the first pictures to reach this country of the man who was captured by the Russians while serving in the Austro-Hungarian army and later became secretary to Lenin. He is second only to Trotsky as a Bolshevik despot.

Convince a man against his will and you will have to convince him over again tomorrow.

First Transatlantic Plane to be Central Park Exhibit.

New York City and her thousand visitors are to have a chance to see just what manner of flying machine it was that first crossed the Atlantic. This photograph shows officers and men of the Rockaway Naval Air Station at work setting up the NC-4 in Central Park for public exhibition. The naval flying boat was brought back recently aboard the U.S.S. Argosic, after the exhibition the plane will be shipped to Washington and placed in the Smithsonian Institution.
