PERMITS ISSUED IN PAST SIX DAYS INDICATE THAT BUILDING WILL BE CONTINUED FOR WHILE

After weeks of inactivity, the building situation this week began to improve and as a result the past seven days has witnessed projects totaling $18,500 begun. Two new homes, an apartment house and a gasoline filling station are the latest buildings to be got under way.

Another home, in the five figure class, is being started by Herman Suhl, a local grain farmer, who will build on the north side. Mr. Suhl's home is to be a two story frame dwelling with full basement and will cost $10,000, according to the permits issued Monday. The completed dwelling will be ready for occupancy late in the coming fall.

A. T. Perkins, also a farmer, yesterday took out a permit to erect a bungalow dwelling at the corner of Ruley and Matlock streets on the north side. The new home will rise on the lot diagonally opposite from Lincoln school. It will be of the bungalow type with full basement and to cost $3200.

The new apartments to be built by Gorfikie & Israel at 309 Main street consist of remodeling the structure at present there and adding one story. The new edifice will contain 13 rooms and there will be three suites. They will invest $2500 in their improvement.

The new gasoline filling station and service garage to be built by C. H. Belts on East Court street is to be the first structure of its kind in Pendleton and will resemble similar service stations in the larger coast cities. This new enterprise turns $1500 into building channels in Pendleton.

The revival of building activity the past week is considered a good sign that operations have not been called off for the remainder of the summer. Indications now are that renewed activity will be seen although a shortage of carpenters even at $6.40 a day may be responsible for deterring some who would build at this time.

The Week's Permits

A. T. Perkins	$ 2,500
J. E. Ireland	75
C. H. Belts	1,500
Herman Suhl	10,000
Gorfikie & Israel	2,500
Total	$18,575
Previously reported	$232,050
