TWELVE MEN NOW IN BOX MAY FORM JURY TO HEAR PLEAS FOR KERBY AND RATHIE

Three peremptory challenges by the defense and one by the state were exercised this morning in obtaining a jury to try Elvin D. Kerby and John T. Rathie, last of the jail breakers who escaped from the county jail July 25, with the killing of Sheriff T. Taylor by Emmett Bancroft, alias Neil Hart. Eleven veniremen were returned for cause.

When court was convened at 1:30 this afternoon there were 12 men in the jury box, accepted for cause, but not finally passed by the two sides. It was expected that a jury of 12 men would be ready to hear testimony this afternoon.

Eleven Excused.
W. T. McLeod, Athens farmer, Warren Keller, of Freewater, and J. S. Bentley, of Pendleton, were dismissed on peremptory challenge of the defense. Casper Woodward, Athens rancher, was the lone man challenged by the prosecution. The defense has 12 and the prosecution 6 peremptories in all.

The 11 men excused for cause all said that they had their minds made up or were prejudiced against the two defendants who went on trial today. They were: W. W. Harile, E. R. Terney, N. W. Mumford, George A. Cowl, J. A. Molstrom, Manuel Pedro, J. T. Laing, George Horn, Eugene McCuller, Herman Suhl and J. K. Doff.

Kerby's Family Comes.
Charles Bollen, of Toppensish, appeared as counsel for Kerby and E. J. Clark and P. M. Collier, of Pendleton, appeared for Rathie, having been designated by the court as his attorneys. Rathie is the only man of the five who has gone on trial with counsel appointed by the court. No friends or relatives have come to his assistance. 1,530.

The mother, wife and baby son of Kerby arrived today from Toppensish to attend his trial. It was the first visit they have made to the jail, although Kerby has been in custody since early in July.

Mrs. Kerby, like her husband, is in her twenties and the baby, a bright, brown-eyed boy, is not more than 18 months old. The defendant was allowed to talk with his family between lunch and the resumption of the trial this afternoon. The women did not go to the court room this afternoon but took a taxi and left for their rooms.

The trial was taken up this morning immediately following the sentencing of Stoop and Henderson. Their sentence followed the denial of a motion for new trial, made by Attorney E. J. Clark, who cited the following five points as his basis for a new trial: Irregularity in the proceedings, which prevented the defendants getting a fair trial; misconduct of the jury; accident and surprise; insufficiency of evidence to convict in first degree, and error in law.
