

People Here and There

When J. J. Hamley was just "Jawn" about 20 years ago and G. W. Courts was "George" to him, L. A. Kerr used to shoot at the traps with J. J. and play checkers with G. W. Later J. J. moved to Pendleton and likewise drifted G. W. hence, Mr. Kerr followed in the field of sports probably more closely than his friends from youth and only last summer worked one hour and 42 minutes taking a 24 pound salmon from the Willamette river at Oregon City with a six-ounce trout rod on a 150-foot line testing 25 pounds. Mr. Kerr says he helped plant trout fry in every stream in Idaho and Eastern Washington and assisted in establishing the first modern fish hatchery in Washington, in Stevens county. He tells many a story of the great outdoors and on occasion will stretch the length of a fish considerably, according to Mr. Hamley. When he is not killing bear or catching fish, or telling bear stories and fish stories, Mr. Kerr sells life insurance. He is agency manager of the Missouri State Life Insurance Co., with headquarters in Portland, and he is here to appoint a district manager for Eastern Oregon, with local headquarters.

J. P. O'Brien, general manager for the O. W. R. & N., came to Pendleton this morning from Portland to see how things were running. After noticing that No. 17, due here at 11:25 a. m. would arrive tonight at 7:25, he left for a visit to Pomeroy, Washington. Mr. O'Brien and T. P. O'Brien, local depot agent, are brothers.

Harvey McPherson returned this morning from Astoria, where he attended a meeting of the Oregon Retail Merchants Association. He was honored by election to the office of third vice-president of the association. Mr. McPherson represented his firm, the Pendleton Cash Market, at the convention.

other men whoever he may be, will know he has been in a fight when it's all over," the candidate assured Mr. Peterson.

Two county superintendents, two city superintendents and two teachers from the schools of Oregon are meeting in Portland today to discuss the features of the two-mill tax bill for school purposes which will be on the referendum ballot May 21. P. P. Austin, Pendleton's city superintendent, went to Portland last night to attend the meeting as a member of the committee.

J. G. Burt visits O. W. R. & N. passenger depots and keeps a close eye on the books. Mr. Burt is traveling auditor for the railroad and was in Pendleton yesterday. He left for Portland this morning.

Before he came to the United States, Rev. W. H. Cox, pastor of the Baptist church in this city, occupied pulpits in England. Rev. Cox returned yesterday morning from Portland, where he attended the Inter-church Conference of Oregon pastors, held at the Portland Hotel. Rev. Cox says that Oregon's quota for Baptist churches will be $1,045,000, as a part of the $300,000 to be raised in the state by all the churches. The sum is to be raised in five years.

The farm bureau meeting here today enticed T. P. DeFreece away from his Athena ranch for the day. Mr. DeFreece already has a good reputation for raising wheat but he is letting no chance slip by to learn how to get one more bushel to the acre.

L. P. McFeely, who trained in the J. C. Penney store here but is now manager of their store at The Dalles, was in Pendleton yesterday. He passed through to Walla Walla to attend the funeral of Mrs. Cary Taylor, he and Mr. Taylor having worked in the store here at the same time.

John Hailey Jr., who is acting as recorder and police judge while Judge Thomas Fitz Gerald is ill, was once incumbent in that office, which recalls a story of why police business is always slack when he is acting as police judge. Police Chief Kearney had told an undesirable to leave town. In a few days she was back. "I told you to leave town," he said. "Well, I'm back," she replied. The chief ordered her to get out or he would lock her up. The woman suggested that he could go ahead and lock her up. On their way to jail the woman had a thought. "Chief, who is police judge now, Fitz Gerald or Hailey?" "Hailey," the chief replied. "I'll leave town," she said.

J. W. Maloney, who has been in Portland on business connected with the C. W. Brownfield estate, of which he is executor, returned to Pendleton this morning.

Arthur H. Rudd, member of the state highway force here, has recovered from an illness of several months' duration and last night attended the Father and Son banquet, where his son, Arthur, acted as toastmaster. Mr. Rudd was formerly county surveyor in Walla Walla county and resided in Joseph and Enterprise before moving to Pendleton.

Claud Penland is a father but all his sons are daughters. He could not borrow any of his nephews, for their dadas brought them to the Father and Son banquet last night. But that didn't keep him from attending. He slipped in as a son, his father, L. E. Penland, accompanying him. The councilman was probably the oldest son who appeared at the banquet with an honest-to-goodness father.

The county farm bureau meeting in Pendleton today has brought a group of representative farmers to Pendleton, Athena and Milton. Among them are Sim Culley, formerly a merchant of Weston now engaged in farming; George Bode of Milton, well known wheat raiser; A. R. Shumway, Milton farmer and secretary of the Oregon-Washington-Idaho Farmers' Union; J. P. Slover, wheat grower and insurance man of Milton; and A. R. Coppock, who farms wheat land in the Athena region.

After pioneering in Horniston years ago when the irrigation project was in its infancy, Colonel J. F. McNaught of Horniston, now owns what is considered to be the finest alfalfa farm in the west end of the county. Colonel McNaught, who is in the city to attend the farm bureau meeting, says that people of the west end are anxious to have snow fall in the mountains, to aid irrigation.

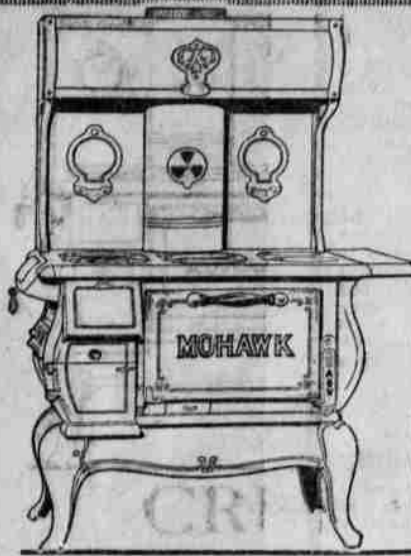

Otto Hooser, who left Pendleton recently for Washougal to take a position with the Washougal Woolen Mills, is pining for the sunshine of Eastern Oregon. Otto in a letter to Pendleton friends says that during seven days the sun has shone for only half a day upon him and Washougal. He was employed here for seven years with the Pendleton Woolen Mills.

Mr. and Mrs. F. R. Ellis, Miss Dorothy Davis and Cliff Lancaster, of the Siegel Stock Co., are in the city for tonight's performance at the Oregon theatre. They appear in Walla Walla and in Boise, Idaho, during the week and in Pendleton Friday and Saturday nights.

That he might attend the "Father and Son" banquet last night with his father, J. E. Ames, Russell Akers arrived yesterday from Walla Walla. He is a student at Whitman college, and a graduate of the Pendleton high school of the class of 1919.

F. L. Castle and J. H. McDermott, of Pocatello, Idaho, are here today. Mr. and Mrs. A. H. McGee of Fairfield, Idaho, are at the Golden Inn. R. C. Mosely is here from Portland today.

F. Hamlen is in the city from Kamela. J. A. Gugin is in Pendleton from Holdman today.

FORD

The Universal Car

BUY YOUR FORD CAR NOW

To make sure of getting a Ford car, buy one now. Don't wait until spring but buy now while deliveries are possible. Even next month is an uncertainty. The number of Ford cars allotted to this territory is limited and specified. Even to get our allotment, we must have real, bona-fide orders for cars. Just so many cars allotted us; just so many will get cars; will you be one of them? Those who order their cars now will be protecting themselves. If you would be forehanded, get your name on an order today. Don't think you cannot use it if you get it now. The four seasons are all alike to the Ford car. It is a necessity every month of the year. Besides, the Ford car is lowest in upkeep cost and easiest in operation. And the new Ford electric starting and lighting system makes driving more convenient. Your order for either open or enclosed cars will have our prompt attention.
