Fashion's Censor is Removed From Hips, Hourglass Now In

NEW YORK, August 22.—Fashion's censorship has been removed from hips! Once more the fashionable glass of the hour will reflect the hour-glass figure. Not exactly the full hour-glass of pre-chemise frock days but at least a half hour glass. Curves both comely and comely where they should be according to Nature will once again be according to Fashion also.

To look as nearly like a pencil as possible will no longer be the acme of feminine heart's desire.

We have been cut on the straight and narrow so long that it is going to be some job to get back into our softly feminine mid-Victorian curves again but it is always much easier to let out than to take in provided the material is there.

Now the arms are allowed at large untrammelled by restricting sleeves and short skirts have emancipated our undertrimmings it seems only fair and just that our long stayed hips should be given the freedom of the seas.

As forerunners of the hips return the side ruffles, panniers, puffs and draperies on the new fall skirts are but a few of the infallible signs to show which way the new fall figure tends to curve.

Increased fullness in the skirts as well makes for a fuller silhouette and increased brevity proves the long and short of it is that Paris is winner in the little game of skirts, that has been waged all season between the Yankee and the Gallic modistes.

Naturally hip curves means also bust curves and a regular indented waist again and the tight fitted bodice is a fitting complement of the puffed and panniered skirt for the re-entrance of this long out-lawed outline.

Such a radical change in figures means, of course a radical change in corsets. Those weird high lusted, short-hipped and wasp waisted affairs of a quarter of a century ago have, we hope, gone the way of the Dodo bird, still we must needs now pull in our laps a bit snugger about our equators and though the corsets will still show long hips the absence of bones will give the necessary freedom. The low bust line will also hold its own for that pouter pigeon effect of the high lusted corset is not down among the rules and regulations for the new fall figure.

Really the only striking changes in the corset models therefore will be a bit more curve in at the waist and a secretory of bone that bind about the hips.

The curving new panniered period frocks with their buoyant side puffs and snug little bodices are really much more becoming to the average plump female figure than the long straight line effects whose devoted slaves we have been for so many seasons past. The straight chemise frock was really articially successful only on those svelte young creatures of flat chested boyish lines, and how rare indeed is such a one among our bonbon ice cream soda devouring luxury loving limousine lassies of 1919.

Farewell ye out-going, straight lines, welcome ye incoming curves! The double-breasted, amply hipped sisterhood greet you and now once more that poetic little phrase, "get on to her curves" will have some meaning.

Fund to Fight Rum. WASHINGTON, Aug. 22.—Included in the additional $1,500,000 asked of congress yesterday by Attorney General Palmer to push the campaign against profiteers and food hoarders is a fund for enforcement of wartime prohibition.

It was said that it would be impossible to estimate what portion of the fund would be used in this way.

"We can't tell how long we are going to be intrusted with prohibition enforcement," said an official. "If the bill now pending in congress goes through, enforcement will be left to a prohibition commissioner under the treasury department."

"It would be a difficult matter, therefore, to determine what part of the $1,500,000 fund would be expended in this particular part of the work, an operative of the bureau of investigation may be working on some case and run into a violation of the prohibition laws. It would be his duty to either pursue the investigation or report it and let another agent get assigned to it. We can only take care of all cases by having a jump sum which provides for the investigation and detection of crimes."

LONDON'S STREET NAMES. London has shed some of its unaluring street names, such as Blow Ladder Street, Cut Throat Lane, Dead Donkey Court, and Deadman's Place, but all attempts to abolish the name of Houndsditch have been opposed by the majority of those carrying on business there. The same holds true of Gutter Lane, Cheapside, and Bleeding Heart Yard, familiar to readers of "Little Dorrit," is still to be found off-Hatton Garden. Other London thoroughfares, the names of which could hardly be altered for the worse, are Crooked Usage, Tiger Bay, Back Alley, Beer Lane, Shoulder of Mutton Alley, Hot Water Court, Pickle Herring Street, Bear Garden Buildings, Tweezer's Alley, and Cosh's Buildings.

THIS IS A QUEER FISH TORBAY, Eng.—No prize is offered for a name for this queer fish, but a lot of curious folks would be pleased to hear from the authority who can name it. It was caught in a mackerel net off the Devon coast and it looks like a cross between a man-eating shark and a gentle dolphin.
