

People Here and There

C. W. Edgerton, typewriter man, who has been in the city for several days, left last night for Spokane in response to a hurried call from his brother. Mr. Edgerton's mother is very ill at her home in Spokane, the message said.

George Hartman made a business trip to Weston yesterday. While there he visited his cousin, Ed Wood, who recently returned after four years of army service spent in China. Mr. Hartman returned last summer after a visit to the Orient and the two compared notes. Mr. Wood is a brother of Clark Wood, editor of the Weston Leader.

Within the pages of the bound files of the East Oregonian of 28 years ago, there is a little story which relates that three mischievous youths, while loitering near the coal chutes of the O. W. R. & N. Co., caused some annoyance to a prominent citizen by throwing coal upon said citizen, likewise his umbrella. Kindness prevented the reporter of the days of 1892 from using the names of the culprits and his example will be followed today, but there is no harm in remarking that one of the boys is now president of the State Senate, another is mayor of Pendleton, while the third is connected with The Peoples Warehouse and is an example of propriety to his family of boys and girls.

Letcher Norvall and Edgar Norvall, of Helix, are in the city today.

W. H. Dale and Gunder Terjeson returned this morning from Helix, after attending a stockholders meeting of the Bank of Helix, of which they are members of the board of directors.

Ted Sherry of Helix, left yesterday on a business trip to Spokane. Mr. Sherry, who farms for Mrs. Emmett and Carl Kupers, is planning to build a 40 by 60 warehouse on the siding near Apex.

Happy Canyon bucks will line the wallets of a party of millionaires who will pass through Pendleton aboard the private car "Ideal" on No. 18 Sunday evening. This party of 10, which made the trip across the continent from New York to christen a new oil tanker for the Standard Oil Co., stopped in Pendleton long enough a few days ago while en route west to be equipped with heavier hats of the letter buck style. H. W. "Jimmy" Hicks, traveling passenger agent for the O. W. R. & N. Co., is here today to see that the party is well looked after on the trip over his end of the Union Pacific and is gathering a few souvenirs of Pendleton to present to them as they pass through. Mr. Hicks came from Portland on No. 18 last evening to look up business here.

He said he stole some suitcases and other articles which were reported missing. Wilson admitted having served time for larceny in Folsom prison, in California. He did three years and seven months there he said. He probably will be turned over to authorities at Walla Walla, for, while he was arrested on advice from Pasco the crime was committed in Walla Walla county.

Robbers to Go On Trial.
The trial of Jack Walton and J. W. Donohue, charged with the robbery of Thomas Campbell's merchandise store at Hermiston a month ago, was scheduled to be taken up this afternoon in circuit court, providing a verdict was returned by the jury in the Kerley-Hill case. ### SALVATION ARMY LASS SURPRISED TO SEE OWN FACE IN WONDER STORY

It's something of a surprise to see your own face looking into your eyes from a printed page, according to Captain Jennie Conrad, of the Salvation Army, who was started by a familiar picture today when she began her weekly work of selling "The War Cry," official S. A. publication. The picture of the Captain accompanies an appealing article entitled "A Wonderful Story," which tells of the repentance of Neil Hart, before he went to the gallows for the murder of the late Sheriff T. Taylor. The story is written by Lieutenant Lela Forest, formerly of the local post, and pays a tribute to the captain's work in bringing the criminal to an acceptance of religion, before he went to his death.

WALTERS WAS LAID UP FOR MANY MONTHS

Oregon Man Says Tanlac Relieved Him of His Troubles a Year Ago and He Has Been in Splendid Health Ever Since.

"More than a year ago Tanlac relieved me of a case of indigestion and rheumatism from which I had suffered for years and I've been enjoying the best of health ever since," said Samuel H. Walters, R. F. D. No. 1, Linnton, Ore.

"For more than ten years," said Mr. Walters, "I was in such terrible fix that words cannot describe the suffering I endured. I had to quit eating meat and starchy foods altogether and at times had to live on milk and toast or a little broth. Everything I ate would ferment and sour on my stomach and the gas would almost drive me distracted. My rheumatism always got worse following a spell with my stomach. Sometimes I could get along with the use of a cane, often I would be on crutches, then I would be laid up for months unable to work and at times couldn't even move myself. I went away for a change of climate, but it didn't do me any good. My sufferings were simply awful, and at times I was in such agony I felt like I just couldn't stand it any longer.

"I took all sorts of medicine but got no relief until I started on Tanlac. Although it has been more than a year since Tanlac put an end to the indigestion and rheumatism, I haven't had a sign of them since and am feeling just fine. All my friends ask me what put me back on my feet looking so well and I don't hesitate to tell them Tanlac did it. O medicine that will do as much for suffering people as Tanlac has for me is certainly worth recommending, and I feel it would be ungrateful of me not to do so."

Tanlac is sold in Pendleton by Thompson Bros.

INTEREST NOT SOUGHT ON FORGED TEEL BONDS

The Teel Irrigation District has not been called upon to pay interest on any of the $100,000 or more in forged bonds, issued by Milholland & Hough, defunct Spokane investment brokers, the books of Miss Grace A. Gilliam, county treasurer and ex-officio treasurer for the district, show. Miss Gilliam today checked over her records and found that the interest payments do not indicate that any interest coupons of the worthless duplicates have come to the office here.

Request was made by her today of the Spokane county district attorney's office, however, for a list of the buyers of the various bonds of the district, which were purchased, originally by the Spokane firm. There were $30,000 in bonds sold and probably $100,000 more forged, so the work of checking up on genuine and forged ones will be something of a task, Miss Gilliam says.

J. Frank Spinning, of Boho, secretary of the district, sank to Pendleton last evening and when shown his signature on bond No. 238, sent here by the prosecuting attorney at Spokane, declared it a forgery. Mr. Spinning expressed the opinion that the district would not be any the loser as the result of the bond house's actions. So far he believes, the district has not lost, because John B. Milholland, member of the firm who committed suicide when exposed, took care to pay the interest on the bonds delivered to James D. Callahan.
