News of Pendleton

Permit for Repairs Issued

A permit was issued last night on the recommendation of the fire committee, to Tull & Livingston to repair a roof in ahouse recently damaged by fire. The cost of the repairs is $15.

Department Appeals for Help.

The department of agriculture is sending out a circular letter to commercial bodies, appealing to people in the towns to assist in the forth-coming harvests. One of these letters was received today by the Pendleton Commercial Association. The appeal affects more directly the middle west country and sections where small farms are the rule.

Secretaries Will Confer.

Secretary C. K. Cranston, of the Pendleton Commerical Association, will go to La Grande tonight on No. 18 for a conference with A. W. Nelson, secretary of the Union county Ad Club, regarding the program for the forthcoming convention of the Oregon Association of Commercial Secretaries here next Monday and Tuesday. Mr. Nelson is secretary of the secretarial body. Mr. Cranston expects to return to Pendleton tomorrow noon.

Fourteen Tracts Not Leased.

All but 14 of the 200 tracts of Indian land put up for lease last Saturday have been bid on and the bids accepted, according to Major E. I. Swartzlander, Indian agent. The 14 tracts include some upon which present tenants forgot to bid and others on which it is believed the appraisal was too high. These, together with a few additional tracts, will be readvertised and the bids called for August. The highest rental price of any land up for lease last Saturday was $22.50 per acre, the agent reports.

Will Be Visitor.

Donald Woodworth left last night for Eugene, where he will attend the University of Oregon Junior Week-end festivities as the guest of his brother, Lawrence Woodworth, at the Beta Theta Pi house.

J. M. Mell Here.

J. M. Mell, of the Bureau of Markets Washington, D. C., is here today. He is conferring with Fred Bennion, county agriculture agent. Mr. Mell's title is investigator of cooperative organization. He is on his way east after a visit at O. A. C.

Franseen Buys Out Partner.

Carl E. Franseen today announced the purchase of the interest of Albert Lindgren in the Lindgren & Franseen tailor business. Mr. Franseen, by the deal, becomes sole owner. The firm opened here nearly three years ago, the members having come from Portland. Mr. Lindgren has not announced his plans for the immediate future.

Is in Hospital.

Mrs. James Cramer, of Nye, is a patient at St. Anthony's hospital.

Sam Wright Is Ill.

Sam Right is ill at his home on Main street. His condition is not serious.

Little Son Is Born.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Myers of Echo are the parents of a little son born on Saturday at St. Anthony's hospital.

Cutting Corners Costs $2.

E. Lyman was arrested by Traffic Officer Lyday today charged with violating the traffic laws by cutting corners. He was fined $2 in police court. Joe Mizard, charged with speeding, was fined $5.

Secretary Candidate Here.

W. D. Wood, of Hillsboro, a candidate for the republican nomination for secretary of state, is in Pendleton today on a swing over the eastern part of the state in the interests of his candidacy. He came this far by auto, but owing to the threatened gasoline shortage, sent his car back and will go from here by train to La Grande and Baker.

Millinery Schools Close.

Miss Lydia Doolittle, millinery expert from O. A. C. who has been conducting millinery schools in this county, left last night for O. A. C. She held schools in Pendleton, Pilot Rock, Umatilla, Hermiston and Milton during her stay in Umatilla county. She came here through arrangement made by Miss Ella May Harmon, county demonstration agent.

Miss Hartley Is Visitor.

Miss Helen S. Hartley, R. N., who represents the bureau of nursing, is in Pendleton today to confer with Miss Florence B. Smiley, county Red Cross nurse. Miss Hartley's duty is to visit various parts of the state to investigate the work in public nursing. She just returned from the southeastern part of the state where she installed a nurse in Harney county.

Prospects Are Good.

Recruiting prospects are good, according to R. Carr, recruiting officer for the United States navy who returned today after a visit in Baker, Ontario, Vale, Huntington, Crane, Payette and Wieser. He reports that D. E. Harris, chief electrician, has been sent to Enterprise and Joseph in the interests of recruiting.

Dr. Lytle is Here.

Dr. W. H. Lytle, state veterinarian, is in the city today from Salem. He is conferring with the local office of the Umatilla Forest Office regarding sheep scabies. A recent order, issued by the forest office, makes it compulsory for sheep to have been declared free from scabies before they are allowed on the forest. The inspection must be done not more than 30 days before the sheep enter the forest, and must be made by Bureau of Animal Industry officials or veterinarians approved by Mr. Lytle.

Mrs. Hayhurst Speaks.

Mrs. Elizabeth Hayhurst, state president of the Parent Teacher Associations, spoke last night at the county library in favor of the higher educational tax and the elementary school tax. Later she gave a four minute talk to the audience at the high school play, "The Elopement of Ellen." Mrs. Hayhurst is a forceful and convincing speaker and is well informed on the two measures which come before the people May 21. Preceding the talk at the library, Mrs. Hayhurst was entertained at dinner at Hotel Pendleton, by 18 local women who are interested in the cause of education. Mrs. Hayhurst left for Portland last night.

McCarroll has Collision

Two machines, one owned by E. J. Murphy and another by J. P. Murphy were run into this morning by Ray McCarroll, as he was driving toward Main street on Court street. The machines were hit from the rear and were not damaged. Tires on the rear of the E. J. Murphy car, which was hit hardest, saved it from being wrecked. In swerving after the collision, McCarroll's car narrowly escaped hitting Al Slusher, who was standing in the street near the Murphy Paint Store. The accident attracted a crowd of 50 people.

April Police Court Busy

There were 55 cases on the police court docket during April, according to the report of Recorder Thomas Fitz Gerald, filed with the council last night. Of this number, 34 were for drunk and disorderly, while 19 were for traffic violations. Twenty-eight offenders paid fines, and 20 forfeited bail. Six went to jail, while one case was continued. The ines from police court during the month totaled $531.50. There were also 21 building permits issued during the month, for a total of $18,190.

Medford Asks for Next Meeting.

An invitation from the Medford Chamber of Commerce to the Oregon Association of Commercial Secretaries to meet at Medford in the fall was received today by C. K. Cranston, secretary of the Pendleton Commercial Association, from H. O. Frohbach, secretary. Mr. Frohbach says in his letter that he now finds it impossible for him to attend the meeting here next week but wants the association to be guests of his city at their next meeting. This is the first bid received for the fall meeting, so far as is known here.

Committee Seeing Merchants.

The committee of the Pendleton Commercial Association in charge of the Oregon Products Week, today visited local merchants with the request that they sign up to display Oregon products only in their windows during the week of June 14 to 19. Those who object to giving the entire week will not be pressed, according to N. J. Blydenstein, chairman. Several letters from the Associated Industries of Oregon, which body sponsors these displays, have been received, urging local merchants to give the entire week instead of three days, as suggested by a few merchants.
