Penland, old residents of this city, and they met on that October day at the lava beds in southern Oregon. Tomorrow she leaves for Portland to remain, a youngster of five or six, while Claude and Clarence Penland were toddlers of three and two years, respectively.

"STUDEBAKER A WONDER CAR"

IRVIN S. COBB expressed his "Studebaker conviction," and likewise voiced the conviction of all owners of the new series Studebakers, when he coined the phrase, "The Studebaker is a WONDER CAR."

Cobb came West to rough it. He instructed his guides to show him the wildest and most out-of-the-way spots in Eastern Oregon in order that his thirst for wild game and adventure could be gratified to the greatest possible degree. The Big Six Studebaker was loaded to capacity—the occupants and luggage weighing over a ton.

Hauled Trailer Beside a Ton Load

Considering that this load was to be carried over the lava beds of Eastern Oregon—up the highest and steepest mountains—across miles of country covered only with sagebrush and badger holes—not the slightest semblance of a road being present in many instances—one would think that this sort of work ahead, a load of a ton would be sufficient, but in addition to this a trailer burdened with a further one-half ton was attached to the Big Six and that "WONDER CAR" with its marvelous motor carried the compound load throughout the gulleling hardships of the whole Cobb expedition without a hitch.

"The Studebaker Six Six is a WONDER CAR."—IRVIN S. COBB.

—Most generally read of all American writers.

"The Wonder Car" so graphically described by Mr. Cobb just as he completed his Oregon hunting expedition, expresses the sentiment of all Studebaker owners.

"This is a Studebaker Year."

CHICAGO, Oct. 26.—Wheat—Active buying credited to the seaboard was the outstanding feature in today's market and the response was complete. Offerings throughout the session were small with apparently no desire to press the short side while exporters are in the market and the country offering cash wheat sparingly. Only 25 cars of wheat were expected for today's market and the domestic milling demand was insufficient to advance premiums. Benefi-

UNFAIRNESS IN BALLOT ARRANGEMENT IS NOTED

A bit of unfairness in the arrangement of the ballot for November 2 is causing some comment here. The general spirit of the election laws calls for arranging names on the ballot in alphabetical order and such an arrangement is compulsory on the primary ballots.

However, on next Tuesday's ballot, the names of J. T. Llewellyn and Manuel Friedly are placed at the tail end of the Umatilla county legislative ticket, while on an alphabetical basis they should lead the ticket. It is contended by practical political workers that this arrangement is grossly unfair, if not illegal, and that it will work to the hardship of Messrs. Llewellyn and Friedly unless their supporters take care in marking their ballots.

The same unfairness is shown in the arrangement of the presidential ballot. Though alphabetically the Cox electors should be first on the ballot the Harding electors are given the preferred position.

No blame is attached to County Clerk Brown, who is said to have merely followed instructions from the secretary of state's office, which he is compelled to do. The feeling is held that some one in the secretary's office indulged in a bit of jobbery that is not in keeping with the spirit of the law.

In a speech at Milton Saturday night J. T. Llewellyn called attention to the discrimination shown and he was given a cheer that indicated resentment against such practices.

VETERAN'S JEWEL GIVEN DAMON LODGE WORKER

A veteran's jewel for 25 years' service in the Knights of Pythias was presented last night to J. M. Williams, of Damon Lodge No. 4. Mr. Williams was a charter member of Honor Lodge No. 67, at Lone Rock, Ore., before transferring here.

Five members of the local lodge were present at the meeting and social following, who have won this jewel. They were: J. J. Hamley, John S. Bentley, George W. Conitt, J. W. Maloney and Mr. Williams. James H. Gwinn, keeper of records and seal of the lodge, recalled this morning that the twenty-fifth anniversary of his joining the order fell on Monday. He was initiated October 25, 1895, and is in line for a veteran's jewel. Mr. Gwinn made the speech of presentation for Mr. Williams' jewel.

A reading by J. H. Morris, an address on "Service" by George L. Clark, and musical numbers by Fitcher's orchestra and McDonald's trio featured the social meeting, the first of a series of monthly entertainments planned by the lodge for the winter season.

'State-Wide' Telephone Service

Our efforts are constantly directed to the extension and improvement of "state-wide" telephone service. Large and small communities are dependent upon each other, commercially and socially. Good telephone equipment in the cities and towns of Oregon, with good construction and well maintained "long distance" poles lines and wires between mean their mutual convenience and profit.

The value of any telephone is proportionate to the number of other telephones which may be connected with it. In Oregon there are approximately 138,000 telephones connected with our system. Ideal telephone service means the prompt connection of any one of these with any other and the least possible loss in strength and distinctness in the conversations that follow.

Our entire plant is engineered and constructed with the object of rendering a satisfactory "state-wide" service sufficient in facilities available and with these facilities sufficiently maintained. For this purpose the telephone equipment must be better, local and trunk wires must be of proper size and type, and central offices and switchboards must have additional apparatus to accommodate and care for the long distance circuits.

Before the troubled period of the war we always aimed to maintain "spare" or reserve plant—that is, plant ahead of immediate needs, thus ensuring prompt and more satisfactory compliance with demands for service as they arose. During the war this reserve was exhausted as the materials we use were required and properly taken by the government and those industries given priority consideration.

With the reconstruction period, as is the case with all other lines of business, our problems have continued to an unexpected degree. We are still hampered by shortage of materials and delayed deliveries.

We realize the requirements of our long distance patrons. We have a comprehensive and well defined program designed to provide additional toll circuits sufficient to meet the present and constantly growing demands.

cial rains were reported in the southwest for the new winter wheat crop. The sea-board estimated the export business today at 1,500,000 bushels. Late in the day cash receivers reported that the advanced price has brought out a substantial increase in offerings from the country. When compared with other commodities the price of wheat looks very high and we think there will be a readjustment ere long although with small stocks and long receipts there may be more or less congestion in the December delivery, which we cannot consistently advocate as a short sale.

The action of the market would seem to indicate that accumulation is going on in many directions and ere long this will be reflected in resilient price tendencies. We lean toward the idea that the next movement of consequence in the standard rail and industrial shares will be towards higher levels.
