Installation of officers, conducted by the Oregon department president Mrs. Loretta Williams, of Milton, was a feature of a business session of the Person Circle, No. 22, Ladies of the G. A. R. yesterday afternoon. The lodge met in Moose Hall at 3 o'clock installing the following members into office: Mrs. Cora Newcomb, president; Mrs. Winnie Lincoln, senior vice-president; Mrs. Frankie Ferguson, junior vice-president; Mrs. Cynthia Howard, chaplain; Mrs. Pearl C. Hawken, secretary; Mrs. Lily Williams, treasurer; Mrs. Edith Carroll, conductor; Mrs. Mary Stephens, assistant conductor; Mrs. Maud Frazier, guard; Mrs. Anna McConnell, assistant guard, and Mrs. Beaulie Wyrick, musician.

Mrs. T. M. Hickox and daughter, Dorothy, of Goldendale, Wash., who have been visiting the former's sister, Mrs. Clair Edwards, of 215 Marie street, for the past several days returned yesterday to their home.

A New Year's party was enjoyed by a number of people at the old Peter Christopher place. Many games were played, refreshments were served at 11 o'clock and the New Year was celebrated in by melting tin on which fortunes were told by the ringing din of bells and the shooting of guns. Those who enjoyed the affair were: Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Christopher, Alvin Christopher, Wainey Christopher, Sylvia Christopher, Franklyn Christopher, Marietta Christopher, Mr. and Mrs. John Molstrom, Eldon Molstrom, Florence Molstrom, Hazel Molstrom, Wanita Molstrom, Vernita Molstrom, Esther Molstrom, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hendrickson, Walter Planting, Miss Fannie Wallin, Miss Edna Dehnins, Mrs. Lehman Dehnins, Miss Jennie Johnson, Miss Fanny Mark, Albin Kononen, Miss Elma Davis, Edward Davik and Miss Velma Korvola.

Coming to the west with the record of having shattered all records ever set by an instrumentalist in America, is Jascha Heifetz, young Russian genius whose magic violin playing is linked with that of Paganini, which years have surrounded with amazing legend. The artist is to appear at the Keylor Grand theater in Walla Walla Saturday evening, January 24 and Miss Malen Burnett, who, with Mrs.

Marie Catron, also of Walla Walla, is responsible for his coming, is in Pendleton today in interest of the event. Tickets may be obtained from 229 Marcus street, Walla Walla, and they range in price from two dollars to three and a half. A special train may be secured to run from Pendleton on January 24.

The coming of Jascha Heifetz marks the highest price guarantee which has ever appeared in Walla Walla. The violinist is 22 years of age and his amazing debut in New York was made but two years ago.

The first meeting of the five missionary societies of the city which have planned a joint session for each three months, enjoyed an interesting afternoon yesterday when ladies of the Methodist church were hostesses to members of the other four organizations.

The reception room of the church was made most attractive by rugs, comfortable chairs and potted plants while the light of a tall flower lamp added charm. About 75 ladies were present to enjoy a program and social hour following a short business session, the following numbers being given.

- Hymn.
- Scripture reading, followed by prayer.
- Song—"Teach Us to Pray," Mrs. D. L. Coble.
- Talk, "The Foreign Mission Work of the Christian church," Mrs. R. E. Bussabarger.
- Talk, "The Foreign Mission Work of the Baptist Church," Mrs. Mason Thompson.
- Song, Ladies' Quarter, Mrs. G. W. Rugg, Miss Grace Gilliam, Mrs. Fred P. Austin, Mrs. T. A. Wylie.
- Talk, "Foreign Mission Work of the Methodist Church," Mrs. Albert Eklund.
- Talk, "Foreign Mission Work of the Presbyterian Church," Mrs. Jessie Hiestand.
- Song, "Memories," Mrs. Adams.
- Talk, "Foreign Mission Work of the Church of the Redeemer," Mrs. Frank Frazier.

over the tenets the guests enjoyed chatting while Mrs. G. W. Coultis and Mrs. E. L. Smith presided at a pretty table where a great cluster of pink carnations was charmingly arranged. The initial meeting of the organizations promised an interesting future. Officers of the organization are Mrs. Bussabarger, president; Mrs. J. Francis Morgan, vice president, and Mrs. F. L. Ingram, secretary.

As guests of Mrs. Lee Moorhouse and Mrs. George Clarke, members of the Current Literature club met for a delightful afternoon in the library club room yesterday. China, the year's study topic, afforded a program of interest and among attractive appointments of the affair was thrown over the secretary's table, an attractive cover, a Christmas gift to Mrs. Moorhouse from a local Chinese merchant.

The program included a group of delightful vocal solos by Mrs. Harold Warner, an interesting talk by Mrs. E. B. Aldrich on "The Hee and the Hee" of the Manchus, another on "Chinese Discoveries" by Mrs. Norborne Berkeley, with two piano numbers between by Miss Mary Clarke. The final music
