FOR AUTUMN DAYS

●The killed skirt of Scotch plaid is the keynote for this costume. Its predominate color is peacock blue with cross bars of brown and dull sage green, relieved with threads of black and white. The Jersey sweater coat repeats the blue in the paid, with its long throw scarf lined in sage green. The soft felt hat is also of the green, while the narrow leather belt, dog skin gloves and spats are of brown.

we enjoy. Localities in the same latitude would have practically the same season all of the year around. Even an event so rare as a day in June would become seasons in course of time. But there may be mitigating circumstances we know not of.
 Whether or not Venus is inhabited is a matter of speculation and one person can guess as well as another upon that interesting subject. But of one fact we are positive and that is that she is a most beautiful orb and a very agreeable neighbor; one whose acquaintance we should cultivate. She is alternately evening and morning star, occupying each of these positions for about nine months at each period though not visible for more than eight months owing to her close approach to the sun for a portion of the time. She never appears more than 45 degrees above the horizon or about the same length of time before sunrise when a morning star. It requires thirteen revolutions of Venus around the sun to equal eight of the years on Venus is equal to eight years upon the earth. Now it so happens that at the end of this cycle the two planets approach each other at the closest points in their orbits, being only about 25 million miles apart at those times. It is then that Venus is seen at her greatest splendor. The next event of this kind will occur in the spring of 1921.

PUBLIC HEALTH NURSE MENTIONED IN BIBLE

"I commend unto you Phoebe, our sister, who is a servant of the Church which is at Cenchrea," wrote St. Paul to the Romans, "that ye assist her in whatsoever business she hath need of you, for she hath been a succor of many and of myself also."

Phoebe, explains Biblical history, was a woman who went about nursing the sick and teaching them better methods of living. Phoebe was the first public health nurse.

Public health nursing, which is one of the most important enterprises in the peace program of the American Red Cross, is not a new movement, but it is one which heretofore has never received its just need of attention as a factor in maintaining the health of the nation.

Phoebe's sister in the twentieth century is the community nurse who teaches better, cleaner living. Because the betterment of public health is now definitely accepted as an individual and a community responsibility, the Red Cross will make a definite effort to raise the standards of living in the United States by urging the employment of public health nurses in all cities, towns and rural districts, particularly in those where there are no organized public health activities. A healthier, happier America—that is what the Red Cross is striving toward in its Roll Call the first weeks in November.

ABOUT THE STARS

Venus (Continued.)

One argument advanced against the probable rotation of Venus upon her axis is that she has little or no depression at the poles. The theory is that a body of this kind while rapidly rotating would cause it to bulge out at the equator and contract at the poles. This being the case in most of the planets, the earth, for instance, has a difference of twenty-seven miles between the equatorial and her polar diameters. In the case of Jupiter and Saturn the difference is much greater. This fact would tend to the conclusion that Venus has a very slow rotation. Another one of her peculiarities is that she inclines very little to the plane of her orbit, less than three degrees. This unfortunate circumstance would deprive her of the agreeable change of seasons such as

FOR A NATIONAL BUDGET

THERE is little or no prospect of legislation for a national budget system being enacted during the special session of congress. But there is a chance that during the long days of the regular session that begins Dec. 1, this important measure will pass both houses and it undoubtedly will receive the signature of the president, who has long been an advocate of such a law.

President Wilson and former President Taft have done much to prepare the people as a whole for the installation of a budget system. The average citizen neither knew what a budget is, or cared, but when national leaders kept pounding the need of one, and pointed out that congressional extravagances could be curtailed, the vote for it.

Joseph W. Byrns of Tennessee, ranking democratic member of the house appropriations committee, and who has had much to do with the drawing up of the budget bill, recently pointed out the long time it has taken to educate the people to the necessity of a budget.

In discussing the house budget Mr. Byrns emphasized that "the chief merit of this bill is that it fixes responsibility and brings the full light of public opinion to bear on those responsible, and in that way it will surely bring about a greater economy and efficiency in government."

AN UNFINISHED JOB.

JUDGE WILL B. KING understands the merits of the McKay reservoir project and pointed out some of them when he said:

The additional supply of water which the McKay reservoir would furnish would greatly enhance the value of works already completed. Not only would several thousand acres of first class lands be reclaimed in addition to those already benefited on both sides of the Ematilla river. It would lead to economy in operation, due to the fact that all might be grouped under one head. Thus the service would be effecting a saving where investment of an equal amount on a new or distant project would require new headquarters and a new working force.

It may also be urged with reason that the government should not be undertaking new projects until it has first made good with settlers on the projects already existing. At the present time more water is desired for the west end projects and this water must be forthcoming if full results in the way of production are to be looked for. The McKay reservoir plan has been endorsed by the reclamation officials and should be one of the first pieces of work undertaken after the necessary legislation is passed.
