THE SOUL AND THE SONG.
(By Frank L. Stanton.)

What thought the summer's faded, a winter's bleak and long,
Anytime is song-time if the soul be in the song!
The rivers ripple music where water lilies throng;
Any time for singin' if the soul be in the song!

Any time for singin'—the thunder of the strife—
In the love-dreams of the valleys, if the song's the breath of life!
The angels lean an' listen from the windows of the blue,
An' they'll shout in happy chorus, an' they'll kiss their hands to you!

CAUGHT IN HIS OWN TRAP

IN the story of Mr. Harding's "spokesman from France" we have one of the big flashes of the campaign and an incident that throws a light on the character of Warren G. Harding and his campaign methods.

The official stenographic notes from the Harding speech at Terre Haute, Ind., on Saturday, quoted Mr. Harding as follows: "Why, my countrymen, France has sent her spokesman to me informally asking America in its new realization of the situation to lead the way for an association of nations."

Those are specific words and they admit of but one meaning. Mr. Harding conveyed the impression and he doubtless meant to convey the impression that the French government had sent a representative to talk matters over informally with him.

Questioned by President Wilson as to his statement at Terre Haute, Mr. Harding "crawfished" as follows:

"I am sure that my words could not be construed to say that the French government has sent anybody to me. The thought I was trying to convey was that there had come to me those who spoke a sentiment which they represented to be very manifest among the French people."

In the language of Theodore Roosevelt there is but one word that fittingly portrays Mr. Harding's behavior and it is "short and ugly." The senatorial candidate has been squarely caught in his own trap. Making a demagogic appeal for votes he libeled the government of France and has publicly admitted the fact. The French government corroborated the statement that it has had no dealings with him.

In his explanation Mr. Harding does not even claim he was visited by any sort of a Frenchman. His statement on that point is vague. From all he says it may be he got his information from William Randolph Hearst, from Will Hays, Hiram Johnson or some other Frenchman of that type.

Mr. Harding has made a pitiful spectacle of himself but this incident is directly in line with the whole campaign against the League of Nations. The fight against the league from start to finish has been based on misrepresentation and falsehood. It is not surprising that pro league republicans are flocking to support of Governor Cox. Self respect leaves no other course open to them.

THE FIRE DEPARTMENT

MR WAILES' idea that the League of Nations is a fire department is good. In the recent big fire the United States lost $1,000,000 men (in battle) and the financial cost was 28 billions. Governor Cox favors averting such disasters in the future by uniting with a world fire department. Mr. Harding opposes the plan and favors relying on the justice of the peace in case another fire should get started. That's the case in a nutshell. If the Harding logic is sound, Pendleton property owners are mistaken in wanting a better fire truck. All we need is a fireman's helmet for Joe Parkes.

Louis Seibold, one of the country's foremost journalists, says a prominent Harding official at Peoria, Ill., told him that in Illinois alone $360,000 was being expended on keeping the colored vote solid for Harding and Coolidge. The same writer reports that in Tennessee and Kentucky Harding workers are promising patronage and social recognition at the white house in their campaign for colored votes. Is that the way to conduct an "America First" campaign for the presidency?

Milt Miller is not a professional elocutionist but he is a sincere minded, intelligent speaker who will talk fairly and insult no one. It will be worth while to hear him tonight at the Arcade.

The suggestion for a road from Helix to Wallula if any sort of a Wallula highway is needed is sound. Such a road would be of some benefit to Umatilla county and to Eastern Oregon and the cost would be light compared with the proposal for a highway from Umatilla to Wallula.

The Portland chief of police say that short skirts, etc., make women vampish. But Cleopatra wore a long skirt and she was reckoned as considerable of a vamp in her day.

If Major Whittlesley talks like he fought he will make them take notice.

Woman's rosy complexion cost $750,000,000 during the past year, it is asserted; no figures are available on what it costs men to shave but they have spent over a billion on cigarettes and cigars which of course are necessities.

SHERIFF TAKES STILL AND EMPTY KARO CANS

Between testifying before the grand jury and transporting prisoners to the state penitentiary at Salem in the past two weeks, Sheriff Jinks Taylor recently made a still hunt in the east end of the county. In the hills beyond Milton the sheriff located a deserted cabin and an abandoned moonshine plant, which had been in operation up to within a few weeks ago.

The moonshiners left plenty of evidence that they had been plying their trade but nothing incriminating. Dozens of empty Karo cans, syrup cans were found lying about the premises, indicating that this sweet corn preparation is being used in the manufacture of corn whiskey, instead of grains. The plant was sufficiently demolished by the officers to make it worthless for anyone who might choose to re-deem the equipment and move it to a new location.

BANKER HOLDS U. S. SYSTEM AVERTS PANIC

ROCKHILL, S. C. Oct. 19.—(A. P.)—The U. S. has one of the best banking systems in the world and "under it I never expect to see another panic," George E. Roberts, vice president of the National City Bank of New York, declared last night in an address before business men in which he analyzed the credit situation.

Mr. Roberts said the present situation is due to the "aggregate demand for credit by all the industries and all lines of business beyond the ability of the banking system to supply." Such conditions, he added, resulted from "the war; from the waste of capital and expansion of credit during the war."
