GOOD WILL IS WAY, HOOVER POINTS, TO INDUSTRIAL PEACE

Collective Bargaining and Public Opinion Are Admitted in Guide But Compulsory Arbitration is Opposed.

(By United Press.) He said no revolutionary steps should be attempted. He declared against injunctions, compulsory arbitration and industrial courts, "because these lead ultimately to fail as a means of enforcement."

The only hope lies in moderate employers and moderate labor leaders, not in revolutionary steps or "extremist" leaders on either side, Hoover said. He declared that this country need have no fear of strikes being used for political ends, and that labor leaders thus far have used them only in the interests of labor.

DARING TRAIN BANDIT KILLED IN BARRICADE AFTER PITCHED BATTLE WITH HUNDRED POLICE

Climbs Aboard Limited at Illinois Suburb Entering Mail Car With Postal Badge and Jumps With $100,000 Loot.

(By United Press.) CHICAGO, May 14.—Two policemen, shot in this morning's pistol battle with Horace Walton, bandit, died today.

CHICAGO, May 14.—A lone bandit, who successfully held up the Illinois Central passenger train late last night, obtained a mail pouch containing foot valued at $100,000, was trapped and killed early today. The pouch was recovered.

Horace Walton, the bandit, carried a postal clerk's badge, with which he obtained entry to the mail car. He covered five messengers with a revolver and forced them to give him four registered mail bags which he placed in a pouch. He kept the messengers at bay for two hours and a half. When the train slowed down in a Chicago suburb, he leaped from the car. The police saw him jump and attempted to stop him. He fired at the pursuers, probably fatally wounding W. A. Roberts.

Cordon Closes In. The police trailed him to an apartment house where a pistol duel was fought for two and a half hours. Finally a cordon was thrown around the building and windows and doorways bombarded by the police with hundreds of shots. Walton fell with a bullet in the brain. Policeman Scribner was seriously wounded in the fight.

While fleeing from the police after leaving the train, Walton leaped the pouch into an empty lot. It was picked up and taken to the police station.

After entering the mail car at Kankakee, Walton drove the messengers to a corner and bound the hands of the chief messenger. He talked and laughed with the messengers while holding them at bay.

Teatants Escape Bullets. "You'll have to kill me. Anybody who tries to get in here gets croaked," Walton shouted when the police trapped him in the apartment. A score of shots made a sieve of his bed room window. The tenants of the building were awakened but did not leave their rooms for fear of being struck by bullets. Many lay on the floor during the battle. Walton was shot four times.
