FILLED WITH BEAUTY IS THE FOREST SET IN "HER HUSBAND'S FRIEND"

One of the many interesting incidents of "Her Husband's Friend," Enid Bennett's new Paramount photoplay, called for a scenic background of weird and vivid beauty and the set designed and built by the Thomas H. Ince Architectural Department, is one of the most unusual ever constructed. It suggests the depths and mystery of the forest, and the shadowy creepiness of a cave, without actually being a literal photograph of trees and rocks. Indeed, it can more fittingly be called descriptive scenery than mere background. It bears the same relation to the actors, as the music of the orchestra does to the singers. It suggests and carries on the note of suspense and awe, which is the keynote of this particular incident.

From both a scenic and picturesque point of view, the setting is considered one of the most elaborate and vivid ever produced in a studio. It was built from a series of charcoal sketches, and although it is a great structural achievement, being nearly a hundred feet in length, it is also decidedly noteworthy as an artistic triumph unusual ever constructed. It

World's Biggest Locomotive

CHICAGO—The world's most powerful electric locomotive is on exhibition at the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Terminal here. It is 88 feet long, has 4200 horse-power, can pull a train 65 miles an hour and cost $112,000. It is the latest step from the first steam locomotive of 90 years ago. The contrast can be seen by the two photographs.

Charles H. Kwon and John Heywood, Art and Scenery Heads of the Thomas H. Ince Studios, are responsible for the richness of the setting. "Her Husband's Friend," will be presented at the Alta Theatre, beginning today. Tow Chatterton plays opposite Miss Bennett.

PLAYERS SHOWN BY FLEET IN "THE FLAMING CLUE"

How well do you know moving picture players? In "The Flaming Clue," which will be shown at the Pastime theatre today, several of the actors are introduced by their feet. You see feet hurrying along the ground or over bridges. Other scenes are photographed in the dark, with a beam of a lime light. Again the spectator sees the light of a flash lamp warning its way along the corridor of an underground passage.

It is a story of mystery and one that will enable the movie fan to test his ability at identifying his favorite players by a part of the anatomy. Harry T. Morey has the role of a detective in search of a band of counterfeiters who have a plant forty feet below the surface of the ground surrounding a lime kiln. Mr. Morey makes an excellent detective. He is of the type that become successful in this profession, a man willing to fight his way to success and face danger without a quiver. Van Besseler Dey, author of many detective stories, and who through many years of association with the police is able to give stories a touch of realism.

ARCADE TODAY

Announcement of the divorce of Mary Pickford, the divorcée and remarriage of Alice Joyce, troubles between Charlie Chaplin and his bride, Mildred Harris Chaplin, recollections of the divorce of Douglas Fairbanks, and other stories of matrimonial difficulties affecting the stars of filmdom, has again started the discussion as to why actors and actresses do not make successful life mates. The conclusion usually is that it is the fault of the individuals, that the lives they live make people of the speaking and screen stage lax regarding matrimonial obligations.

Matt Moore, one of the four Moore brothers who have won for themselves an enviable place on the screen, offers the theory that rather than laxness it is too high idealism that causes the failures of marriages among the actors and actresses of the screen. While Matt Moore has never married he has been in a good position to observe the things which lead to separation for all of his three brothers who have been married to screen stars and each one of them is once more a bachelor due to the divorce courts. Owen Moore was the husband of Mary Pickford, Tom Moore was the husband of Alice Joyce and Joe Moore was the husband of Grace Cunard.

"Don't Ever Marry" His Advice
Matt Moore advanced his theory in discussing the latest production in which he appears under the direction of Marshall Neilan, "Don't Ever Marry," which will be the attraction at the Arcade theatre, beginning today and naturally the talk turned to the unsuccessful marriages of his brothers. "I may sound queer," said Mr. Moore "but I really haven't a word of censure for any one of my brothers or any one of my ex-sisters-in-law. That they could not continue to be happy is the fault of the profession and not due to any individual short comings. Actresses and actors have married outside the profession and have become ideal husbands and wives. In the profession, however, the chances for happiness are small, for the simple reason that the attraction usually comes through the acting of the individual and therefore it is a false attraction.

MONTANA PIPE LINE BOTHERS BOOTLEGGERS

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Dec. 3.—(A. E.)—Professional bootleggers who are declared to have made fortunes transporting liquor across the Canadian boundary are perturbed by news from Washington, D. C., that the federal prohibition enforcement machinery of the national capital is turning its attention to the so-called "Montana pipe line" according to United States officers here.

With Great Falls as the mouth of the tunnel, the "pipe line" has three crossings from Canada. It is said by those in touch with the workings of the illegal traffic, which is declared to be well organized and to include hundreds of homesteaders, railroad men and automobile drivers. One reputed entrance is across the boundary at Sweetgrass. This route follows the Great Northern railway through Shelby, Montana, to Great Falls. The whisky is said to travel both by train, conveyed in coal or other heavy freight, and by automobile.

The principal "syphon" for the pipe line is said to be at a point north of Havre, Montana. A rancher living on the border, is said to have accumulated a fortune transferring whisky across the river by a home made aerial cable at a charge of $5 a case. From Havre al-

Nervous Breakdown

"I am so nervous it seems as though I should fly"—"My nerves are all on edge"—"I wish I were dead." How often have we heard these expressions or others quite as extravagant from some loved one who has been brought to this state by some female trouble which has slowly developed until the nerves can no longer stand up under it. No woman should allow herself to drift into this condition without giving that good old-fashioned root and herb remedy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial.

North East, Md.—"I was in ill health four or five years and doctored with one doctor after another but none helped me. I was irregular and had such terrible pain in my back, lower part of my body and drowsy each side that I had to go to bed three or four days every month. I was very nervous, tired, could not sleep and could not eat without getting sick. A friend asked me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I am sorry I did not take it sooner for it has helped me wonderfully. I don't have to go to bed with the pain, I can eat without being sick and have more strength. I recommend your medicine and you are at liberty to publish my testimonial."—ELIZABETH WEAVER, R. R. 2, North East, Md.

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was run down and nervous, could not rest at night and was more tired in the morning than when I went to bed. I have two children, the youngest three months old and it was drudgery to care for them as I felt so irritable and generally worn out. From lack of rest and appetite my baby did not get enough nourishment from my milk so I started to give him two bottle feedings a day. After taking three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt like a new woman, full of life and energy. It is a pleasure to care for my children, and I am very happy with them and feel fine. I nurse my baby exclusively again, and can't say too much for your medicine."—Mrs. A. L. MILLER, 2633 E. 24th St., Minneapolis, Minn.

ternate means of transportation are afforded by railroad or automobile highway to Great Falls.

The third route for the transportation of liquor across the line, is said to be at Portal, in North Dakota. Confiscation of automobiles has failed to curtail the traffic. Fast motor cars, with sheet iron plates hung over them to deflect bullets, now travel in bunches of three, according to the prohibition enforcement men. The front car is a pathfinder and "trouble hunter." It carries nothing but a party of tourists. The middle car is the carrier and is usually loaded with as many cases of whisky as it can carry. The back car is a lookout, to prevent enforcement officers in their faster cars from coming up from behind.

So great has the traffic become, it is said, and so large the quantity of smuggled liquor been, that many men arrested for moonshining have complained that Canadian bottled goods can be obtained cheaper than they can manufacture and sell their illicit liquor.
