HARDING THOUGHT $1 ENOUGH FOR WHEAT *" DURING THE WAR!

That Senator Harding made a speech in the senate while the rood control act was under discussion and said that wheat should not be worth more than a dollar a bushel is clamed by David Lawrence, the syndicate writer in a story under a Columbus date line.

Mr. Lawrence in telling of the visit national committeemen to Ohio

"It was somewhat amusing to see the committeemen from far away states looking up Harding's record. This visit to Ohio gave them a chance to verify rumors which they had heard concerning Senator Harding's stand on public institutions.

"For instance, Sam Amidon, national committeeman from Kansas, a state which has had a grievance against the Wilson administration for fixing the price of wheat and not fix-against the Wilson administration for fixing the price of wheat and not fixing the price of cotton, discovered amid great glee that Warren Harding had made a speech in the senate, when he voted for the food control act, declaring in effect that a dollar was enough for a bushel of wheat.

This speech was printed and sent broadcast by republican opponents of Senator Harding in the presidential primary campaign this year in which Harding ran behind Wood, Lowden and Johnson.

The democrats collected ammunition eagerly. Another committeeman discovered that there had been a divorce in the Harding family, which to cast their ballots for Governor Cox, whose divorce suit had been discussed from political viewpoints at San Francisco and had been mentioned as a possible weapon by the republican party workers in the precincts where word of mouth argument is supreme.

Another committeeman had a copy of Senator Harding's record in the senate which tended to show that the Ohio senator was absent a good deal. Of course much of the value of this argument may be questioned for a great many people who don't think the talk fests are worth attending anyway may argue that the Ohio senator showed rare judgment by staying away.

The laws of congress must harmonise with the constitution, else they soon are stijudged to be void; congress enacts the laws, and the executive brahch of government is charged with enforcement. We can not millify because of divided opinion, we cannot jeopardize orderly government with contempt for law enforcement. Modification or repeal is the right of a free people, whenever the deliberate and intelligent public sentiment commands, but perversion and evasion mark the paths to the fallure of government itself. The laws of congress must harmonize world ideals, but I prefer to think of the ideal for America.

Much has been said of late about world ideals, but I prefer to think of the ideal for America. I like to think there is something more than the patriotism and practical wisdom of the foundling fathers. It is good to believe that maybe destiny held this new-world republic to be the supreme example of representative democracy and orderly liberty by which humanity is inspired to higher achievement. It is idle to think we have attained perfection, but there is the spiritying knowledge that we hold orderly processes for making our government reflect the heart and mind of the republic. Ours is not only a forment reflect the heart and mind of the republic. Ours is not only a for-tunate people but a very common-sen-sical people, with vision high but their feet on the earth, with belief in them-seives and faith in God. Whether en-emies threaten from without or men-aces arise from within there is some indefinable voice saying, "Have con-fidence in the republic! America will go on!" Here is a temple of liberty no storms may shake, here are the altars of freedom no passion shall destroy. It was American in conception American in the fulfillment. Sectional once, we are all American now, and we mean to be all Americans to all the world.

Mr. Chairman, members of the comitice, my countryen all: I would not be myself if I did not utter my consciousness of my dimited ability to meet your full expectations, or to realise the applications within my own breast, but I will gladly give all that is in me, all of heart, soul and mind and abiding love of country to service in our common cause. I can only pray to the Omnipotent God that service in our common cause. I can only pray to the Omnipotent God that I may be as worthy in service as I know myself to be faithful in thought and purpose. One can not give more. Mindful of the vast responsibilities I must be frankly humble, but I have that confidence in the consideration and support of all true Americans which makes me wholly mafraid. With an unalterable faith and in a hopeful spirit, with a hymn of service in my heart, I pledge fidelity to our country and to God, and accept the nomination of the republican party for the presidency of the United States.
