Water Washes Out Hillsides
Water of late has done more damage to wheatfields than in several gears, say farmers who have steep hillsides on their places. The water has made deep ditches through their seeded areas and wherever these channels have been dug, the land will have to be plowed over and reseeded. This happens to some extent each year but is believed to be more widespread this year than for several seasons.

Sees Many Pendletonians

Many Pendleton people are spending their winter in and near Long Beach, Cal., according to a postcard from Councilman Henry Taylor received today by Recorder Thomas Fitz Gerald. Mr. Taylor writes that the climate has been excellent ever since happens to some extent each year but is believed to be more widespread this year than for several seasons.
