SALVAGERS SEARCH SEA FOR SUNKEN TREASURE

(By Associated Press.) VONCOUVER, B. C., May 22.—To delve into the unknown depths of the sea off the west coast of Vancouver Island and wrest therefrom the treasures hidden for many years is the object of S. Maddison and his party of salvagers who began operations early in May. Last autumn Maddison made submarine cruises along the coast which line the coast of the island and located four large wrecks besides a number of small ones.

Two of the larger he identified as the Pass-of-Mellford and the Valencia, and one of the others he thinks is the long lost H. M. S. Condor which disappeared in 1902 and has not been heard of since. Some of the boats which met their fate on the perilous west coast carried cargoes which at the time of sinking did not make it worth while salvaging, but under present day conditions it is thought there is freight aboard the vessels almost worth its weight in gold.
