CLUB MEETING DELIGHTFUL

In welcome contrast to the chilling wind and sweeping raindrops out-of-doors, was the scene presented yesterday in the club room of the library where Current Literature Club members met as guests of Mrs. Thomas Vaughan and Miss Beth Smith. The rush of the river nearby was stilled by the crackling of a bright fire on the hearth and the sunny combining of red and yellow flowers with the yellow hangings of the pretty room was in pleasing keeping with the warmth of gracious hospitality.

The day's study was devoted to Dutch and Belgian literature and the following numbers made up the program: Solo, "Bring Back the Golden Days," Mrs. Charles Bond. Dutch and Belgian Literature, Mrs. Charles Marsh.

Brief sketch of Verhaeren and reading from Sunlit Hours, Mrs. J. R. Baker.

Reading from "The Betrothal" by Maeterlinck, Act I, Mrs. Norborne Berkeley.

Review of "Small Souls" by Cooper, Mrs. E. B. Aldrich.

A tea hour followed the study and tall green candles cast their glow over the table which was centered by a basket of ragged, flame colored chrysanthemums. Mrs. E. L. Smith and Mrs. Berkeley presided there.

MRS. BISHOP IS HONORED

Mrs. C. P. Bishop of Salem, former Pendleton matron who is being welcomed for a visit here, was complimented in a delightful way yesterday when Mrs. E. F. Wade asked in a group of old-time friends for her pleasure. A note of informality marked the affair and chrysanthemums and clusters of Oregon grape decked the rooms of Mrs. Wade's home. A buffet luncheon was served in the final hour.

LUNCHEON IS COMPLIMENTARY

The presence in Pendleton of Mrs. Bishop is the inspiration for another affair being given this afternoon, Mrs. G. A. Hartman having asked a few guests to luncheon at one. The list includes old-time friends of Mrs. Bishop, with covers laid for ten. Appointments of yellow mark Mrs. Hartman's table.

At a punch table where cakes were also served, little Miss Alta Dale and Raymond Reese assisted.

PRUNING SCHOOL WILL BE HELD AT ORCHARD

A pruning school, under the auspices of the Umatilla County Farm Bureau, will be held in J. P. Slover's orchard near Milton December 20 to 24, inclusive, to give instruction to Umatilla county fruit growers, according to announcement made today by Fred Bennion, county agent.

C. L. Long, O. A. C. extension specialist in horticulture, will be in charge of the school. He will meet with Mr. Slover, fruit inspector, E. P. Jensen, F. E. Wilcox, Milton Farm Bureau committee men and Frank Redden, of Benton, and explain various methods of pruning. The men will act as squad leaders for the demonstration.

Authorities in the east differ greatly on various methods of pruning and the school will give an opportunity to try-out different systems, says Mr. Bennion. The results of the pruning will be observed during the next three years. Mr. Slover's orchard has many full grown apple trees with considerable wood growth and in Mr. Bennion's opinion the orchard is well adapted to use for the pruning school.

Hanes, an examiner of the board's auditing department. Payment of a commission of 1969 on an order of $4990 to a ship captain at Portland, Oregon, was testified to by Hanes. The name of the ship was not given. The commission, he said, was paid to the Portland branch by a Boston ship supply firm.

"Unknown" Soldier Honored

France and Great Britain have paid the highest tribute to the thousands of dead soldiers who lie in graves marked "Unknown." The French buried an unknown Poilu and the English an unknown Tommy, both with military honors. Above picture shows the Poilu being laid to rest under the Arch of Triumph in Paris and inset shows English soldiers carrying the Tommy who found a final resting place in Westminster Abbey in London.
