WIFE CALLS UPON GREEN-EYED DEATH.

Bessie Barriscale, the captivating blonde star, had a sympathetic role in her latest production, "Tangled Threads," produced for Robertson-Cole by H. R. Postures and released by Exhibitors Mutual. The story is a society drama of daring conception and incident.

When Margaret Wayne (Bessie Barriscale) realized that her husband, John Rutherford, had become addicted to the habit of "stepping out" five or six nights a week, she came to the conclusion that he needed to be impressed with the charms of the wife he was neglecting. In order to make him jealous, she pretended a desperate affair with one of those handsome bachelor "friends of the family."

But Margaret overplayed her hand. The young wife's accomplice refused to admit that it was a put-up job when the husband discovered them together in the "friend's" apartment late at night, and the husband secured a divorce. When her ex-husband married a fascinating foreign lady of easy virtue and was given the custody of their child, Margaret felt that fate had dealt unkindly with her.

The "friend," however, discovered he had a conscience and took a very original and dramatic method of reviving the lady of easy virtue from John's sphere, although it was fatal both to himself and the second wife, but it resulted in a sensational climax to a complicated situation.

The finish of this drama while thrilling and thrilling, is satisfying and well worth seeing.

JUST SURE TO BE KISSED

All ready for the Christmas dinner—or perhaps it is to be a real good-time party after dinner, with her whole circle of merry-making friends invited. Indeed, to repeat, she is completely ready—note the spray of mistletoe clasped in her hands. When a dainty light frock is added, the combination is complete for happiness. This frock is of flesh-colored georgette crepe. Perhaps its main attraction may be the full accordion-pleated skirt, but its deep, square neck, of heavy cream-tace, is a close rival.

This skeleton was sent to the Kansas University school of medicine after being unearthed last August at Maple Hill, Kas., on property formerly occupied by KING. Two other skeletons unearthed on property said to have been used by KING may be sent to the university for identification. They are supposed to be the bones of Reuben Gutschall and William F. Ringer.

CAPTAIN CHARGED WITH TORTURE OF SOLDIERS

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Brutal treatment and even deliberate torture of enlisted men of the American expeditionary forces are charged against Capt. Carl W. Detzer, formerly commanding officer of the 18th military police company, whose trial by court martial opened at Governors Island yesterday. The evidence was expected to be as sensational as in the trials of Lieutenant "Hardboiled" Smith and Sergeant Hall, who now are serving prison sentences for brutality to American soldiers in Paris.

CHICKEN NO LUXURY IN SPOKANE TOMORROW AS 20 TONS ARE OFFERED

SPOKANE, Dec. 12.—The city municipal market will place 20 tons of chickens, seized by federal authorities here some weeks ago, on sale at 25 cents a pound tomorrow morning. The birds were held for a local market by Armour & Company. It is alleged they were being hoarded and the sale was ordered by Federal Judge Rudkin.

Fresh dressed chickens are being sold at retail markets here today at 25 and 35 cents per pound. The chicken sale follows the sale of 26,400 pounds of navy beans by the city at 5 cents a pound.

field as a negotiator. Saito's statement which goes a step farther than any previously made, is considered by many as a campaign directed against United States missionaries in Korea. In the light of recent developments, the statement virtually charges American missionaries with inciting rebellion against Japanese rule.
