ALTA SUNDAY AND MONDAY

BERT LYTELLE NOTED FOR RARE VERSATILITY

Bert Lytle the clever young Metro star of "One-Thing-at-a-Time O'Day" to be shown at the Alta theatre on Sunday and Monday is one of the most versatile stars of the stage and screen.

He was born in New York but spent his early days in the west. Later he attended Upper Canada College from which he graduated with high honors. He began his dramatic career with a stock company but soon rose to leading roles on Broadway. His last production before he abandoned the stage for the screen was "Mary's Ankle," in which he was co-starred with Irene Fenwick.

Mr. Lytle's debut as a Metro star was made in "The Trail to Yesterday," since then he has appeared in "The Lion's Den," "Faith," "Blind Man's Eye," "Blackie's Redemption," "The Spender," "Unexpected Places," and "Boston Blackie's Little Pal."

Mr. Lytle comes of a noted theatrical family. Both his parents were well known and his grandfather was J. K. Mortimer, one of Augustin Daly's most brilliant stars.

Besides achieving unusual distinction on the stage Mr. Lytle has rapidly become the most popular male star of the screen.

"One-Thing-at-a-Time O'Day," was written by William Dudley Pelley and published in the Saturday Evening Post. Is a brilliant comedy drama of circus life which is in the actor's best vein.

ARCADE SUNDAY AND MONDAY

WILLIAM S. HART IN "BREED OF MEN" HAS MOST UNUSUAL ROLE

What William S. Hart himself believes to be one of the best stories he has had for some time and which certainly presents the popular Artcraft star at his very best, is "Breed of Men," the scenes of which are laid in the fertile bottom lands of Arizona, and which will be shown at the Arcade theatre next Sunday. In brief, it details the exploits of Wesley B. Prentice a land shark who succeeds in hoodwinking the westerners to their financial loss.

"Careless" Carmody, a boss pun-cher, rides into the new town of Chloride and realizing he will make either a dangerous enemy of powerful friend, Prentice succeeds in getting him in a gambling game from which he emerges "broke and foot." Then, by eluding him back his horse and offering him the job of sheriff, the trickster gets Carmody on his side.

A love story enters when Carmody rescues a girl from a Mexican band man. Later it is discovered that the land deal was a fraud and that the settlers have no claim to the property. In short, they have been bilked by Prentice. Carmody has been singing his praises but when he learns the truth and finds that the schemer has escaped, he goes after him to revenge and redeem himself. He is believed to be in league with Prentice but when he captures the rascal in Chicago and brings him back to justice, he is hailed as a real man. Seena Owen is leading woman.

OVERALLS TOO UGLY SO FARMERETTE BUYS BAKST'S CREATION

Vivian Martin Objects to Plain Garments in the Photoplay "Little Comrade"

Genevieve Rutherford Hale was willing to do her duty for her country when it called for food producers in unlimited quantity, but she balked at the overalls that all her sister farmerettes wore.

"I can serve my country without looking like a devastated Belgian landscape," said she. Whereupon she designed her own costume for farming purposes, and sent it to a fashionable modiste, who charged her more for the making of it than she could save her country in a year.

Needless to say, she created a sensation on the farm, when she appeared in her unique costume. The farmer in charge had never seen the Russian ballet, or he would have recognized that the outfit was strictly according to ideas laid down by Bakst, a gentleman who prefers green, purple and red to any other colors in the world, and who makes costumes and scenery to prove it.

Genevieve is the character played by Vivian Martin, in her new Paramount picture, "Little Comrade," which will be shown at the Alta theatre today. She is at first scorned and jeered at by the more practical workers, but she shows them that she has grit and pep, and she succeeds in making a real soldier out of a weakling, and when her job is finished she is ready to marry him.

The story was written by Juliet Wilbur Tompkins and directed by Chester Withey. Niles Welch is the leading man, and excellent players portray the supporting roles.
