MACK SENNETT'S GREATEST EFFORT SOON TO BE SHOWN

Archie Theatre Announces That They Have Secured From United Artists the Year's Greatest Comedy Effort

Mack Sennett's newest comedy creation, a five part comedy production, "Down on the Farm," regarding which there has been no end of exceptionally favorable comment since its issuance by United Artists Corporation, will be the feature at the Archie Theatre on Thursday, Friday and Saturday giving the people of this community the opportunity of witnessing a comedy production that is making film history.

The release of "Down on the Farm" through United Artists Corporation is not to be wondered at, for the production is of such magnitude that it fits in admirably with the type of pictures in which the "Big Four" has been specializing. It has been known for some time that United Artists would not confine itself only to the distribution of the productions of Mary Pickford, Charlie Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks and D. W. Griffith exclusively, but would distribute the occasional big productions that came to the open market for specialization in distribution. This is an indication that the "Big Four" will have a release line of wide variety in addition to the big productions of its four principals.

Critics everywhere throughout the country have praised this production "to the skies," placing it in a class all its own, as a production that reaches the greatest heights that have ever been reached by a producer of comedy spectacles. Every resource of the enormous Mack Sennett studios in California are involved in the results of this production; every means that was ever contrived in a studio to bring merriment to motion picture lovers has been brought into play and every incident that is brought about by the story which is laid on a real honest-to-goodness farm in the inimitable manner in which none other but a Sennett could do, brings forth results that are thrilling, comic, hilarious, farcical and furiously funny.

Astonishing in the extreme is the wonderful manner in which Mr. Sennett succeeded in training the birds and beasts of the farm to act the leading roles in this production. A dog, a cat, a cow, a flock of turkeys, ducks, geese, and chickens, all lead themselves to parts in the production in a way that has never before been accomplished. The work of these habits of the farm is of such a nature that every audience becomes amazed at the manner in which they perform.

"Down on the Farm" is an exceptional feature and has been a sensation in every community in which it has appeared. It is not a matter of wonderment why United Artists decided to release it, since it surely is in excellent keeping with the best that is being produced for the lovers of amusement.

New Style of Train Hold-Up Invented for Movies

It has been said that about every style of holding up a train has been used in actual carrying out of such an act or on the motion picture screen. The Vitaphone serial, "The Invisible Hand," during the fifteenth episode, which will be shown at the Pastime Theatre today shows a brand new, unique and thrilling train hold-up but not a safe one to pattern after.

This serial, which finishes up with this chapter, shows the Crime Trust, who the Secret Service are trying to catch, active in their daring plundering. One of the last jobs they attempt, before their capture comes, is the robbery of an express shipment of gold. One of the bandits hides himself under the car, containing the express shipment, as the train leaves the station. While it is blowing along at a mile a minute, the bandit chops a hole through the floor of the express car and before the startled and surprised messengers and guards in charge of the gold shipment realize what is happening they are covered by his pistol. The staging of this scene meant the taking of considerable risk on the part of the actor in the role of the hold-up man and it is worth seeing.

Probably there is nothing quite so unsatisfactory as the good judgment a man might have used but didn't.

WILLIAM FARNUM IS A MAN'S MAN

William Farnum puts one of the most dramatic and intense fights ever staged into the thrilling ending of his new photoplay, "Wolves of the Night," a fight into which Farnum throws himself with the agility of an athlete and the skill of a champion. As the desperate man, resolved to win back wife, child and fortune, from devilish schemers, he locks himself in an office, attacks three who attempt to coerce him with a pistol, and there, in an stirring encounter as has ever been pictured, baffles them. This fight, which is just one of the many intense scenes in that compelling photoplay of love and suspense, "Wolves of the Night," a William Fox production, showing at the Alta Theatre today, is one more demonstration of the surprises Farnum has up his sleeve.

Poets are born and sometimes they are paid.
