LOSS OF VETERANS IS BLOW TO OREGON TEAM

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Oct. 1.—With about two weeks' hard practice behind them the university football squad is getting in good shape for a hard season. "Shy" Huntington, head coach, is neither optimistic nor dubious in speaking of this season's chances. He is urging student support of the team as never before. Until more practice is done he will make no statement concerning the team's chances.

The loss of mighty Bill Steers and the probable loss of "Sneet" Mauer, who is a hard blow to the team. The graduation of a number of good men has also had a depressing effect upon the coaches. Anderson, right end; Ken Bartlett, tackle; Huntington in the back field, and "Bar" Williams, guard, are all out this year, having graduated.

The Idaho game is only a few weeks off and although school has hardly started much interest is being shown in the activities of the football squad.
