Pheasants Plentiful in Spots

China pheasants, the season for which opened on Sunday, were found plentiful in some localities and very scarce in others. Several hunters who went on the reservation or north of town did quite well but on Birch and McKay creeks not such good reports were heard. Many hunters went to the west end of the county and did fairly well although not all got their limit. Some who hunted ducks yesterday in the west end found no birds on the ponds in the morning and turned to pheasant shooting with fair success. The pheasant season is open all this week and until sundown next Sunday. Five birds in any one day is the limit or 10 in the rest of the season.

Weather More Favorable

Weather today was favorable for the farmers who still have not cut all their grain nor hauled in all their hay. The sunshine of yesterday and today dried the roads sufficiently to allow hauling and the grain is expected to be dry enough to cut shortly. There is still quite a bit of standing grain and weeds are growing rapidly in it. Some seeding has been done already and everywhere that harvest is over farmers are busy getting rid of their weeds so that they can seed. The ground is moist to quite a depth as a result of September's heavy rainfall and all indications at present are favorable.

Various things contribute to the appearance of age, but nothing accentuates it half so much as a badly corseted figure. This simple statement of this truth needs no emphasis; the figure tells a story that is apparent to all.

Your corset then should become your first consideration.

If you desire a corset that will fit you perfectly—give you utmost freedom—unhindered grace and correct style, we urge you to have a trial fitting of the MODART Corset. A trial fitting is far more convincing than the highest possible recommendations, for in no other way can you truly appreciate its style and comfort.

W. S. C. STUDENT GOES TO RESCUE RELATIVES, IS BEATEN AND ROBBED

SPOKANE, Oct. 4.—(A. P.)—After having been sentenced by the Poles as a bolshevik, robbed and beaten by Ukrainian bandits and held prisoner on many different occasions by bolshevik, Polish and Ukrainian forces, Herman Mackoff has returned to Spokane with his mother, two brothers and two sisters, whom he brought back with him out of the Ukraine. Mack-off, formerly a student at Washington State college, left here last February to rescue his relatives.

Taking a roundabout course through Germany, Mackoff, who is 22 years of age, joined the Polish army as an American newspaper correspondent. After three weeks with the Polish army, much of the time in the front line under fire, he made his way through Rumania and into bolshevik Russia.

Advancing Ukrainian forces captured him and, mistaking his American Legion button for the insignia of a certain "red" element, sentenced him to be shot with 27 others. By showing a passport he escaped the fate of the other 27.

With his discharge papers from the American army, which he told bitterate Polish and Ukrainian troops were his credentials as a Red Cross worker, Mackoff succeeded in reaching Bratislava, Ukraine, where his family lived. The townspeople, he said, rushed to meet him, weeping and crying. "Here is an American; he can bring us help."

Mackoff found his family clothed in burlap sackings, barefooted, lacking food and terribly emaciated from illness and under-nourishment, he declared. They reached Warsaw by short stages overland, and thence came through Germany and Belgium to France.
