BACHELOR DANCE DELIGHTFUL
A riot of red and green color, the scent of abundant evergreen, gay melodies of a string orchestra, and the merry abandon of nearly one hundred and fifty dancers created a memorable scene in Eggle-Woodman hall last evening when the Girls' and Boys' Bachelor Clubs entertained with their fifth annual ball.

Thoughts of fir, lightly touched with snow, lined the balcony and windows, red and green lattice work enclosed the orchestra box, and a great bell, fashioned of evergreens, caught up a myriad of red and green streamers which fluttered in a drop ceiling overhead. Ferns and floor lamps lined the hall.

The grand march was led by Miss Ruth Douglas and Charles Cahill, president of the Bachelors, and programs were presented to the guests by two gallant little gentlemen, Jack Wright and Kenneth Dupuis.

More of the gay streamers and a big crimson bell were suspended over a punch table in a near by alcove where a pair of little maids, Mildred Harvey and Etta Dale, presided.

During one number a big blue moon peeped over the balcony edge at the merry-makers, affording a pretty feature dance.

Patronesses included Mrs. W. H.

Dale, Mrs. Ed Dupuis, Mrs. I. U. Temple, Mrs. Emil Dohmert, Mrs. Anna Mortimore, Mrs. William Goedecke, Mrs. L. J. McAtee, Mrs. Day, Mrs. W. H. King and Mrs. Frank Saling.

Plans for the charming affair were laid under the chairmanship of Miss Ruth Douglas, Miss Iva Dale, Miss Lucille Saling and Mr. Cahill.

MISS ELLIOT IS BRIDE
Word has been received by Mrs. C. L. Woodward of the marriage in Portland of her sister Miss Maxine Elliot, to C. G. Crawford, former Pendleton man. The service took place at noon Saturday at the home of Mrs. William Ballard, and was the culmination of a romance of long standing.

News of the wedding comes as a surprise, however, as plans of the couple had not been announced. Miss Elliot went to Portland to spend the holidays and the decision to change the wedding date was made after her departure.

Athena is the former home of the bride and she is a well known and charming girl. Her husband, a mechanical engineer, is associated with the Packard sales agency in Portland where Mr. and Mrs. Crawford are to make their home. They are temporarily domiciled at the Carlton Hotel but after February expect to take a residence in the Rose City.

MISS SOUTHWELL IS BRIDE
At a 4 o'clock wedding service yesterday Miss Iva Southwell became the bride of George E. Sherman, the service being performed at the Presbyterian manse with Rev. G. L. Clarke, pastor of the church, officiating.

Mrs. F. E. Sherman, mother of the groom, and Mrs. E. A. Snyder attended the service. The bride chose a becoming costume of brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Sherman left for a short trip to Walla Walla after which they will be at home at the bridegroom's farm near Pilot Rock.

DANCING PARTY ENJOYED
The attractive home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Byers on East Court street housed a delightful gathering last night when a group of friends, guests of Waldon Byers, were asked in to dance away the evening hours. A holiday motif marked attractive decorations and the party numbered about twenty couples, many of the guests being students home from western colleges.

MOTOR TO WALLA WALLA
Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Woodward motored to Walla Walla today to bring back their children, Laura and Betty Jane who have been visiting there with their two grandmothers, Mrs. Sarah Elliot and Mrs. Laura Woodward, since December 24.

The family spent Christmas in the Garden City and the children remained for a longer visit.

WHEAT HOLDS OWN IN CHICAGO, CLOSING $1.71

Wheat in the Chicago market held its own today but in doing so showed strength, owing to lower opening figures. December, whose time is virtually up, closed today at $1.71 against yesterday's $1.69 1/2. March closed at $1.66 1/2, the same as yesterday, but hit a high mark of $1.70 during the day's bids. May wheat was off a quarter cent, closing at $1.61 1/2. Quotations, furnished by Overbeck & Cooke, are as follows:

LABOR LEADER SCORES BLACK AND TAN TACTICS

LONDON, Dec. 30.—(By Webb Miller, U. P. Correspondent.)—Lloyd George's course in Ireland was described before 100 delegates to the national labor congress here as "the word of a bully, backed by physical force," delegates representing 6,000, 600 workers, heard the black and tan policies denounced as the "meanest approach to a white guard ever seen in Britain," with a warning that they may some time be arrayed against labor in a class war—military against the working class. Denunciation of the black and tan forces as guilty of "unparalleled frightfulness" featured the address of Arthur Greenwood, secretary of the labor commission, which recently investigated conditions in Ireland.

The congress unanimously adopted a resolution demanding immediate inquiry into reprisals in Ireland with severe punishment for those found guilty.

SAYS CATHOLICS ARE DEPRIVED OF WORK

LONDON, Dec. 30.—(A. P.)—The Westminster Gazette's Belfast correspondent says the Catholic bishop of the diocese of Down and Connor has cabled Cardinal O'Connell at Boston appealing to the cardinal for aid for workers who have been discharged from their positions. The message said tens of thousands of persons had been deprived of their employment because they were Catholics.

Fully 50,000 Catholics in my diocese are now on the verge of starvation, the message of the bishop said.

DICTIONARY DIRECTS FATAL BOMB-MAKING

NEW YORK, Dec. 30.—(A. P.)—Declaration that he "learned how to make bombs from the dictionary" and that one of his home-made products killed a chum and probably fatally injured another boy and himself last Sunday was made by Herbert Braum, a Brooklyn youth, the police said.

Braum, who first claimed he had found the bombs at Bergen beach while hunting, confessed also, the police say, he had made other bombs and had "set them off" in an outlying district to "hear the noise."

The boys were in Braum's home unscrewing a piece of gas pipe, loaded with powder and cartridges, when it exploded, killing John McKenney Jr., 18 years old, and severely wounding Braum and Paul Clandow, 17.

RUSSIAN TRADE IS URGED ON HARDING

MARION, Dec. 30.—(By Raymond Clapper, U. P. Staff Correspondent.)—Restoration of trade with Russia, being urged on President Harding by many of his influential advisers, is being seriously considered as one of the proposed policies of the incoming administration. The reported cancel-
