What the Picture Theaters Have to Tell You.

ALTA TODAY
GRIPPING MYSTERY IS SOLVED IN NEW BENNETT PHOTOPLAY

A mystery story that grips you at the start and holds you fascinated until the end of the picture, is "The Haunted Bedroom," Thomas H. Ince's latest Paramount picture, starring dainty Enid Bennett, which will be shown at the Alta Theatre today.

With a grace and feeling does Miss Bennett portray the character of the newspaper reporter who is assigned to ferret out a ghost mystery that has aroused a southern community. The actions of the weird and mysterious being are logically explained with reason for every apparent invasion from the spirit land.

The deftness with which unusual sights and sounds are explained on the screen is remarkable. To produce the desired effects, Mr. Ince set a new standard in photography. The lighting effects surpass anything yet seen on the screen, and aside from creating a spooky atmosphere, give some wonderful artistic pictures. Miss Bennett seems admirably adapted to the character of a newspaper girl. She has been surrounded by a carefully selected cast that include Dorcas Mathews, Jack Nelson, Lloyd Hughes, William Conkin, Otto Hoffman, Harry Archer and Joe Anthony.

NEW DUNCAN SERIAL BOOKED AT THE PASTIME

To those who like red-blooded tales of the West for their entertainment, Manager Mallock of the Pastime Theatre, announces that he has something on tap that will just suit them. It is the coming of William Duncan, the Pandow of the Screen, in a new and high-powered 15 chapter serial, entitled "Smashing Barriers." The first episode, "The Test of Courage," Motion picture devotees and especially those keen admirers of Duncan, will remember his recent appearance here in "The Man of Might." The coming serial production is said to be even better than that one and the fans are promised a fifteen week trip of adventure and thrills that will make them cry for more.

Besides starring in this production, William Duncan also directed it. A cast of old favorites, Edith Johnson, Joe Ryan and others are in support of him. Cyrus Townsend Brady, famous the world over as an author, wrote the scenario for "Smashing Barriers."

FALLING? HERE'S WHERE IT SHOWS

Don't worry! Let "Danderine" save your hair and double its beauty.

To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a small bottle of delightful "Danderine" at any drug or toilet counter for a few cents, pour a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. After several applications, the hair usually stops coming out and you can't find any dandruff. Your hair will grow strong, thick and long and appear soft, glossy and twice as beautiful and abundant. Try it!

"WATCH YOUR STEP" IS AT OREGON TONIGHT

In a class by itself is claimed for Irving Berlin's international syncopated musical success, "Watch Your Step," which will be the attraction at the Oregon Theatre tonight.

It is a novel entertainment in many respects. Musical to a superlative degree, tuneful, charming and notable for its fine features, beautiful gowns and scenery—built on the Urban idea in three acts and seven scenes all are new and up-to-the-minute.

"Watch Your Step" has to do, in a remote way, with the will of a wealthy man, which stipulates that a fortune of two million dollars shall go to that male relative who has never been in love, married or ensnared by one of the feminine sex. In the event of the male relative failing to qualify, then this fortune must go to the relative of the opposite sex who possesses these qualifications.

A young man and a young woman both insist that they are eligible contenders for the fortune. The maid is from Philadelphia and has never known love. The young man is a dancing teacher and he, too, has never been ensnared. Tricky lawyers would entrap the two by making each of these relatives show signs of love for somebody, and this serves for bringing them into all manner of odd situations.

The story serves only to connect the twenty-odd musical numbers, and is an agreeable departure from the usual entertainment, with its tuneful, simple, fetching and jaunty music.

HOUSEHOLD

Motion picture devotees, especially women, are fast learning that their favorite actresses have other accomplishments than cavorting before the camera. The players' lives are much the same as those of the people they strive so hard to please. Practically all of them are cooks of more or less attainments.

Here are a few salad recipes "loaned" to the other women of the world by some feminine stars:

Priscilla Dean's Grape Salad.
Remove seed from white grapes—add one-half cup English walnuts, the pulp from one grapefruit, and a few cherries.
Dress with whipped cream seasoned with juice of grapefruit, salt and paprika. Serve on lettuce and garnish with cherries.

Dorothy Phillips' Banana Salad.
Pare bananas and cut lengthwise into four strips and then cut strips into cubes. Dress immediately with a French dressing, using lemon juice, as that is the best acid for banana salad. Put plenty of paprika in dressing. Serve on lettuce leaves and garnish with shredded red and green sweet peppers. Banana salad is best served with veal.
