"Wasted Money"

The potential value of a dollar spent for home made goods far exceeds the 100 cents that you receive in merchandise and service. Indirectly you receive benefits that are priceless.

In buying home made goods you not only get better merchandise for less money, you not only contribute to the greater prosperity of your city, but you get added dividends in the form of better living conditions, better improvements, better schools, better streets, etc.—and a prosperous city almost invariably means a prosperous individual.

If the money that is sent away for merchandise inferior to that made here, could be kept here, the manufacturing concerns already in existence could increase their capacity many times, many new concerns would start up, employment would be furnished to thousands of men whose purchasing power would be greatly increased by reason of earning good wages.

It's a good business proposition. Mr. Citizen, for you to discriminate—to confine your purchases whenever possible to those that bear the "Made at Home" label.
