ALL-COAST ELEVEN IS EVOLVED FROM CHOICE OF THREE NEWSPAPERS

Eight Men Given Unanimous Recognition by Writers in Portland Sports Sections and Two Are Picked Twice.

- All-Coast Selections: Muller, California, end; E. Leslie, Oregon, tackle; Majors, California, guard; Dunlap, W. S. C., center; Hamilton, Oregon, guard; Pelouse, Stanford, end; Steers, Oregon, quarterback; Templeton, Stanford, halfback; Spratt, California, halfback; Gillis, W. S. C., fullback.

The season for all-star football eleven having had its inning with the issuance of Sunday's papers, a resume of three representative selections leads to the conclusion that the 11 men named in the foregoing would comprise an all-star football conference team.

George Varnell, Spokane referee and sporting editor; George Bertz and Harry Campbell, writing in Portland papers, were the critics whose selections were tabulated with the result that the eleven named was evolved.

Muller Unanimous Choice: Erick Muller, of the champion California Bears, was unanimous choice of the critics for the right end position.

Varnell names Muller's teammate, Herkey, for left end on the all-star team. He is not even mentioned by the other writers.

tion from Varnell and Campbell but can hardly be given the place. Faulk, had he not been ill most of the season, would probably have earned the place as left end, an honor he has twice before claimed.

Leslie Liked by All: E. Leslie, of Oregon, had no opposition for the position of right tackle. The big boy went through the season with a blaze of glory and deserved the place.

Captain Majors, California, was the class of coast guards. He is given right guard by three solid votes. Stan Mautz, of Oregon, is given left guard by virtue of two first team and one second team votes.

Backfield Choice Unanimous: No struggle over the four backfield places was necessary, for the four men chosen were in a class by themselves.

Spratt, of California, was one of the halfback choices. He turned in six touchdowns during the year, for 26 points and high man of the conference.

Gillis, of the Cougars, was unanimous choice for fullback. This big fellow plowed his way through every opposing line for yardage and in the Nebraska game was called on all three times to carry the oval over the line.

A lot of good men were denied first team berths by injuries or other misfortunes. The disarming of Roy Hanley, at W. S. C., cost him the honors of making an end berth on the all-coast team.

MITT GAME IS GOING IN BAKER WITH FAIR SUCCESS SAYS NEWS

Pendleton Neighbor Has Card of Local Talent That Fans Seem to Support and Dull Days May Revive It Here.

With football a memory and basketball a hope, sports fans here have little to look forward to in the next few weeks.

Over at Baker Wednesday night a couple of bouts were staged in the third round of a 10-round go.

The Baker boys pulled off two boxing and one wrestling bouts as their card, with some of the principals known over a wide territory.

Legion Card Lost Money: Being in Pendleton prove an expensive pastime for the boys of the American Legion, who staged the two cards recently cited here.

The high class talent of last winter and spring proved to be high priced and the legion added to its deficit several times by the cost of red ink it was obliged to purchase after the card on July 2.

Had the fans here shown an inclination to support the legion in its efforts to put on boxing cards, this fall would have brought forth some entertainment by now.

Two teams drew letters as the result of Hanley's policy of giving new material a trial in games that were safe. Subs were used frequently and most of the boys who stayed out all season were rewarded by getting into play long enough to win an emblem.

BILLY KRAMER CHOSEN 1921 FOOTBALL LEADER

Billy Kramer last night was elected to captain Pendleton high school's 1921 football team. The election resulted from the vote of 22 boys who earned their letter playing with the 1920 Eastern Oregon champions during the season just closed.

The new captain succeeds Jens Terjeson, who will graduate in June. The retiring captain was one of the most consistent ground gainers all season that the local team has shown in years.
