

GO TO THEATRE

ARCADÉ TODAY
OPIE READ STORY
SCORES HIGH HIT

After many pictures of society intrigues it is with a sense of relief that one sees "The Jucklins," George Melford's new Paramount picture at the Arcade Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

This is a good, big clean picture. It deals with good old fashioned people and contains a million and one little bits of great human interest. Monte Blue plays the role of Bill Hayes, the lanky school teacher, Charles Ogle is Lan Jucklin, Mabel Julianne Scott is Guinea Jucklin, his daughter and the big cast includes Fannie Murray, Zell Cowington, Winter Hall, J. M. Dumont, Clarence Burton and a long list of favorites.

PASTIME TODAY
"THE SEA RIDER"
A STRENUOUS PLAY

Harry T. Morey had a strenuous time making the marine scenes for "The Sea Rider," his "Vivian" feature, which will be seen at the Pastime theater today. A big crowd was drawn to the eastern states while Mr. Morey was working on the feature, in which many of the scenes occur on a fishing smack. Just after the storm Mr. Morey bounded himself up in waders, tread home again and boarded a smack at Sheephead Bay, near Comox Island, New York. He navigated about the bay in rough and choppy sea trying his best to become seaworthy. It was no use. Harry T. Morey is too much of a fisherman to be nauseated in rough water. He enjoyed sailing in the water far more than he had ever enjoyed since the blood tingling through his veins and gave his cheeks a ruddy hue.

ALTA TODAY
CAMERA SKILL IN "SILK HOSIERY" IS AMAZING

The amazing skill of the artist and artisans of the modern motion picture studio, is evidenced in the unusual technique, as well as in a number of other scenes, in "Silk Hosiery," starring Enid Bennett, which will be shown at the Alta Theatre today.

In the prologue, Enid Bennett, in the role of Marjorie Bowen, a model's model, is seen day-dreaming amid huge volumes of romance and fiction. The books are six feet high and by means of clever photography, the characters materialize from between the covers, and trip before Miss Bennett like remnant heroes of old. The exaggerated size of the books, the diminutive characters, and the life-sized figure of Miss Bennett appearing on the same film make an interesting study of contrast, and a still more interesting achievement of photography.

"Silk Hosiery," written by Frank M. Danze, was directed by Fred Niblo, under the supervision of Thomas H. Ince.

MINER WAR IN WEST VIRGINIA RECALLS EARLIER STRUGGLES

Settlers of Old Fought With Indians, Then Moonshiners Held Sway, Now Coal Mining War Rages With Fury.

WILLIAMSON, W. Va., Jan. 7.—(A. P.)—Since the early days when first settlers from Virginia fought their way to the western country against bands of hostile Indians, Mingo county, West Virginia, and Pike county, Kentucky, just across its border, have been almost continuous battlegrounds.

Mingo county's latest struggle is between the coal operators and the miners, but after a series of outcroppings which attracted country wide attention, federal troops are maintaining order.

After the early settlers had disposed of the Indians, the moonshiners took the field and for years fought and sometimes vanquished the hated revenue agents, protected as they often were against attack in the high hills and deep valleys that cover this section. Then came the famous Hatfield-McCoy feud of the 80's and 90's which resulted in the practical wiping out of the McCoy family, and which caused two state governors to take a hand in its suppression. For some years after the feud the moonshiners again took the field, and although prohibition is now a law of the land, the "making of liquor" has never been given up entirely in these hills.

Still another chapter of blood was written in Mingo when efforts were made this year to organize the coal miners. An unhappy climax came about in Matewan, W. Va., on May 19, 1920, when in a fight in the streets ten men were killed, seven of whom were guards of a private detective agency, sent into the district to eject union miners from company homes.

Since the Matewan fight Mingo has been the scene of other disorders and railroad mining properties have been destroyed by explosives. Intermittent warfare between operators' guards and miners and their sympathizers followed in such proportions that recently Governor Cornwell, of West Virginia, called on the federal government for troops. When a provisional battalion was sent to Mingo, martial law was declared here and several other towns and villages.

In the meantime, miners ejected from company houses organized tent colonies, and hundreds of families are living in canvas homes in Mingo. This situation raised a question of sanitation.

In the clashes in Mingo the names Hatfield and McCoy have figured prominently. In the Matewan fight Chief of Police Hatfield took part and later was indicted for murder. His trial is pending. In the week following a McCoy on a lonely mountain road was badly wounded by an unidentified assailant.

These fights have caused old settlers to hark back to the day when the Hatfield clan, following the killing of one of their brethren, under the leadership of "Devil Oath." The story is told that twenty members of the clan, kneeling around a camp fire in the hills of Mingo county, pledged themselves to the absolute destruction of the McCoy family. As a result men, women, and children of the enemy found no mercy and the feud became known far and wide as one of the bloodiest in the history of the mountains.

Strange to say three of the detective guards who were killed in the Matewan fight this year were descendants of state guards and officers who were sent into Mingo in the early 90's to put down the feud.

With the federal troops in the section, the county, for the first time in many years apparently is in a fair way to obtain peace and calm.

All Mothers Will Find Use For This Laxative

Give Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to a constipated child and note its quick recovery.

In a growing family the subject of thought with the parents is how to keep the children healthy and happy, and what to do when they become ill. Most illnesses of childhood are the symptoms of constipation, such as headaches, coated tongues, flatulence, dizziness, loss of appetite and sleep, biliousness, etc.

You can surely feel safe in doing what tens of thousands of others do with good results, to give, according to the advice of the child, a small quantity of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Eight million bottles were bought last year at drug stores. It is America's favorite family remedy for constipation, indigestion and similar ills, and is especially suitable for children, women and old folks as it is so mild and gentle in action.

There is no secret about Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a combination of Egyptian Senna and other simple laxative herbs with pepsin and pleasant tasting aromatics. Druggists have sold it for thirty years, and a sixty cent bottle will last for months. Experienced mothers are never without it in the house.
