Best appreciation of the Bargain Basement has been shown in the past week or so, for we've seen an enormous business in shoes for the entire family. "Shoes" are the biggest item of the family's expense.

Our Thread at 3c Per Spool is proving quite popular these days. It must be pretty good, otherwise our patrons wouldn't buy so much of it.

Soap—This is a new item just recently added to this popular shop. And such bargains. Everybody is pleased with these brands: Cuticura, Creme Oil, Olivet, Olive Cream, Castile Jergens, William's Cream Rose, Matinee Violet, Carnation and a dozen other good soaps.

The Remnant Tables are working overtime these days. And no wonder—the prices are so attractive.

Tap A Lac Household Points, the latest addition to this popular shop. This paint has always proven popular among those not so skilful with the brush, for it is compounded in such a way that it will thoroughly cover more surface than can be covered by the novice with any other paint. It is the Householder's Paint.

Don't Let the Scarcity of Pillow Tucking Bother You—The Bargain Basement has received a good, big, liberal shipment, and so long as it lasts it is yours. The quality is exceptionally good, the width 42-inches, the price 69c.

WHAT HAS EUROPE? ASK U. S. INVENTORS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.—American manufacturers and producers of raw materials are finding out what Europe must have to after as security before they send their materials abroad.

Inquiries are pouring into the department of commerce and labor here asking for details of arrangements whereby American inventors can assure themselves of payments for their goods either in the form of mortgages on the plants of the European manufacturer or dividends on stock.

Government officials here are of the opinion the United States inventor might in that way assist the United States producer and shipper sell his raw material and to get quick payment for it. Europe must have our raw material, they point out. It cannot get it unless it pays for it and it cannot pay for it unless credits are extended. It is the plan to back these credits up by accepting securities of the plants themselves.

Disinclined to Risk.

Generally speaking, big financial men are disinclined to risk heavily in Europe. Government officials, however, say investment of American dollars in Europe is natural and logical, if negotiable through private enterprise with safe and sure backing.

The government departments to which inquiries are being directed are inclined to caution Americans to invest in European industrial securities only after investigation both at home and abroad as to the enterprises to be invested in and the good faith of the American agents whether they be trading corporations or otherwise.

Would-be investors in Europe concern themselves as proof of their hopes, the enormous profits now being made by English cotton mills, which are reported to be earning dividends ranging up to 200 per cent on capital stock. Boom times dividends also are being paid by European concerns holding large oil and rubber properties.

Queries Flood Department.

Queries for information as to the standing and dividends paid by industrial companies in France, England and Italy are flooding many government departments here.

Many American businessmen pay the present situation is like that prevailing when the U. S. was building up its transcontinental railroads opening its great mines and having the foundations of great factories.

The great American fortunes of the coming generations are going to be made through foreign connections after paying burdensome taxes, according to the best observers. England will have a surplus of approximately one-half of the expected U. S. surplus, officials estimate. France can muster approximately $2,500,000,000. It is believed, and Italy perhaps a like sum. But from these surpluses, the British, Italian and French must deduct their taxes. The result, it is believed, will be a high increase in interest rates, which will attract American dollars, it is predicted.

American dollars placed in foreign securities and utilities will help the U. S. retain the vast export trade built up during the war, officials say. Everything possible is being done to encourage conservative investment of this kind. Eugene Meyer, Jr., managing director of the war finance corporation, is on record as favoring the lifting of foreign government and industrial securities on the New York stock exchange.

Charles Schuman, salesman for the Pendleton Mammogram, left this morning for a business visit in Portland.

Dr. F. G. Sypowi has had charge of the case. Mr. Harding is manager of the Paulsen Realty company and also interested in the Whitehead dancing pavilion.

Plans may be secured at the office of the Architect.
