

People Here and There

C. H. Kay, who is employed by the Pendleton Auto Company, left this morning for a day's business visit in La Grande.

Dr. Ella Terpening, one of the pioneer women doctors of the city, left yesterday for Vancouver, Washington where she will attend the National Chiropractic convention. She will return Thursday.

Mrs. Minnie Henderson, head of the art department of The Peoples Warehouse, left yesterday on a buying and pleasure trip to San Francisco. She will visit in Seattle before returning to Pendleton.

Tex Ellis and Robert Brenner, automobile dealers, arrived home this morning from a week's vacation trip that took them to the Shrine convention at Portland and to the seashore at Seaside. They drove to Portland from Pendleton a week ago and on Friday motored over the Columbia highway to Seaside. They left Seaside last night and came direct to Pendleton.

George Garrett, who used to be with the state highway commission in Pendleton, is now city manager at La Grande and is making good. He was in Pendleton on Sunday for a short visit, having arrived from Portland on No. 8. Mr. Garrett lived in Ada, Ohio, from whence came Manuel Friedly, councilman and chairman of the school board. Mr. Garrett was a guest at the Friedly home yesterday before taking No. 18 for La Grande.

Movies of the Pendleton Round-Up, shown in Pasadena, California, so attracted Mrs. Edith C. Sanford, and daughter, Miss Phyllis Sanford, of Brooklyn, New York, that they decided to include Pendleton in their first tour of the west and are at Hotel Pendleton for a week's stay. Miss Sanford is an enthusiastic young horse-woman and hopes to ride some real bronks while here. Mrs. Sanford brought letters of introduction from Seattle friends to H. W. Collins, and he promises the visitors a taste of the wild and woolly. The two ladies went from New York to New Orleans by boat, and thence to California. They have visited also in Portland, Seattle, and Vancouver and Victoria, B. C. After leaving Pendleton they will see Yellowstone Park before returning home. Mrs. Sanford's son resides in Oakland and she and her daughter plan to come west again and spend the winter with him.

Among homecoming Pendletonians this morning on No. 6, after a week's festivity in Portland, were Dale Shuster, Carl Peninger and Art Hanovan.

C. M. Sharpstein, formerly of Walla Walla, and a member of the well-known family of attorneys there, is in Pendleton from Los Angeles, visiting with friends and indulging in an occasional game of golf, at which he is an adept. Mr. Sharpstein has wheat interests in Wasco county and business interests in this vicinity and will also visit in Walla Walla before returning south.

Charles E. Bond and F. Willard Bond returned to Pendleton this morning after a week spent in Portland attending the Shrine convention.

Lyman G. Rice, assistant cashier of the First National Bank, returned this morning from a three weeks' trip which included the State Bankers' Convention at Eugene and the Shrine convention and allied Masonic gatherings at Portland.

Dan P. Smythe is home from Portland this morning after a visit of several days on business and pleasure combined, at Portland.

E. J. Murphy, his son Tom Murphy, Harold Brock of this city and Roland Andre, of Athena, arrived in Pendleton Saturday by auto from Portland. The latter three have been attending University of Oregon and they, with Mr. Murphy, spent Shrine week in Portland.

C. S. Jerard left last night for Portland on business. He will join Mrs. Jerard, who has been visiting relatives in that city.

J. W. Brooks, an attorney from Walla Walla, is in Pendleton today on legal business in connection with the estate of the late Jesse Reeves.

Three generations are represented at the C. Christensen home since the arrival yesterday of Mr. and Mrs. Louis F. Anderson and 18 months old daughter Joanne. Mr. Anderson, who resides in Colfax is the grandson of Mr. Christensen. The visitors came to this city by auto and will remain for a few days.

On his way to Hepelem, Washington, to bring the remains of his nephew, the late Chief Joseph, to the Wallowa valley for re-interment, Peo Peo Tahltik, chief of the Nez Perce Indians, was in Pendleton yesterday to see Major Lee Moorhouse. He was accompanied by his interpreter, Dan Red Hart and by James Moore, the Chief, who is known to his palface friends as White Crane, hopes to move the monument erected to the memory of Chief Joseph from Nehalem to the new burial place. The new location will be at the side of the elder Chief Joseph.

James Cooke, of Overbeck & Cooke, Portland broker, is a Pendleton business visitor today.

NEWS OF THE COUNTY OFFICES AND OFFICERS

Charged With Taking Water.
Watermaster A. E. Perry last week filed charges in the justice court at Echo against the Furnish Ditch Co., charging them with taking water out of the Umatilla river belonging to the Western Land & Irrigation Co., and the government Umatilla project. The company promised to release from their reservoir a volume of water equivalent to that which was alleged to have been appropriated and the charges were then dropped by Mr. Perry.

Marriage License Issued.
A marriage license was issued this morning to Clarence R. Smith, Dan White Salmon, Wash., and Miss Grace Oliver, of Pendleton.

Court Hearing Objections.
The probate court today heard objections to the acceptance of the final report and account in the estate of the late Jesse Reeves. The opposing attorneys were J. H. Raley and J. W. Brooks, of Walla Walla. The hearing was held before Judge C. H. Marsh.

Nominated for Representative.
J. H. Raley and W. N. Scott, of Pendleton, have been notified by Secretary of State Sam Kozler to appear at Salem in the near future to draw lots with C. E. Woodson, of Heppner, for the democratic nomination for joint representative from Morrow and Umatilla counties. All three men received the same number of votes in the recent primaries, their names having been written in on the ballot.

Roads in South to Have Repairs.
The county commissioners on their recent trip to the John Day river over South Umatilla county roads, agreed that repairs should be made to the Bridge creek and John Day grades and already have placed a crew of men at work toward Bridge Creek. They found the roads very rough, as reported, and arranged for temporary relief. The state highway commission office here has promised to send a crew to survey the road from Nye to the Grant county line as soon as they can be assembled. This probably will be right after July 4. The surveying party will locate a new road from Nye to the county line and probably will traverse a timbered area, in which event aid may be available for the road when constructed. The party, which included County Judge C. H. Marsh, Commissioners B. E. Anderson and G. L. Dunning and Roadmaster R. E. Phelps, returned Saturday night. Mr. Phelps will go to the Camas creek country again on Saturday to examine further the feasibility of using that route for the new road. The John Day grade is to be abandoned for the main road, it is said.

OHIO DELEGATION SETS OFF FIRST FIREWORKS

(By United Press.)
SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—Ohio, set off the first fireworks of the convention upon the arrival of her delegation here Saturday. Behind two brass bands—one of red coated Ohioans—they marched up Market Street, whooping it up for Governor Cox and intoning the glories of the Buckeye state.

EXPULSED RAILROAD MEN INVITED BACK

(By Associated Press.)
CHICAGO, June 28.—W. G. Lee, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, today began work in an effort to bring back into brotherhood ranks 15,000 workers who were expelled for taking part in unauthorized strikes during the past year.

The Sparkle of Cut Glass

There is nothing that enhances the beauty of the table more than the sparkle of a piece of cut glass. A vase, a center bowl, or a water set is enough to give that tone of refinement that so pleases the discriminating woman.

Hawkes and Libby's names are your guarantee for correctness in cut glass. Both of these well known makes are shown extensively at Military Caste Apparent.

A military caste is very apparent in Japan, Mr. Hartman said he learned. Notwithstanding this, the little brown men are declared to be friendly toward the United States and other powers and desire to emulate them in progress and in world trade. "Individually the Japanese are very courteous and obliging; as a nation they are aggressive to the point of straining international relations in the orient," he said.

The Philippine Islands, where, 22 years ago, Mr. Hartman served with the Second Oregon regiment as a lieutenant, were visited early in the trip. Spots where his unit camped, where skirmishes were fought and men were wounded, all looked familiar. Mr. Hartman went over the ground with Major Eastwick and Captain Heath, formerly officers in his regiment, now engaged in business in the islands. The three men covered by auto in a few days the ground that it took a year's campaigning to cover.

Questions Independence.
"Americans in the Philippines who have no political gain in view and who are otherwise disinterested, tell me that it is their honest conviction that Philippine independence at this time is not feasible," he said. "There are many Filipinos who are highly educated and are capable of administrative methods. As a whole, however, they are not ready for self government." "I was told that even Aguinaldo, who led the revolution against the Americans, has expressed the belief that self determination for the islands should not yet come. Americans who have large investments there would have to stand good for the Philippines' note if the islands were freed to go it alone as a nation."

Visit Interior China.
Interior China, which was visited by the Hartmans, resembles agricultural lands of the island empire in places. Farms are small, however, methods quaint and people on the land very numerous. Railroads in China are well built, having been supervised by American and European engineers. Koreans, Mr. Hartman said, are quaint in their dress and customs, and appear to be a cross between Japanese and Chinese.

"The entire trip was wonderful and every detail was looked after in such manner that nothing was left to do but see and learn," Mr. Hartman said. The trip consumed four months, starting from San Francisco February 23 and ending at Seattle Friday.

CONVENTIONALITIES

W. E. Purdy confessed he is against the league covenant as given to the senate. His views did not disturb anybody. Purdy got elected by carrying a slogan for prohibition and the Bryan view.

All Oregon delegates were at the session, excepting Mrs. Richards, who was delayed. Mrs. Hildren wanted to be on the platform committee but was pacified with a position as Oregon's vice-chairman of the convention. Judge Crawford of Oregon, member of the resolution committee has a league plank in which he oppers hope to freland through the league of nations.

There was a report last night that various elements have agreed to nominate a candidate before adoption of a platform, but it may not be true.

An Oregon man who talked with a Tammany chief says Tammany will not stand out against McAdoo.

The Washington delegation is for McAdoo but there is some Cox sentiment among the delegates.

Service men who were among the convention delegates today perfected plans for obtaining an endorsement from the democratic party for a bonus legislation.

Definite selection of Senator Robinson of Arkansas, as permanent chairman of the convention is reported today to be agreed on. Robinson is reported to be writing a speech as permanent chairman.

DEMOCRATIC DERBY STARTS

almost perfect silence, although there was a little handclapping as he denounced the republican platform as an insult to a progressive element.

As Kremer continued his verbal broadside at the republicans the crowd began to manifest more and more enthusiasm. Many of the delegates grew hoarse as a result of the Wilson demonstration. Some of the delegates jumped to their feet and cheered a full half minute when Kremer mentioned the League of Nations. The secretary read a formal call for the assembling of the convention at the conclusion of his speech. Cummings was escorted to the platform and delivered the keynote speech.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 28.—Here are the horses, both light and dark, who lined up at the post here today for the Democratic Derby. Their jockey-nominators are given also: William G. McAdoo former secretary of the treasury; nominator, Dr. Dr. Burris Jenkins, editor, Kansas City Post.

Gov. James M. Cox of Ohio; nominator, Supreme Court Justice James C. Johnson of Columbus, Ohio.
