VICTORY ON PAVE IS CELEBRATED IN FIUME

FIUME, Dec. 2.—(A. P.)—The anniversary of the Italian victory on the Piave was celebrated here just before the recent siege by government forces, by a great demonstration in which the whole population of Fiume, both military and civilian, participated. It began at the "Monument of the Anchor," a marble base, like an altar, supporting the anchor which belonged to the first Italian warship to put into the port of Fiume after the war. All Fiume's manifestations center there, as in ancient Rome they centered at the capitol and in modern Rome at the altar on the monument to Victor Emmanuel.

Every man, woman and child in Fiume seemed to be gathered around the monument, which was soon completely covered in flowers, while officers, soldiers, sailors, arditi climbed up all over it, waving their caps and singing. There are any number of these songs written for the volunteers of d'Annunzio's expedition, such as: "Col siamo i disertori, ma non di Caporetto," ("We are the deserters, but not the ones of Caporetto," referring to Nitti's speech in the chamber when the news of the expedition to Fiume reached Rome, on which occasion he branded all d'Annunzio's men as deserters.)

Hundreds of flags were grouped artistically around the monument and about them gathered in a picturesque spectacle the different battalions of the arditi, wearing their red, blue and black flags, the officers with caps tilted at a rakish angle, reminiscent of their appearance of the "musquetiers" of the times of "D'Artagnan."

After several persons had spoken amid constantly growing enthusiasm, a procession was formed, which with flags and banners at the head, defiled throughout main thoroughfares of the city arriving at a bridge obstructed by thick barbed wire entanglements, the arditi delivered a sham attack upon it and on the run, the procession entered Susak, the Slav suburb of Fiume which lies on the other side of the bridge, and rushed through the streets, shouting and singing, waving their flags, caps and weapons, while the Slav population looked on with placid and unmoved stare.

d'Annunzio's men are all young and self-confident, strong and fit, enthusiastic and patriotic, devoted to their leaders, proud of Fiume, of Italy, of d'Annunzio, ready to fight and, if need be, to die for their cause. The majority are seasoned war-veterans, having fought throughout the whole of the world war and among their leaders are some of the most brilliant generals and officers of the Italian army.

SCOUT CRUISERS LAUNCHED.
TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 27.—Two more scout cruisers, later ships of the Omaha, launched here December 14, will go down the ways at the Todd plant here early next year. They will be named the Milwaukee and the Cincinnati. These scout cruisers, capable of 25 knot speed, are destined to dart at an enemy, inflict damage and escape. The navy department is keeping secret the details of their armor. The Omaha, Milwaukee and Cincinnati are expected to be as speedy as any warships afloat.

Offer Air Service Course.
SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 27.—Army air service work will be offered next semester in a course to be given at the University of Washington here under the direction of Major Henry C. Mullenberg, formerly commander at Rich Field, Waco, Texas. Students in the reserve officers' corps will take the work, it is expected. No actual flying will be done by students. They will get flying at a junior camp to be held during the summer months at Sacramento or Riverside, Cal.

BIG COUNTERFEIT PLOT FOUND
CHICAGO, Dec. 27.—(U. P.)—A million dollar counterfeit plot to flood cities of the middle west with bogus money has been frustrated by federal authorities who raided two plants, one in Chicago and one in Detroit today. Discovery was made through the arrest of George F. Choate and T. E. Tyler during a police roundup. A search of rooms revealed $25,000 in bogus bills.

CORRESPONDENTS FIND CONSTANTINE GENIAL

ATHENS, Dec. 25.—(A. P.)—King Constantine, in the uniform of a general of the Greek army, apparently still yearned from his trip home from Switzerland, called in American correspondents yesterday and gave them his first interview since he came back to Athens. He said he appreciated the courtesy of the American officials in calling on him.

Constantine said that, as far as he understood the situation, the Greek government would follow a conciliatory attitude toward the allies and that he did not expect a change in the cabinet at present. He smilingly shrugged his shoulders regarding the uncertainty as to whether the British and French ministers would remain in Athens.

"They don't know what they are going to do," he said. "Yesterday they expected to go; today they are uncertain. Maybe tomorrow they again change their minds."

"Princess Anastasia (formerly Mrs. William B. Leeds of New York) is now a recognized Greek princess," Constantine added. The king said he had talked with her yesterday.

Constantine impressed the correspondents, who had not seen him before, with his democratic and friendly personality. In his demeanor there was no suggestion of royalty. Constantine said Queen Sophie had been very sick during the trip from Italy.

Constantine said to The Associated Press: "I hope to go to Smyrna as soon as possible, but I do not expect to go there until after the meeting of the chamber of deputies, which will make possible the trip in the middle of January."
