FILMING OF "BLIND YOUTH," NATIONAL PICTURE, STOPS TRAFFIC IN LOS ANGELES

It's easy enough to get hurt in a traffic jam at a busy crossing, but to get into a jam and just manage to escape limousines and motor trucks by a scant inch is quite another matter, as any pedestrian or motion picture director will tell you.

In "Blind Youth," a National Picture, adapted by Katherine Reed from the famous stage success by Lou Tollegen and Willard Mack, it was planned to stage a nice little congregation of motor vehicles at a busy intersection. This was to be done for the benefit of Louis, a genial French painter in the picture, who was thus to get his first taste of American speed and recklessness.

It wouldn't do at all for friend Louis, played by Leo White, to flirt with a real traffic jam, for the production might thereby be minus an excellent actor and the angels' union in heaven might acquire a new member.

Director Edward Sloman therefore held a little conference with public officials of Los Angeles. The result was that for one hour traffic was held up on a busy Los Angeles street intersection, while a six-managed traffic jam was conducted which was just as satisfactory for picture purposes and left friend Louis in complete possession of his appetite and both feet. "Blind Youth" will be shown at the Arcade theatre, today.

CAST OF UNUSUAL MERIT IN BASIL KING PHOTOPLAY

An all-star cast may be seen in Basil King's "The Street Called Straight," and Eminent Authors production presented by Goldwyn at the Alta Theatre, beginning today.

Directed by Wallace Worsley, this photoplay is acted with precise understanding of the character values of each role.

Charles Cleary does excellent work as Henry Gulon, the oldest living representative of a New England family, who mistakes funds entrusted to him in order to keep up appearances.

Naomi Childers is seen as Olivia Gulon, his stately, proud daughter, whose assured position in society makes her see life in terms of cynicism and boredom. From this she is aroused by the generosity of Peter Davenant and his absolute indifference toward her. In realizing her own limitations, she learns to appreciate his possibilities.

Milton Sills has the role of Peter Davenant, a chivalrous, good-looking young man who gladly advances his aid to a friend in trouble. In direct contrast to Davenant is Colonel Rupert Ashley, played superbly by Lawson Butt. He seems to be consecrated to the idea of being worthy of his ancestors.

Trenn Rich's magnetic personality and charming presence add distinction to the part of Drusilla Fane, an attractive widow. Aley Francis is always good. His work as Rodney Temple is just another example of his consummate skill on the screen. Lydia Yeamans Titus gives a splendid impersonation of Aunt Vic, Mme. De Melcourt, and Jane Sterling as Mrs. Temple completes an excellent cast.

LEVER IS FASTEST ON GET-AWAY

LEVER - MURCHISON

Harold Lever, the brilliant young sprinter of the Meadowbrook club, with but one day to trah in before trying out in the Philadelphia Olympic preliminaries, was barely nosed out of first place by L. Murchison, the N. Y. A. C. star. Lever, although he has somewhat short and stubby legs, is a brilliant and powerful runner. There was little doubt in the minds of those who saw him work out in the tryouts here that he would have beaten Murchison had it not been for lack of training. Lever has one of the speediest starts ever seen, his leap at the gun appearing to be at least ten feet and giving a lead that is hard for anyone to cut down.

50 Years Ago

a young man who practiced medicine in a rural district became famous and was called in consultation in many towns and cities because of his success in the treatment of disease. This was Dr. Pierce who afterward moved to Buffalo, N. Y. He made up his mind to place some of his medicines before the public, and he put up what he called his "Favorite Prescription," and placed it with the druggists in every state in the Union.

For fifty years Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has sold more largely throughout the United States than any other medicine of like character. It's the testimony of thousands of women that it has benefited or entirely eradicated such distressing ailments as women are prone to. It is now sold by druggists in tablet form as well as liquid.

ASTORIA, OREGON.—"I saw Doctor Pierce's advertisement and as I had tried so many things for woman's trouble without getting any help, I decided to try Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and I did so with good results. I think it is just great."—Mrs. D. Beck.

Heat Saps Power; Store up Energy

Keep digestion perfect with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and you will have strength to work

SUMMER is the season of vacations, of slowing up in work. And there is a good reason for it. Heat is enervating and work quickly tires. But people must work, and we should all keep ourselves in such fine physical condition that we can do our share even in hot weather.

Of first importance is to see that there is a regular, daily bowel elimination. If you skip a day you are constipated. Constipation, especially in summer, is quickly followed by fatigue, loss of appetite, chills and colds. There is no energy for work.

When you feel constipated and out of sorts, more tired than you know the circumstances warrant, take a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. This delightful laxative- tonic is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin and can be bought at any drug store.

Mr. Walter of 441 Minnie St., San Francisco, had to quit work because of constipation, colds and a train of other ills. He took Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and promptly recovered his health and strength and is now at work again.

You will make no mistake sending yourself a bottle of Syrup Pepsin and taking a little at the first sign of constipation.

Millions of people of all ages suffer from occasional or chronic constipation. Let them send name and address to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 512 Washington St., Monticello, Ill., for a free sample bottle of his wonderful Syrup Pepsin. 8 million bottles were bought at drug stores last year, the largest sale in the world.

The STREET CALLED STRAIGHT

Directed by Wallace Worsley
With a distinguished cast including Naomi Childers & Milton Sills

What ruin, what unhappiness is the inevitable climax to the blind, reckless struggle to "keep up appearances"—to gartify every extravagant whim—to rise to the level of the more fortunate. Olivia learned it—when it was too late. She learned what in her blindness she had never seen.

A vivid, pulsating cross-section of life. The work of a master author, relentlessly shedding the light of truth on a problem vital to every American man and woman. The opulent luxuries of society life—dramatic entertainment that pulses with the passions of life.
