ROMANCE IS THEME OF

Romance, romance—theme of the sweetest melody of old age—romance, that sings in the green wood and is wafted upon the air of Spring—romance, in short, that is one of the most delectable things in life, is the motif of Constance Talmadge's new Select Picture, "Romance and Arabella," in which she is presented by Lewis J. Seligman, "Romance and Arabella" is a comedy of the stage by William Harbutt, will be seen today at the Alta Theatre.

Constance Talmadge has been called the girl of a thousand expressions because she possesses the ability to alter her expression in the manner with such remarkable ease and adaptability. She is probably the most vivacious actress of the screen, with that effervescent, bubbling youth that is irresistible and irrefragable. In her various Select pictures she has displayed an originality of style and charm that is as indefinable as it is apparent. There is no doubt but that in "Romance and Arabella" she has achieved a masterpiece of characteristic and realistic acting. The picture is a comedy of the highest type and is perfectly suited to the beautiful young star.

ARCADIE TODAY

The quickness and thoroughness with which Nazimova, the brilliant Russian artist now appearing in her latest production, "The Brut" at the Arcadie Theatre, mastered the English tongue was one of the sensations of the theatrical season in New York. From comparative obscurity, playing in Russian dramas with Fain Orloff, on the East Side, the chance for her great triumph came. She was offered a contract to appear on Broadway in Ibsen dramas—in English.

Hartley Davis, in a magazine article which appeared shortly after her first engagements on Broadway, commented:

"On June 23 last, the day she began studying the new language, Alla Nazimova's English vocabulary consisted of 'bugger' and 'more'—a joker had told her 'more' meant 'that is all,' and it made her and the London porter who handled her baggage quite frank—'seasick,' which she learned on the ship coming over; and 'all right,' which she picked up on the subway in New York.

"She employed a teacher who talked English to her four hours a day. In six weeks she learned to think in English—After that progress was rapid. Within five months she faced a critical New York audience—she didn't even have a chance to play out of town first—and in English.

"She has an accent, it is true, a very delightful accent, but the pronounced with such clearness, such perfect enunciation, that it is not the slightest effort to follow her. Indeed, it is easier to understand what she says on the stage than it is three-fourths of our native-born actresses. And not only did she learn to speak English in that time, but to write it without mistakes."

MUST HAVE PERMIT TO USE LOCKS AT
PEARL HARBOR, T. H.

(By Associated Press.)
HONOLULU, T. H., May 12.—After July first all commercial or privately-owned vessels desiring to use the locks at Pearl Harbor, the big naval base in the Hawaiian Islands, must have a license signed by the commandant of the naval station, according to an order just issued by Commander R. P. Ehrlich, acting-commandant.

The new order gives the navy absolute control over the Pearl Harbor locks and also forbids any commercial vessel, not of American registry to enter Pearl Harbor. It affects the harbor entrance and all harbor waters.

Pearl Harbor is divided into several smaller bodies of water known as West Loch, Middle Loch, East Loch and Southeast Loch, with various connecting channels.

and beautify

THE first essential of paint is to preserve. Second, to beautify. Too many people make the mistake of considering only the latter, consequently buy paints of inferior quality.

The result is a temporary beautifying effect, without preserving the wood.

FULLER Paints and other products are of that quality which preserves and beautifies. Through their use, inside and out, years of life will be added to your home and it will be made more livable to yourself and family.

Seventy-one years of paint-making experience are back of every brushful of FULLER Products. Insist on FULLER'S and you'll be sure of results. And remember, there's a FULLER Product for every paintable surface—inside and out.
