THE RICHEST WOMAN

MRS. YONE SUZUKI

Mrs. Yone Suzuki is by far the best woman in the Orient, and probably the richest in the world. It is estimated that she made close $290,000,000 during the war.

BREACH OF PROMISE SUIT WINS HUSBAND

WALLA WALLA, March 12.—L. G. Sommers of College Place and Mrs. Elizabeth Young of Walla Walla obtained a marriage license Friday, this being the sequel of a breach of promise suit filed by Mrs. Young against Sommers on February 17 in which Mrs. Young claimed $10,000. She charged that Sommers had broken their engagement and gone to California, where he married another woman. Sommers returned from California Saturday and the courtship was renewed.

HARMLESS TOY BECOMES DANGEROUS PLAY THING

SAN FRANCISCO, March 11.—Declaring that the use of the ouija board is dangerous and that what was at first introduced as a harmless toy has become a grave menace, Dr. Fred Councilman, superintendent for the State's Asylum for the Insane at Stockton, said today: "The ouija board I consider a dangerous device, as it produces manifestations of hysteria and single belief, which excludes all others. Those who accept it as being occult have no mind for anything else." The statement of Dr. Councilman was brought out by the publication of the arrest of the El Cerrito families, who were found in a state of hysteria following the use of the ouija board.

THERE IS ROOM FOR COMPLAINT

WHATEVER may be the merits or the shortcomings of the bonus plan for soldier pay, the fact does stand out that congress has been niggardly in dealing with the subject of soldier aid. Congressmen have been so busy squabbling over the peace treaty and in trying to make political capital out of the 67 different expensive investigations that have been underway that they have had no time for reconstruction measures. It was with the greatest difficulty and only after using his veto power that President Wilson induced congress to make anything like adequate provision for care of our wounded. The recommendation of Secretary Lane for legislation giving land to returned soldiers has never been acted upon by congress. In fact the lawmakers have shown a general disposition to escape responsibility on this issue regardless of the valiant work of our soldiers and of the obvious fact that many of the returned men have not found it easy to reestablish themselves in civil life. This spirit has been unfair and it is not surprising that it has aroused discontent among the men who recently wore the uniform.

DISCOVERED

ICONTE BLASCO IBANEZ, author of the well known book, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," is in New York and he was quoted as having said at a banquet that in dealing with their wives American husbands should "Treat 'em rough." But the Spaniard repudiates the interview, said he was merely drinking a cup of coffee at the time and that what he means that "some American women, greatly as I admire them, do show a little tendency to take advantage of the great power they have over their husbands." He further added that in his opinion the situation is due to "real superiority" on the part of American women but of course he was in an apologetic mood, or perhaps he may be another form of the Irish-Spaniard so promiscuous these days.

NOT SO FEARFUL OF WET FEET

FIVE neutral countries, three in Latin America, have subscribed to the covenant of the League of Nations with a rashness that must chill the very marrow of a large section of the United States senate. From official communications just received at Washington it appears that Argentina "adheres unreservedly," Paraguay "unreservedly accepts," Chili joins with "no reservation" except that of pronouncing in due course upon amendments or modifications made by states which have not yet ratified; Persia "adheres unreservedly," and Spain announces its accession "without reserve." None of those countries see any of the dire perils that Lodge, Johnson et al point out. These neutral countries are perfectly willing to join the "world fire department" without asking for all kinds of exemptions and special privileges. They want the benefits of the league and are willing to assume their share of the possible burdens. Only the United States, most powerful nation on earth, has a senate that looks with frightened eyes and shivers at the thought of an "entangling alliance" to preserve the peace and safety of the world.

There are peculiar facts about the state treasurership and they truly need investigating.

March 15 will soon be here and "that reminds me."

AN OVERSEAS DIARY

(By Rev. J. M. Cornelison who served with the Y. M. C. A. overseas.)

October 9.—A letter came from E. L. Swartzlander telling of the boys already in the service. Many prisoners are coming back these days. Old Hindenburg's line at its strongest point, the St. Quentin canal tunnel, is about all in now. The Hunns are out in the open now and are retreating so fast that it is impossible to keep up with them with the big guns. They are able to retreat and get their big guns out of the way over good roads. Then what roads are not destroyed by the Allied barrage, are blown to pieces at all cross roads by German mines. The same is true of all bridges and rail roads. They are left twisted and distorted wrecks. The infantry might go faster, but all this repair work must be done so as to bring up the artillery. The English are great road builders and a mighty force of men are on the road work.

TIMBER FROM INDIAN LAND TO BENEFIT TRIBE

SALEM, Or., March 12.—Lands in the Klamath Indian reservation will not be opened for settlement until the timber thereon is removed and sold for the benefit of the tribe, according to a letter received at the state executive office from the department of the interior following receipt in Washington of a joint memorial adopted at the recent special session of the Oregon legislature asking congress to take action to the end of populating these lands with white settlers. "The unallotted lands of the Klamath reservation consist principally of heavily timbered tracts," says the letter received by Governor Olcott. "These lands are not suitable for farming and home-making purposes, and for that reason they are being held as a tribal asset for the benefit of the Indians." "We are aware that there has been considerable agitation recently from certain quarters of the question of disposing of these lands, but for the reasons already stated this department is not in favor of disposing of the lands at this time, either to the Indians or the general public. On the other hand, it is believed to be in the best interests of the Indians to hold the lands in their present status until the timber thereon can be sold and removed for the benefit of the tribe." "As evidence of our intentions in making this policy effective we are now selling timber on a large scale from the Klamath lands, and using the proceeds for the benefit and the industrial advancement of the Klamath Indians."

STABBED BY MANIAC

NEW YORK—Mrs. Elisabeth Verlinzky of Hoboken (above), and Mrs. Frances Hyde Zabriskie (below), were two of six victims stabbed by a demented elevator operator who ran amuck on Broadway recently. Both women were with their husbands when slashed.

Quality Products at Reasonable Cost

This is the reason why our customers are the most discriminating housewives in town. Everything we carry, from the vegetables fresh today to the Mazola that will keep for weeks, is selected on a quality basis.

Mazola, for instance, is a pure oil pressed from the golden American corn. Because it is all fat, you use 1/2 to 3/4 less Mazola for shortening than you need of butter or lard. Butter has more than fifteen per cent moisture.

Being richer than Butter, Mazola is more economical. This is a true quality product at reasonable cost.

As a salad oil we can heartily recommend Mazola. It has that delicious flavor from the corn. Mayonnaise dressing made with Mazola will keep for weeks without separating.

Not Accurate "I asked Miss Ann her age and she told me she was as old as her tongue and a little older than her teeth." "She's 49 years older than her teeth for I know she got them last week."—Baltimore American.
