HUGE SALARIES PAID TO CABARET DANCERS

An idea of the kind of salaries that are paid to high class cabaret dancers is provided by certain scenes and happenings in Vitagraph's new picture,

MUSTEROLE—QUICK RELIEF! NO BLISTER!

It Soothes and Relieves Like a Mustard Plaster Without the Burn or Sting

Musterole is a clean, white ointment, made with the oil of mustard. It does all the work of the old-fashioned mustard plaster—does it better and does not blister. You do not have to bother with a cloth. You simply rub it on—and usually the pain is gone!

Many doctors and nurses use Musterole and recommend it to their patients. They will gladly tell you what relief it gives from sore throat, bronchitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frost-bites, colds of the chest (it often prevents pneumonia).

"The Golden Shower." It is revealed that some solo dancers along Broadway earn from $150 to $500 a week, for restaurant appearances. This is on a par with salaries paid to some of the leading musical comedy and dramatic stage players.

"The Golden Shower" will be shown as the feature attraction at the Alta Theatre today.

Miss Leslie plays the role of Mary Kane, a beautiful little country girl student of a New York college, who possesses remarkable talents as a dancer. "Broadway Al" Campbell, a profane and spender of the Great White Way, finds out about her, and using underhand methods, causes her to be enlisted as a dancer in a Broadway cabaret.

The girl soon receives an offer of $150 a week which is followed by one of $500 a week. It is revealed that other women of the restaurant show receive salaries in proportion.

Mary, through her accidental experiences in the cabaret life, becomes involved in the affairs of "Broadway Al" and has his fortune suddenly thrust upon her. She spurns it, but is required to travel far into the West to restore the unsought millions to their rightful heir.

Serial Star Dons Diving Suit and Risks Life Under Sea To Make Film Thrill

The recently produced Vitagraph serial, "The Invisible Hand," starring Antonio Moreno in a great detective mystery story was much advertised by that company as "a serial whose action ranges from the clouds to the bottom of the sea." In the seventh episode of this chapter play, which will be presented at the Pastime Theatre today, they prove that part of their heralding when one of the most tense and exciting incidents of the serial is staged many fathoms under the water with the star, Moreno, garbed in a full diver's outfit.

More startling than this even is the submarine cave with its thick plate glass front on the bottom of the bay around which the action centers. Moreno in this chapter play has a part new and different from any he previously played. He is seen in the role of John Sharp, a famous detective who has been called upon by the Secret Service to wipe out a band of organized thieves and conspirators. He balks an attempt of the chief of the gang, Iron Hand and his cohorts to steal a basket of valuable jewels. They, however, make away with the Jeweler who knows where the gems are hidden and they imprison him in one of their many nests—a submarine cave. This cave has a secret opening at one end near the bay.

Moreno, unable to find this opening, dons a diving suit and walks on the bottom of the bay to learn the location of submarine cavern and its glass-covered front. The skillful manner in which this scene was taken in face of all the natural difficulties, makes an incentive alone for seeing this particular chapter.
