OLD IMPERIAL REGIME ATTENDS LAST RITES

BERLIN, July 21.—Hundreds of members of the old German imperial regime were present today at the funeral of Prince Joachim. Among those present were Generals Hindenburg and Ludendorff.

To Feed 3000 Cattle
 A movement is being headed by W. H. Talley and A. W. Kasten of Walla Walla to have as many head of cattle from the drought stricken regions in Douglas county and the Okanogan district as possible shipped to Walla Walla county for wintering. It is estimated that 3000 cattle can be wintered on pasturage and straw there much cheaper than to try to ship the straw up there.

SOLID COMFORT.

(By Frank L. Stanton.)
 Swaying and swaying
 In a hammock 'neath the pines,
 And summer winds a-playing
 With the honeysuckle vines,
 Meadow-bells a-ringing
 To the summer day,
 And a mockingbird a-singing
 Like he'd sing his soul away!
 Solid comfort in it!
 No stormy-flag unfurled;
 You'd think not for a minute,
 Grief was in the world!

IN POOR GRACE

An effort is on to make political capital against Governor Cox because prior to America's entrance into the war his paper, the Dayton News, did not want America to become involved. But if that was an offense then most of the American people were sinners of the same stripe. No man wanted war, but when Germany resumed unrestricted submarine operations and refused to leave American ships alone we had to fight. Then the true test came and the record shows that Governor Cox was a good war governor.

Not only that but the governor wants to finish the fight and redeem the promise we made to the world and to our soldiers. He wants a League of Nations that will see to it that no international maddog breaks loose again as did the kaiser in 1914. His opponent on the other hand was one of the senate cabal that highly pleased Berlin by blocking the peace treaty and the league covenant for partisan reasons. The Harding contingent in the senate voted for a separate peace that would have sacrificed the goal our soldiers fought for and would have left our allies in the lurch. They are the ones who now howl about entangling alliances and would have Uncle Sam stay out of the world fire department for fear some time he might have to help fight a fire that was several blocks from his own doorstep.

Basing their own campaign on an appeal to cowardice and pacifism, it does not lie in the Harding newspapers to criticize Governor Cox because in prewar days his newspaper was disposed to favor peace.

THE SUREST REMEDY

THE fundamental cause for the present shortage of newsprint paper is the serious depletion of the forests of the Northeastern and the Lake states where there is an overdevelopment of the pulp and paper industries, according to a report to the senate by the forest service, United States department of agriculture, in response to a request for information on timber depletion, prices, exports, and ownership. The report, which has recently been made public, is one of the most comprehensive ever prepared dealing with the lumber resources of the nation.

Since the requirements of paper making restrict the kinds of wood that can be advantageously used in making newsprint four species—spruce, hemlock, balsam, and poplar—supply 84 per cent of the total amount manufactured in 1917, according to the report. The occurrence of these species chiefly in the Lake states and New England has led to the over-centralization of the paper-making industry there, it is stated.

From a standpoint of new raw material the best hope of this country is in Alaska. In the Tongass national forest in that territory there is said to be enough spruce and hemlock to permanently meet one half the American demand for newsprint. Accordingly there is a demand that this timber be brought into use.

On the other hand there are many who hold that with the natural increase in the demand for pulp it will be necessary to practice reforestation if we are to have a paper supply in the future.

WHAT HIRAM THOUGHT OF SOME OF THE DELEGATES

FOR those delegates who were elected in states having a preferential preference primary who violated their trust, there can only be odium and obloquy. These men betrayed a candidate to be sure, but this was the least of their sins. They betrayed their people. Decent, honest men, if they could not conscientiously obey the mandate of those who selected them as delegates, should not have become delegates. When they accepted the trust, fair-dealing, honor and righteousness demanded its fulfillment by them. When they were false to their pledged words, when they broke their faith, when they betrayed their people, they were as traitorous, as dishonest, as disreputable, as indecent as Benedict Arnold. Their treacherous stab was not at a candidate, but at a people, and at the very fundamental principle governing republican institutions. Some of them were bought with coin; some were bought with promises; others were exercising a malice carefully concealed during their candidacy but contemplated from the very instant of their promise of obedience to the will of the people and consummated when by their lying protestations they were successful in becoming delegates. These men will ever be in their remaining years shunned and abhorred by all honest people; the finger of scorn will ever be pointed at them; and they will walk in their communities marked as faithless and dishonest, breakers of obligations, traitors to their fellow men. Such men must not be permitted, because of their crime, to affect or destroy the rights of all the rest of the people. Their treachery must make us more firmly resolved that our people shall be protected in the future, that their right to choose those whom they desire shall not be abridged or destroyed by its betrayal.—Senator Hiram W. Johnson in August Sunset.

WHEN ALL ADVERTISERS demand their money's worth, all publications will provide circulation reports verified by the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

IT IS ONE OF THE MYSTERIES OF THE ADVERTISING world that while all manufacturers demand verification of weight and quality in the material purchased, some of them still buy advertising space without knowing what they are paying for.

SUCH ADVERTISERS, HOWEVER, ARE NOW EXCEPTIONAL. Most of them demand verified A. B. C. circulation statements before placing contracts.

IN THE CASE OF THE EAST OREGONIAN THE DEMAND is immediately met. The EAST OREGONIAN is a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.
