

THE BOOK SHELF

All books here mentioned can be found in the County Library.

"To have just the book one wants, when one wants it, is and must remain, one of the supreme luxuries of life."

NEW BOOKS OF TRAVEL
Chase—California desert trails
"As always the author has captured the exact atmosphere, and the haunting charm of the desert has seldom been more vividly conveyed. In every way it is a travel book to enjoy."

France—Wanderings in Italy
"No other writer has so delicately suggested the enchantment of Italy and the spell it casts over the traveler as M. France, and no other leads the reader from the beaten track to such little-known sanctuaries of art and beauty. His love of nature and artist's eye for scenery are combined on every page with happy allusions and apt quotations that make the book an ideal guide for the educated traveler."

Frank—Our America
"No such magnificent attempt to interpret the spirit of this stupendous country in its history, its cities, its religion, its letters, its various ideals and races, in the great figure of the past and present—has heretofore been made. No one has succeeded to such a degree in showing the relationship of each one of the phases American social life to the others. In the summing of this giant America, Mr. Frank finds the indications of a strength and purpose that will lead it to as great a spiritual victory as the material victory it has won already. The author's style is powerful, rhythmic. And, while you may disagree with some of his reasoning, we believe that you will say, unqualifiedly, that

Gibbons—Paris vistas
"Paris is the most universally loved city in the world. It is the heart of France; the home of the gallant army of gaily uniformed, out-of-date soldiers, who pledged their lives that 'They shall not pass'; and then turned the retreat at the Marne into a glorious victory for France, and defended the world against the terrorism of Autocracy. It is the city of love and romance, of laughter and sometimes tears; of heroic gestures, vivid color and noble deeds."

LaMotte—Peking dust
"This is a book of memorable sketches of modern China, which gives at once the color and feel of the China of the Twentieth Century and lays bare the incredible bullying and robbing of a great but weak nation by the most strong nations of the world. Miss LaMotte has lived and worked in China, and she has enjoyed unusual opportunities of observation. The book is in the form of letters; and the style is intimate and easy and colorful, and yet marked by unusual fire, vigor and distinction."

Maurice—The Paris of the novelists
"This book is not merely one of literary illumination and anecdote, but also a very practical guide that should be of great service to Americans with a desire to grasp and comprehend the spirit of Paris and rural France."

Van Dyke—The Grand Canyon of the Colorado
"Hosts of people have visited and every one has read about the Grand Canyon of the Colorado, but no one can have written of it with as full knowledge, in as explicit detail, with as ample appreciation, or with quite the same power of communicating to the reader in all their poignancy the overwhelming sensations produced by this greatest of the world's wonders as Professor Van Dyke."

Wharton—French ways and their meaning
"An intimate, penetrating, brilliant study of the French, made by Mrs. Wharton, whom many regard as the foremost writer in America today and certainly the one most familiar with France and the French spirit."

BOARDMAN, Ore., Jan. 17.—Civic improvements are in progress in Boardman, Kennedy street between Newell Ave. and the Columbia highway has been opened to traffic and well graded. A block of lots owned by Wm. Finell, W. A. Goodwin and F. L. Brown bordering the highway have been leveled and Finell is building a cottage. On west Newell Ave. G. H. also taken place, the Boardman Trading Co., owned by Kingley and Co., of Hermiston has taken over the J. C. Ballenger hardware stock in the Archibute building and will open an Archibute building and will open a general merchandise business, thus using all the block except the bank corner. The Farm Bureau met in an important session last night. L. A. Hunt, county agent for Morrow, gave a report on the recent state meeting of the farm bureau and outlined plans now under way for co-operative wheat marketing in the central Oregon units. There will be a meeting to complete these arrangements at The Dalles next week. Mr. Hunt also referred to a campaign for membership under the new arrangements of affiliation with the state and national bureaus, and the company will be canvassed. The large crowd present was unanimous in its decision that the farm bureau was a good thing and that an investment of $5 could not be better made than by subscribing. Forest Supervisor Fuhs, of the Pendleton office of the U. S. Forest Service gave a practical talk on forestation of the project with special reference to wind-breaks and beautification. Messrs Matthews and Kirks, representing the cannery of Libby, McNeill and Libby of The Dalles, outlined a comprehensive program of fruit planting for cannery use, as well as one for early gardening for the Portland and Spokane markets. Following the Farm Bureau Meeting all adjourned to the community church where the ladies aid society had invited all to attend "their own birthday party." Cocoa and cake were served.

About $50 has been raised as Boardman's quota for the European relief.

operation started in Camberwell, a south London borough. An arrangement was made by which the office of works supplied the plans, material and supervision, while the local federation of trades unions supplied the labor and the borough council assumed responsibility for the finances. The plan worked smoothly and houses were built for 750 pounds apiece, a saving of at least 200 pounds, making a total saving to taxpayers of 400,000 pounds. This scheme may become the embryo of a state building department.

The financial difficulties connected with the housing problem have been responsible for the creation by local authorities of interest bearing "housing bonds" which are in some localities a fairly popular investment.

In the north of England, concrete houses have become popular, as machinery largely replaces man-power in their erection. In some parts of London, too, such houses have been built recently, owing to the shortage of bricks, the high rate of wages and other difficulties.

ONE MILLION DWELLINGS SHY IN GREAT BRITAIN

LONDON, Jan. 17.—It is estimated that London is short of 150,000 houses and premier Lloyd George, speaking in the house of commons, has placed the total house shortage for the whole of the United Kingdom at roughly 1,000,000. A house for rent notice board in London quickly attracts a crowd.

Housing is a department of the ministry of health and, by legislative act, local authorities are required to submit housing schemes. Thousands of schemes have been submitted, but progress has been very slow.

Perhaps the chief reason for this has been the economic factor. Houses which cost three or four times as much to build as before the war, cannot obviously let or sell at pre-war figures.

Nevertheless, according to government statistics some 60,000 new houses were started in 1920 and the number contracted for has risen during the year from 19,408 to 123,201.

One striking feature of the efforts to provide houses is a housing scheme conducted by the office of works, which was empowered to spend 6,000,000 pounds spread over 19 months. Its
