ARCADE TODAY

The Areade Theatre announces for today, the Universal's new productions, "His Diverced Wife," with Monroe Salisbury in the leading role.

"His Diverced Wife," is from the pen of Elmer Elliott Penke, and was produced by Universal under the direction of Douglas Gerrard. It is a story ut the Kentucky Mountains and will be remembered by many readers as a magasine story under the title of "An Altar on Little Thunder."

In the character of Ash Whippic, a young and rugged mountaineer who prides himself on the knowledge that he is the best blacksmith in the country, Monroe Salisbury has one of those

SUCCESS TO THE PHOTOPLAY

"Out of the Storm," adapted from Gertrude Atherton's "The Tower of Ivory," is the latest release of the Goldwyn Eminent Authors productions. Mrs. Atherton holds the enviable position of one of the foremost woman writers of contemporary fiction. She has studied the photoplay industry seriously and the result was her willingness to give her works to the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation for adaption, to the motion pictures. She recognized their possibilities and is now willing to devote some of her busy time furthering the development of this new branch of hostrienic art.
