"LAST OF THE DUANES"
WITH WILLIAM FARNUM
Those who love to see William Farnum in Western character roles will have another opportunity at the Arcade Theatre beginning today, when he will be shown in his latest Fox photodrama, "The Last of the Duanes," a picture of the popular novel by Zane Grey. Buck Duane becomes a hunted man after he kills a cowboy who has repeatedly threatened his life. He "jone wolf it," keeping away from civilization and raising with bands of desperadoes until his meeting with the girl whom he rescues. He earns a pardon through her and by running down a band of outlaws. The picture is fraught with stirring incidents and palpitating drama, according to report.

ALTA TODAY
DOUGLAS MACLEAN AND DORIS MAY STARS IN A SPARKLING COMEDY
Douglas MacLean and Doris May will be the attraction at the Alta Theatre today in their latest screen comedy, "Let's Be Fashionable." This picture is declared to be fully as hilarious as the three previous releases of these youthful co-stars, who have proven extremely popular everywhere. "Let's Be Fashionable" is the story of a young married pair with limited means and their efforts to keep up with the social swim at a swell summer resort. To be in style, both secure themselves "affinities" and get into all sorts of humorous complications. When they have at last extricated themselves from the mess, they decide that it is better to be happy than to be fashionable.

Wade Boteler, Norris Johnson, and George Webb are included in the supporting cast. The story is the work of Mildred Condit and was adapted for the screen by Luther Reed. Lloyd Ingraham directed the picture for Thomas H. Ince. It is a paramount Artcraft release.

IMPECUNIOUS LOT OF LAWYERS WIN DAMAGE DECREE FOR CLIENT

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 1.—(U. P.)—Lawyers would be considered an impecunious lot if they were to be judged entirely by a scene in which they recently participated in Circuit Judge Tucker's court here.

Attorney Henry McGinn was arguing the case of Florence Toostad young high school girl, who had sued the Portland Railway, Light and Power company for damages.

McGinn wanted the use of a silver dollar during his argument. He turned attorney "Pike" Davis. "Let me take a dollar, Pike," he said.

Davis went into his trouser pockets but he found no dollar. Then he tried his vest and coat with the same result. "Haven't got it, Judge," he finally admitted.

"Gimme a dollar, Billie," McGinn said to attorney William K. Farrell, who intervened in the case. He had no dollar. In desperation, McGinn appealed to attorney Frank Longeran, representing the traction company, saying, "Will you let me have a dollar Mr. Longeran?" After a search the latter produced four bits. "That's all I got, Henry," he admitted. "No good," snapped McGinn. But his eyes finally alighted on Lou Wagner, another representative of the railway company. Wagner had a dollar. McGinn grabbed it.

"Gentlemen of the jury," McGinn commenced, holding aloft the dollar. "This piece of money is worth fifty cents today."
