right of fun, laughter and play which aristocracy is trying to make it live without, provides a splendid opportunity for Miss Davies to display her talent. Her beauty, her personality, her youth, her innate grace and charm—are all given chance for expression in "Getting Mary Married." She is a combination of piquancy, vivacity and irresistibility. Allan Dwan directed the picture. Therefore, nothing more need be said about the directions of the picture; it is superb. The story is splendid, human and interesting, written by John Emerson and Anita Loos especially for Miss Davies. The cast supporting this beautiful Select star comprises the following well known artists: Norman Kerry, Mat Moore, Frederick Burton, Amelia Summer-ville, Constance Beaumar and Elmer Grandin.

Lents, Oregon—"In my younger days I was greatly troubled with gas on my stomach; it gave me lots of trouble. I began using Dr. Pierce's medicine and received such relief that I can recommend it to others. I have raised a large family and am a great grandmother and have always insisted on my daughters-in-law using Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription during expectancy."—Mrs. B. F. and ingenuity.

When Margaret Wayne (Bessie Barriscale) realized that her husband, John Rutherford, had become addicted to the habit of "stepping out" five or six nights a week, she came to the conclusion that he needed to be impressed with the charms of the wife he was neglecting. In order to make him jealous, she pretended a desperate affair with one of those handsome bachelors "friends of the family."

But Margaret overplayed her hand. The young wife's accomplice refused to admit that it was a put-up job when the husband discovered them together in the "friend's" apartment late at night, and the husband secured a divorce. When her ex-husband married a fascinating foreign lady of easy virtue and was given the custody of their child, Margaret felt that fate had dealt unkindly with her.

The "friend," however, discovered he had a conscience and took a very original and dramatic method of removing the lady of easy virtue from John's sphere, although it was fatal both to himself and the second wife, but it resulted in a sensational climax to a complicated situation.

The finish of this drama while daring and thrilling, is satisfying and well worth seeing.

"THE MIRACLE MAN"

By Russell Mitchellree

No miracles today? Hell, bo! Where d'ya get that bunk? See that girl there—the one with the one with the big, clear eyes? A few months back, her beery, leering lips burned the souls of the men that craved them. Her wanton's face, red-painted, Twisted with sin as if the devil had stepped on it, Was a brazen sign of a life that reeked. And now she is good! Her smile's so sweet. As the smile of your mother, in those first tender years, When you were just a little, toddling kid, And she was young and fair.

No miracles? I've seen a gnarled, misshapen thing, misnamed a man, Writing in the street, begging for coins with a cripple's whine, And after the day's good pickings, rise in his shame And loosen his hard mug into a grin. Now he's standing, face to the world, Working to ease another's closing years. It would warm your heart to hear the big boob laugh And see him pet the little gray old lady on the cheek.

No miracles? That handsome devil, standing with the girl, Once had a heart as black as the hair his victims loved to stroke. One of those cynical, sneering guys, lurking, shark-like, In the under-tow of life, to pull down human souls. Look at him! What's that they say about God's image? One night, last April, down in Clancy's place, I saw him kiss that girl, after they'd trimmed a rube— Both of them loud and stewed— And then again today, after he'd slipped her a tiny ring, No miracles? Hell, bo! Where d'ya get that bunk?

You, with your facts and science, come with me— Me—a year ago, shaking with dope and a hacking cough, And my fingers itching for pockets to pick. Ull show you a little house, resting among the roses, High on a slope that rises from the sea! And an old man there, blind and deaf and dumb, His face alight with faith. He wouldn't make a hit on Broadway. "Funny in the head." They'd call him, and smirk and go their ways. But that old man makes crooks go straight, Floods darkened souls with sun. How—Belief, he thinks. You, being wise, may smile. But we who have seen and felt— No miracles? Hell, bo! Where do you get that bunk?
